It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

REPORT.

Office of Factory Inspector, Albany, N. Y., January 24, 1898.

To the Legislature:

In submitting the Twelfth Annual Report of the Factory Inspector, attention is most respectfully directed to the statements and tables herewith given, and which treat of the most essential features of the report, comprising as concise and complete a statement of the work of the officers of the bureau, as it is possible to compile from the reports submitted by them.

It is most gratifying and pleasing to be able to report that for the first time in the history of the Department, a complete inspection has been made of all manufactories, bakeshops and mines in the State.

The value of a report of this kind lies wholly in its reliability, and the efforts of the Department have all been made tending to this conclusion. The statements and tables herewith submitted, are not compiled from inquiries sent out from the Department by letter, or from hearsay statements, but from the reports of the deputy inspectors made to the Department by them after a careful personal inspection and investigation of every place, mill, factory, workshop, tenement apartment, dwelling house, bakeshop, mine, or other business establishment which under the provisions of the statute they were obliged to visit and report on.

Under the provisions of section 2 of the Labor Law, which clearly defines a "factory," the inspectors were instructed not to inspect any place which did not afford employment to one or more persons other than the proprietor or proprietors. In consequence of these instructions, hundreds of places are omitted from this report which were formerly inspected and set forth in the annual reports of the Department as "manufacturing establishments." This interpretation of the law relating to manufactories was not however applied to any place which comes under the provisions of article 7 of the Labor Law, which relates to and deals with the manufacture of tenement made articles, or to article 8, which affects the products of bakeries and confectionery establishments, as the public interests must be carefully regarded by the inspectors when examining bakeshops; also factories and rear shops, tenements or dwellings where articles of clothing are made or in process of manufacture, irrespective of the number of persons found employed in them. We also desire to direct particular attention to the subject of the manufacture of clothing, statistics relative to which are given in a separate table showing the number of places, employes, etc.; also, a separate tabulation giving in detail the cities and villages in the State in which the clothing trade is carried on. It is most gratifying also for us to be able to testify to the willingness of employers in manufactories generally, not only to comply with the suggestions of the inspectors, but to extend a cheerful cooperation to them in their efforts to surround the workers with safer, better and pleasanter conditions. We also feel that we would be derelict in our duty if we did not acknowledge the hearty co-operation which each and every person in the Department has extended to us and the intelligent, zealous, conservative and uniformly courteous and cheerful manner in which each and every deputy inspector has performed the very critical and arduous tasks assigned him. It is quite impossible to present in any form a complete and full report of all the official transactions of the inspectors. For, so much of their time must of necessity be spent in labor which must be done, but still cannot be arranged so as to show specifically just what has been accomplished.

The following is a condensed statement of the work of the bureau for the year last past and ending November 30, 1897: Total number of separate manufactories inspected... 22,136 Total number of separate bakeshops inspected...... 3,828 Total number of separate mines inspected...... 230 Total number of manufactories, bakeshops and mines inspected twice or oftener during the year..... 2,959 Total number of places visited where none but members of family were found employed..... 1,117 Total number of complaints, compliances and other matters investigated, etc..... 1,124 Total number of personal notices served on owners, etc., of property affected by the provisions of arti-67 Total number of places visited and found closed, suspended, removed, etc..... 709 Grand total..... 32,170

Some of the foregoing statements deserve attention when compared with like statements made in the Annual Report of 1896. The total number of all orders issued this year as the result of 32,170 inspections, investigations, etc., is 48,329 against 85,500 orders in a total of 27,428 inspections, etc., in 1896. Again, in 1896, the Department instituted 59 prosecutions for violations of the law, while it was found necessary to take but two cases into court for settlement during 1897; of the 59 actions brought in 1896, 21 cases were acquitted, while 6 were pending when the report closed. The number of accidents reported during the past year is 1,234 against 710 in 1896. This increase in the number of accidents reported does not mean that more accidents occurred this year than last, but it does mean that the inspectors have been more thorough in their work, and, in consequence, employers are more prompt and careful about reporting casualties to the Department. This is very clearly shown in the character of the causes given which resulted in accident. The number of fatal accidents is the same as last year, but the percentage is much less for the total number of persons found employed. A marked decrease is shown in the employment of children under sixteen years of age. A total of 11,174 children under sixteen years of age was found employed and reported in an aggregate of 623,697 employes, or 1.78 per cent. against 2.25 per cent. for 1896, the totals being 12,100 children under sixteen years in an aggregate of 537,702 employes for that year. A marked decrease will also be noted in the employment of illiterate children, and likewise in the employment of children under 14 years of age. And, if these statements are compared with the results set forth in the report of the Department for 1895, it will readily be noticed that the work of the bureau grows more complete and thorough with each urring year's experience.

Last year we found it necessary to depart somewhat from the arrangement of the report tabulations of former years, owing to great increase in the volume of work. This year, again, we are obliged to make further changes in the arrangement of the tabulated report in order that we may be able to set forth all the transactions of the bureau in a single volume. The changes made last year seemed to meet with general approval and we trust those wrought in the present report will receive like favor.

COMPLAINTS.

There is not perhaps a single item in all the thousands of transactions of the Department which occasions so much annoyance and loss of valuable time as the one matter of complaints. Not one complaint in every hundred received by the bureau gives specific or even correct information. In cases where the complaint is specific relative to the matter complained of, very seldom is it signed by the person making the complaint. Upon investigation of a complaint, we often find that the whole basis of the charges made is malice. This is true even of persons who send in complaints in the name of some organization or union of employes. Some complainants make their charges general, implicating every person in the locality engaged in the particular calling or trade against which they are making complaint. The following is one of this character sent to the Department from Middletown, N. Y., by a person or persons signing the communication "The Bakers."

"Mr. O'Leary,

"Since the last call you made around Middletown and vicinity I haven't seen any improvement with the bakers. The hours are from 70 to 90 a week in all the shops. One baker employs a boy under 14. Another forces his employes to work 80 to 90 hours per week. Please attend to this at once, and oblige.

"Yours respectfully,

"The Bakers."

We sent an inspector to Middletown with request that he care. . fully investigate the complaint and report. The report of the inspector which was made after careful inquiry failed to sustain a single charge contained in the complaint. The boy mentioned was found to be eighteen years of age and employed with his father in a bakery. Another instance was an unsigned complaint about the failure of a company to pay its employes regularly each week as required by law. Upon receipt of the complaint we wrote the firm calling their attention to the matter, and a prompt and courteous reply was received from them in which the complaint was acknowledged to be true, and reasons given why it was true, and also giving assurances that the matter would be corrected within a very short time. Each week following we received an additional complaint bearing on the matter and also charging the Department with neglect of duty. We could make no reply for the simple reason that we did not have the name or address of the person making the complaint. Finally we were threatened with having the matter reported to the Governor and given to the public press. We could do nothing but await the fulfilment of the agreement of the company in the matter. We were advised that the agreement had been lived up to by the company and of course the annoyance from complaints ceased. In our remarks on this subject last year we made the following suggestion:

"If workmen, etc., would send their complaints or inquiries to the Department through the medium of their assembly or union, and state facts correctly and plainly, it would be more satisfactory to all parties concerned. No complaint should be sent to this Department which is based on malice or spite. The Department has nothing to do with personalities. Facts are what are wanted."

This suggestion seemed to have a fairly good effect, but in looking over such complaints as have been sent through the medium of an organization we find that while the information is specific enough, it is not always a correct or truthful statement of facts. A member of the Cigar Makers' Union of Brooklyn sent us seven complaints relative to violations of the tenement house law, and two in shop buildings in places in the city of New York. The complaint had been brought before the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn, and had all the appearance of a very serious matter. We caused a very careful and thorough inquiry and investigation to be made into each and every case with the result that not one of the complaints was sustained. Some of the places mentioned did not deal in cigars or tobacco at all; another place had been a cigar shop three years before; in two places men worked for themselves, making their own cigars in the rear of a small cigar store and each selling them in the front part of their places; and in both the shop buildings no violations of any kind were The cases above cited are by no means rare, extreme or isolated ones. They are a fair representation of the style of the majority of complaints received by the Department, and which can be found on file in this office at any time by anyone who cares to investigate. It is fair to say that the time of five inspectors is wholly wasted for the whole year in looking after complaints, and that not more than one in every five of such complaints are upon investigation sustained and found to be based on true facts. We often find one person in the same line of business as some other party, a neighbor perhaps, sending complaint to the Department, expecting that we will summarily and hastily bring the party complained of before a justice or judge on the charges submitted and in this way injure his rival in trade. When such vicious transactions are exposed through the medium of an investigation made by the inspectors, we feel that we would be fully justified in throwing all unsigned complaints into the waste basket and giving them no further attention.

We repeat our suggestion given last year, that no complaints should be sent to the Department which are based on malice or spite. The Department has nothing to do with personalities—facts are what are wanted.

CHILD LABOR.

Perhaps there is no subject which is so universally discussed as the one relating to the employment of young children, and very naturally so, for it is one which appeals to every kindly instinct of human nature. The advancement which the State of New York has made in the past dozen years in the matter of the care, protection and education of the children within its borders must be a very gratifying contemplation for every citizen who wishes and seeks for that higher plane of civilized and social advancement which can be obtained only by a careful training of the body and mind of the young. The passage of the first law in this State, which had for its object the restriction of the hours of labor of children employed in places which usually afford employment to young persons, was most bitterly contested; and the influence of employers and others was successful in preventing the enactment of such a law for a time. Curiously enough, it was the very class whose interest, it was said by those who opposed the passage of the law, would be most injuriously affected by itthe working people—who were the most earnest in their demands upon the law-making power of the State in their advocacy of the measure. They were the first to raise a protest against the inhuman treatment which was forced upon children of tender age; they kept up the agitation year after year until public opinion became so aroused upon the question that the Legislature of 1886, in obedience to the demands of the people, passed the first act which curtailed the employment of children in manufactories, and was known as chapter 409 of the Laws of 1886. At that time. New York ranked first in the employment of children, and we assert with confidence that to-day its manufacturing establishments rank first in the observance of the provisions of the law limiting the employment of children under the statutory age of fourteen, and of illiterate children below sixteen years of age. We cite one case of a firm which was then reported as employing 3,200 persons—1,200 of whom were below the age of sixteen years. To-day this same firm has on its pay-rolls 3,000 people and there are among that number only 181 children under sixteen years of age, no illiterate children and no child under the statutory age of fourteen years.

In treating this subject, we wish it to be borne in mind that we speak only from the standpoint of the Department of Factory Inspection and not in a general sense. This Department does not attempt to account for any conditions which may prevail in places over which it has no jurisdiction or control. No attempt is made at elaborative statements on the question. We set down a plain summary of facts as they are taken from the reports of the officers of the Department, who are charged with the duty of investigating this subject together with the many other matters which claim their attention. We do not suppose that there is any sane person who believes that the employment of young children can be wholly checked. To prevent the tendency to, and minimize the employment of young children below the statutory age, and of all illiterate children under sixteen years, seems to be the plain intent of the law in this respect. The Child Labor laws of the State of New York are not as broad as are like laws in operation in other States. Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio have much broader laws, but in no case are they more forceful or so fully observed as is the law in our State. If we would point out any deficiency at all in our present law it is against allowing children to work about and operate dangerous machinery. The Penal Code prescribes against the employment of children under sixteen years of age on such machinery, but authority is not vested in anyone to enforce the provisions of the code. In our opinion, this authority should be vested in this Department. The number of accidents reported to the Department of young persons who receive injury and sometimes injury which cripples them for life, while engaged in operating machinery, makes this suggestion reasonable. The Department has applied itself most assiduously to the duty of enforcing the provisions of the law relating to the employment of children. The Department has nothing to do with the matter of granting children's certificates. That duty, under the provisions of sections 70 to 75 of the Labor Law, devolves upon the various health departments throughout the State. The above-named sections of the law clearly set forth the manner in which this duty must be performed. It is the duty of this Department to enforce the law, and our duty is clearly defined in the act. The inspectors have not, and will not, accept a certificate as conclusive evidence that the child holding it is entitled to work; they make a personal examination of the child, on the lines laid down in the law, and if they find anything wrong, the certificate is taken up and the child turned out. The reason for this is that we have found, in a number of instances, that local influence was potent in securing a certificate, it being believed that the certificate would prevent the child from being further molested. In two instances we were obliged to threaten officers charged with the duty of issuing health board certificates to children with arrest, if they did not cease the practice of issuing certificates which were on the face of them clearly illegal. There can be no excuse for the issuance of an illegal certificate except that of carelessness or ignorance. The employer cannot be blamed for having such a child in his service. As a rule, em. ployers will not engage a child to go to work until a certificate from the Department of Health is first filed with them. In many cases, they refuse to hire any child under sixteen years of age, for, as they say, they do not want to be annoyed watching the children and keeping track of the certificates. The even application of the law and the policy adopted by the Department to treat every one alike is accepted by all employers as satisfactory, and to such a policy alone can be attributed the very gratifying results herein given on the subject of employment of children in manufactories The wisdom of the changes made in the in this State. Child Labor laws by the Legislature of 1896, and which were revised and corrected in 1897, is clearly shown in the application of the law as well as in the results obtained. The total number of children found employed by the inspectors in all manufactories in the State and who were legally entitled to remain at work, is 11,174. The total number of illiterate children reported—that is, children under the age of sixteen years who could not read and write simple sentences in the English language—is 162. The total number of children under the statutory age of fourteen years, found at work, was 139. The total number of all persons found employed is 623,697. The number of children under sixteen years of age, as compared to the total number of persons found employed, is 1.78 per cent., or less than eighteen children in every 1,000 persons employed. The number of illiterate children, as compared with the total number of children, is 1.45 per cent. The number under the statutory age, as compared to the total number of children employed, is 1.25 per cent. Seventy-five of the illiterate children and eighty-seven of the total number under fourteen years of age found employed, were at work in places where clothing was manufactured.

The careful attention which the health boards bestow upon the law is pretty clearly shown in the promptness and correctness with which they make reports to this Department each month. Of the 11,174 children reported by the inspectors as holding certificates, there are filed in this office 11,011 certificates showing but 163 missing or not yet having been sent in by the health boards. We regard this as a most satisfactory showing, and we take pleasure in acknowledging this promptness on the part of the boards in reporting on the certificates granted, for it is most helpful to this Department in answering inquiries from the inspectors and when necessary making comparisons regarding certificates found on file by them. It may be of interest to note the birthplace and nationality of the children to whom these certificates have been granted as shown by the certificates. There were granted to children born in America, 8,671 certificates, France 44, England 165, Hungary 70, Canada 178, Italy 255, Germany 564, Austria 143, Sweden 43, Holland 22, Russia 443, Scotland 32, Switzerland 25, Ireland 87, Brazil 3, Poland 140, Belgium 8, High Seas 3, Norway 11, Wales 3, Bavaria 3, Egypt 2, Bohemia 25, Arabia 1, Africa 1, Turkey 1, Argentine Republic 2, Greece 1, Roumania 23, European 32, Palestine 1, Finland 1, Spain 1.

HOURS OF LABOR.

Section 77 of the Labor Law deals with the subject of the curtailment of the hours of labor of women under 21 and males under 18 years of age employed in manufactories. This section of the law is clear and concise and leaves no doubt as to its intent. Ten hours shall constitute a day's work,—sixty hours shall constitute a week's work, nor shall such person be employed before six o'clock in the morning, nor after nine o'clock in the evening; neither shall they be required to work more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the whole number of days so worked. No overtime is permitted by the act except for the sole purpose of making a shorter workday on the last day of the week. And where overtime is worked for this purpose, in the evening and continued for a period longer than one hour after six o'clock, twenty minutes must be allowed the employes in which to get lunch. Many persons appear to think that the law relates to all classes of employes. The law applies only to males under 18 and females under 21 years of age. In our opinion there seems to be no good reason why there should be any age limit at all placed on the hours of labor of any working woman. The restrictive clause limiting the hours of toil to sixty per week should apply to all females irrespective of their age. Any woman employed at manual labor for ten consecutive hours per day and constantly employed, is performing a task beyond her strength, whether she is just under or over 21 years of age. The conditions in this connection which are recorded by the reports of the inspectors are very gratifying so far as they relate to factory work, the inclination of employers being to keep within the provisions of the statute. During the year the Department issued 113 orders to stop working overtime, with which orders 108 compliances were promptly received. In the eight cases which is the difference between the orders given and the compliances secured, we were earnestly requested to allow the rush of orders on hand to be finished when the matter of overtime would stop and no further extra labor would be required. When the large number of factories inspected is considered, it will readily be seen that the so-called abuse of excessive hours of labor does. not exist in this State and to-day there are none of the real abuses existing which were the primary cause for the enactment of this law; and in no case where we found a tendency or desire on the part of any selfishly disposed person to evade the law and to force his employes to labor more hours than are provided for in the statute, did we hesitate to apply such means as would check the violation. The greatest trouble met with in connection with the matter of hours of labor is in the sweatshops, where we find it most difficult to hold the bosses down to the limit, but constant watching and visiting, and the rigidity with which the Department applies the law, is rapidly teaching the sweater that obedience to the lawful requirements of the statute is cheaper and easier than evasion or opposition to it.

ELEVATORS AND HOISTWAYS.

During the year the Department found it necessary to issue 780 orders to properly guard elevators and hoistways, with which orders 657 compliances have been obtained. The number of accidents which occurred on elevators is 55, and 13 of these casualties proved fatal. When we speak of elevators we wish to be understood as referring only to elevators found in use in manufacturing establishments. With elevators in use in buildings other than manufactories this Department has nothing to do as it has no power or authority under the law to inspect or in any way interfere with them. The number of fatal accidents which have occurred in public buildings where a large number of people use the elevators, would seem to warrant the Legislature in amending the present law to the extent of conferring power on this bureau to extend its authority and power of examination to all elevators, passenger as well as freight, and such amendment should confer the additional power to examine the person who is employed to operate such elevator as to his capability and fitness together with an age limit for operators, which would check the wrong practice of employing incompetent persons either as to their knowledge or age. Ignorance and carelessness on the part of elevator operators is almost invariably the immediate or primary cause of elevator accidents.

FIRE ESCAPES.

In our report one year ago we pointed out the necessity of employers adopting methods which would aid employes in time of danger in getting out of a building where it necessary to do so by means of an outside fire We again urge upon both employers and employes escape. alike the necessity of heeding this suggestion; it is offered to them as the result of our experience, and for their bene-It is not an uncommon thing for inspectors to find in time of no excitement whatever, that employes are obliged to stop and think, and wonderingly look around them before they can point out the location of the escape, and very often they answer that they "don't know" where it is. We submit that this is a condition which should not be met with in a single instance. The exits to fire escapes should not only be entirely free of obstructions of every kind, but there should be an arrangement placed and fixed continually before the persons employed by which the location of the exits to fire escapes will be kept constantly in their minds. The very random style of fire escape which was being erected under the old plans, has caused us to discard them and adopt a slightly changed design, and we will endeavor to maintain, where it is possible to do so, a uniform style of escape throughout the State. We append a cut of the recently adopted escape with explanations. During the year the Department found it necessary to order erected 229 new fire escapes, 138 of which are now in position. Five escapes were ordered repaired and in forty-six cases balconies were ordered provided on fire escapes. Seventy-seven orders were given to provide drop ladders for fire escapes, and 159 to remove obstructions from passages to escapes. Five orders were given to change window shutters so they would not obstruct exits to escapes.

CASH PAYMENT OF WAGES.

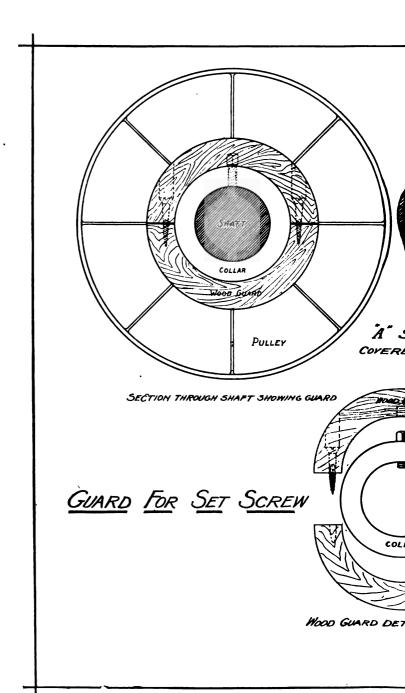

Sections IX to XI, inclusive, of article I of the Labor Law defines and regulates the payment of wages to employes. This law relates or applies only to incorporated companies, joint stock associations, their agents or the persons conducting the affairs or business of such concerns. Some little annovance has been experienced by the Department in trying to bring about such conditions between employers and employes, as the law clearly contemplates. It is a law which must be directed with great care and applied with impartial consideration or more injury than good will result to those whom it is desired should be benefited by the act. Men working for a minimum wage—or for any wage—cannot be blamed for desiring prompt payment of the wages which they have earned. The demands of those who may be dependent on their earnings for their daily needs and necessaries, must be supplied from the wages which their labor brings. It is a grievous hardship for poor men and their families to be obliged to wait from one to three months for their wages. Credit in the meantime must be secured of some one and this only adds to their burdens, for advance charges for the barest necessaries of life are the inevitable results of such methods. We have tried to direct the law with as much care and consideration as was possible, guided by the conditions found to exist after the most careful investigation of each case and complaint submitted to the Department. Occasionally the "company store" is met with, but only in back, out-of-the-way places where the business of mining or lumbering is carried on, and in every instance the old abuse of excessive charges is found to exist. The management say they do not force the employes to trade in the "company store." There is no reason to force them to do so, circumstances will do that, as there may not be another store within four or five miles of them. During the year the Department received and investigated 70 complaints against companies for their failure to pay employes weekly. All cases were closely investigated and 44 compliances with the provisions of the law were secured.

GUARDING MACHINERY.

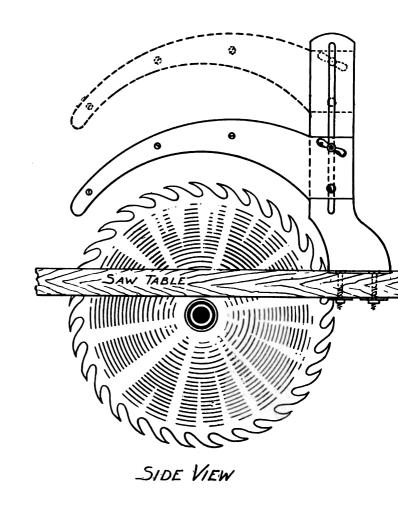

Every effort has been put forth on the part of the Department both as to carefully scrutinizing machinery of all kinds and insisting that guards shall be placed on or about the same where necessary. We have utilized our experience by putting useful suggestions into practical shape, thus aiding the manufacturer to do that which at first would appear to him a difficult and expensive task, but which, upon explanation of our suggestions and advice, reduces the labor and cost to a minimum. It is very gratifying to us to be able to say that the action of the Department in this respect has met with marked appreciation from manufacturers generally, and has been the means of not only securing a removal of the cause of complaint, but promptly so, and in the most cheerful manner. Section 81 of the Labor Law provides that "The owner or person in charge of a factory where machinery is used, shall provide, in the discretion of the factory inspector, belt shifters or other mechanical contrivances for the purpose of throwing on or off belts or pulleys. Whenever practicable, all machinery shall be provided with loose pulleys. All vats, pans, saws, planers, cogs, gearing, belting, shafting, set screws and machinery, of every description shall be properly guarded. No person shall remove or make ineffective any safeguard around or attached to machinery, vats or pans, while the same are in use, unless for the purpose of immediately making repairs thereto, and all such safeguards so removed shall be promptly replaced." Except in the matter of belt shifters and loose pulleys, it will be seen from the language of the statute above quoted, that no discretionary power is vested in the Department in regard to the duty imposed on "owners or persons in charge" of the places where "machinery of every description" is found in operation. In many instances, the Department meets with more difficulty and trouble in getting the workmen to use the guards provided for their safety and well-being, than it experiences in getting the employer to provide the protective or safety device called for under the law. In a number of cases we have been obliged to talk very plainly to persons operating machines on which the Department had ordered guards placed, and, in one case a warrant was sworn out against a workman who had removed a guard and refused to replace it on the machine when required to do so by the inspector. The workman was arrested and fined $20. This was a transaction which the Department entered into with great reluctance, and one which it does not wish to repeat. Workmen should understand that such proceedings on their part are radically wrong and also that it is the duty of the Department to enforce the law regardless of who may be hurt by it. Many objections are made to the Department against guarding set screws on overhead shafting, it being claimed, in almost every instance, that the shafting is high up, no one ever goes near it while shaft is in motion, the oiling is done when power is shut off, etc. These objections are valueless in the face of the fact that the accident reports filed in this office by the manufacturers themselves show that fifty-six (56) accidents occurred on set screws during the past year and in every case the accident occurred on overhead shafting. The fatalties resulting from being caught on set screws are greater than those which are reported as having occurred on any other piece of machinery or from any other cause. We have insisted that the deadly set screws be guarded and will continue to do so despite the objections made against compliance with such orders. It is with much satisfaction we record the fact that during the year the Department issued and secured compliances with 2,144 orders to guard machinery of various kinds, and exposed parts of machinery.

DUST-CREATING MACHINERY.

In no other portion of the work of the Department has greater difficulty been met with than in looking after and caring for dust-creating machinery. It is one of the most complicated matters with which the Department has to deal under the law. Conditions, circumstances, location, lack of power and attendant expense all combine to form obstacles in the way of securing a ready compliance with the suggestions of the Department, which, under the provisions of the statute, we are obliged to give to those using machinery. During the past year the Department ordered 180 firms to provide exhaust fans to carry off dust from dust-creating machinery, 89 of which orders have been fully complied with. Under all the delaying conditions, objections raised, etc., we feel well pleased with the results accomplished and compliances secured with this requirement of the law, more especially as improved conditions in these places were brought about with but little friction. Section 81 of the Labor Law gives the Department no discretion whatever in matters of this kind; the language of the provision is positive for it declares that "exhaust fans of sufficient power shall be provided for the purpose of carrying off dust from emery wheels, grind-stones, and other machinery creating dust." As in the matter of guarding machinery, we have had much trouble with workmen employed at grinding and polishing where emery wheels or belts are in use. Very many of these employes are piece-workers, and anything which interferes with them or acts as an obstruction to them in their efforts is annoying and distasteful; but, like workers on ether kinds of machinery, they will have to obey and observe the rements of the law. In large establishments which have in operation for a number of years and where no attention een paid to the requirements of the law in this respect, we find emery and polishing wheels scattered all over the plant, and a every floor, the wheels having been placed in out-of-the-way places and where it would be most convenient to connect them with line shaft for the purpose of operating them. Under such circumstances, to hood all such wheels is next to impossible, and induce firms to provide separate apartments, where all the ceels could be arranged in line for piping and hooding, is a task ich requires both patience and perseverance to accomplish, for recessitates much disturbance of existing arrangements and expenditure of considerable time and money, aside from the st of putting in the exhaust fan itself. In small plants there is en more trouble experienced in securing a compliance with the requirements of the law. Yet, in such places, the conditions are just as injurious to the health of the persons constantly employed, in the larger establishments. The proper construction of an exhaust system cannot be secured by having the work performed 'y an incompetent person who does not understand the principles the system as well as the method of construction. To get the best results with the least possible expense, the construction of an exhaust system should be placed in the hands of none but the most reliable and experienced builders engaged in such work. The size of the fan, the arrangement and size of the piping, the curving of elbows and the very arrangement of the hood itself over the wheel, are all of great importance to the successful operation of the system when placed in position. The Department has made and will continue to make every reasonable effort in line with its duty under the law to secure compliances in all places using dust-creating machinery.

VENTILATION.

The ventilation of workrooms in manufactories is a very important subject. So much so that the Legislature thought it wise when arranging the law on this subject to provide a special penalty for failure to provide such means of properly and effectively ventilating workrooms as the Department might advise. Section 86 of the Labor Law reads:

"Ventilation.—The owner, agent or lessee of a factory shall provide, in each workroom thereof, proper and sufficient means of ventilation; in case of failure the factory inspector shall order such ventilation to be provided. Such owner, agent or lessee shall provide such ventilation within twenty days after the service upon him of such order, and in case of failure, shall forfeit to the people of the state ten dollars for each day after the expiration of such twenty days, to be recovered by the factory inspector, ir his name of office."

The directions given to this Department by the Legislature, as contained in the above section of the law, are as clear, concise and emphatic as it would seem to be necessary to make them. The Department will endeavor to treat this important provision and section of the law with the same consideration, care and attention which is given and accorded to all other provisions of the statutes referred to this bureau for enforcement.

BAKESHOPS.

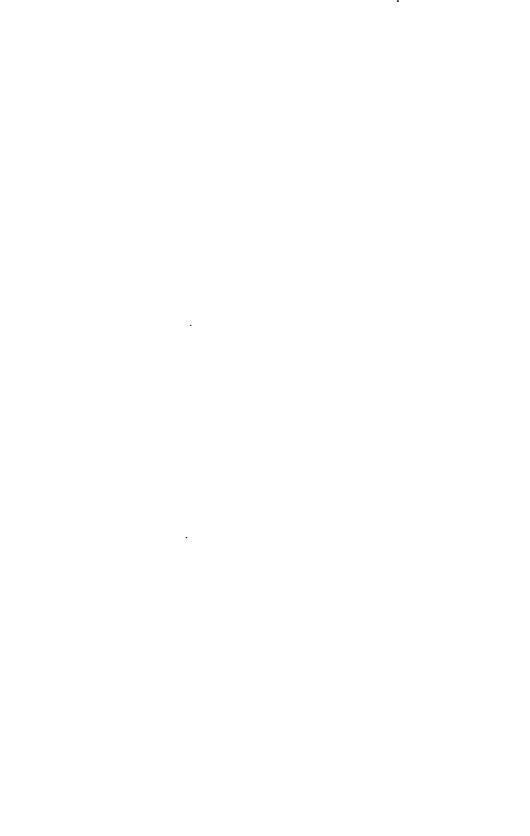

The reports of the inspections of bakeshops filed in this office, to the number of 3,828, all point to a vastly improved condition in every place where breadstuffs are prepared, baked and offered for sale. The Department has secured a full compliance with 9,000 orders of every description issued against bakeshops, as follows: Orders to reduce hours of labor to 60 per week, 253; to ventilate bakeshops, 1,106; repair plumbing, 79; clean, drain and disinfect cellar, etc., 90; make bakeroom eight feet high, 540; clean bakery premises, etc., 527; whitewash, paint, etc., walls and ceilings, 2,002; repair plaster, etc., 273; provide new floor, oil floor, repair floor, etc., 1,030; remove coal, ashes, refuse, etc., from bakery, 243; remove beds, etc., from bakeroom, 70; keep dogs, chickens, etc., out of bakerooms, 75; provide wash sink. gink flashing, etc., 513; clean, repair and provide toilets, 73; remove water-closets, etc., from bakerooms, 29; provide or repair stairs, 90; handrails on stairs, 452; guard machinery, 16; guard elevators, 14; erect fire-escapes, 2; clean and repair bread troughs, provers, etc., 38; repair roof, 20. We can not adequately and comprehensively convey, even in the above manner, a clear idea of the conditions sought to be eliminated as found existing in hundreds of places called bakeshops. But, by setting forth the above record, we do hope to be able to convey to your honorable body a slight idea of the justification for the enactment of the bakeshop law. Speaking from the vantage point which our experience in directing this branch of the affairs of the Department gives us, we do not hesitate to assert that it was wise and valuable legislation, and wholly in the interest of and for the protection of the health of the public in every city and village where a bakeshop is located or operated. Strenuous objections are raised in many instances against complying with that clause of the Bakeshop Law requiring that bakeshops shall be at least eight feet high. All manner of excuses are offered against this order by owners, agents, etc., of property rented or used for bakeshop purposes. We have not hesitated to extend a reasonable interpretation of the provisions of the act, and have accorded all possible leniency in cases where the conditions existed warranting us in so doing, and we could consistently extend such consideration owing to the circumstances surrounding the matter to which our attention was directed; but, despite every consideration given by the Department, constant watchfulness and repeated visiting by the inspectors is necessary to insure cleanliness; and even with such care and attention it is almost impossible to secure or keep in proper cleanly condition the Jewish and Italian bakeshops. Cleanliness and tidiness are entirely foreign to these people, and their bakeshops are like their sweatshops, for like causes produce like effects. In our efforts to secure cleanliness in bakeshops and to apply the law in a reasonable and just manner, the Department has had great assistance from the Boss Bakers' Association of Brooklyn and New York. They, as an association, tell us to go ahead on the lines of the policy which it was our pleasure to submit to them. They fully understand the injury resulting from a constant agitation before the public of the question of unclean and unsanitary bakeshops. They desire that such agitation should not continue, and they want the impression conveyed to the public that the product of the public bakery is just as wholesome, clean and pure and as fit for consumption as are like products coming from the hands of the cook or baker in a private family. Their earnest efforts to aid the Department are appreciated, and we take great pleasure in acknowledging that fact. In quite a number of instances the cost of placing a bakeshop in full conformity with the requirements of the law has been very great. shops have been renovated and remodeled; old wooden floors have been taken up and replaced with floors of cement; ceilings, side walls, etc., have received much needed attention by being cleaned, limewashed or painted; troughs, provers and all baking utensils are kept properly cleaned and stored. It is now a rare thing for the inspector to find a bed or water-closet within the confines of a bakeroom. We have insisted on cleanliness, even to the extent of requiring a baker to stop work until he had attired himself in clean clothing. The improvement which we record is verified by the cessation of complaints made to the Department. Much has been said by the journeymen bakers against the long hours of toil exacted of them. Their labor borders very closely on the task system. As everything is sold by the piece or the dozen, the value of a baker's labor is measured by the same standard. The work is very hard and exhaustive, especially when performed at night in closed shops, when the heat, steam and gases in the workroom make the air suffocating; under such conditions even ten hours' labor is most wearing and injurious to the men employed. No good reason can be maintained for forcing men to work for a longer period than ten hours per day. The keen competition between bakers tempts many to cut prices, and then the only way to get back the loss thus created is either by forcing the employes to work long hours or reducing the quality or quantity of the goods or product offered for sale. The public being quick to resent any imposition on it in the way of a poor article, the baker chooses the safer course and requires or forces his employes to labor longer hours than the law allows. This condition is reported to the Department oftener by a competitor than by an employe; and, when an investigation is made by the Department, and both the employer and employe are asked to state the number of hours worked per day, they both assert that but ten hours, on an average, per day, is worked. One denies the truth to retain his job, and the other does so to save his trade. The Department has had occasion to institute but two prosecutionsone in Brooklyn and the other in Buffalo. One was for working overtime and the other for failure to comply with other provisions of the law. Public interest demands the strict enforcement of the provisions of the Bakeshop Law, and the Department has not evaded its duty under the act. The number of bakeshops in the first and second districts, comprising the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Suffolk and Richmond, is 2,368. and 1,460 for the balance of the State as comprised in the counties outside those in the first and second districts.

MINING LAW.

The operation of article 9 of the Labor Law, which relates to mines and quarries, has been most satisfactory. The ready and cheerful co-operation which the operators and managers of mines have extended to the Department in nearly every instance in its efforts to eliminate from about such places everything which offered even the appearance of danger is very gratifying and not only is this co-operation noticeable on the part of the management, but the employes show by their actions that they are fully alive to the value of the efforts of the Department to remove the possible hurtful and dangerous conditions which almost constantly surround them. The greatly reduced number of fatalities among the operatives in mines during the last two years more fully attests the benefits which have resulted from State inspection and supervision than anything which could be said on the subject. And, the revision and corrections made in the Mine and Quarry Inspection Law by the Legislature of 1897 has made the law an act pleasing to both employer and employe. But two accidents, resulting in the death of seven persons, have occurred in the mines of this State during the past year. One accident occurred at Talcville, St. Lawrence county, in the mine of the United States Talc Company, and was caused by the falling of a large pillar which deprived six workmen of life. This deplorable accident was of such a character as to be wholly unavoidable. So far as human foresight was concerned it could not have been prevented. Every workman employed in the mine, from the superintendent down, was an experienced miner, and from the very closest investigation on the part of this Department, aside from the action of other officials, no act of carelessness or negligence could be traced to any person connected with the mine. We append the full report of the inspector and coroner's jury relating to the casualty. The other accident, resulting in the death of one man, occurred at the cement mines of A. J. Snyder & Son, at Rosendale, in Ulster county. We charge the cause of this accident directly to the unfortunate man himself. The man had charge of the blasting, and was an old and experienced miner. After drilling in mines it is customary to explode several holes at the same firing, and the cutting of the fuse by which each hole is fired has much to do with aiding the men to count each discharge. This man had a habit of cutting all his fuse at about the same length from the hole, thus making it possible for two, or even more, holes to be discharged at the same time. Only a week before the accident occurred the inspector advised this particular man to change his method of cutting the fuse, and suggested to him the propriety of cutting the fuse at different lengths, thereby causing the holes to discharge separately when the blasts could be easily counted, thus showing whether or not any of the holes had missed fire. To these suggestions from the inspector the man replied that he had been handling explosives for fifteen years and had never met with an accident; and, disregarding the sensible and kindly suggestions of the inspector he followed his own methods, meeting his death a week later in the very manner which the inspector had pointed out to him; the tardy explosion of a hole which it was supposed had discharged with the others. The rules for the guidance of mine employes have been revised under the provisions of the present law. And, it is gratifying to be able to record the fact that they are being very closely followed by all persons concerned and interested. We append the following table showing the conditions existing now as compared with those in 1896:

Number of mines in operation during the year	101	116
Number of persons found employed	3,322	4,008
Number of tons mined	1,663,858	2,189,883
Number of fatal accidents	8	7
Number of non-fatal accidents	7	4
Average number of employes for each life lost	415	. 572
Number of separate mines inspected	101	116
Number of orders issued	81	75
Number of orders complied with	32	64
Number of inspections of separate mines	210	230

Fifteen companies did not report number of tons mined in 1896.

Seven companies did not report number of tons mined in 1897.

It is most interesting and gratifying to record the increases indicated in the above table. Fifteen more mines in operation, 686 more men employed; 526,025 more tons of material mined; less accidents; more compliances with the orders and suggestions of the Department; and 20 additional mines inspected. Below we give the mine rules, etc., as revised.

Rules for the Guidance of Employes in Mines under the Provision of Chapter 415, Laws of 1897.

- 1. No employe shall ride or be permitted to ride on any loaded skip, car, cage or bucket, nor walk up or down slope or shaft while any skip, car, cage or bucket is above.
- 2. Pit boss shall carefully examine the hanging wall of all slopes, levels and working chambers daily, report any dangerous condition to superintendent at once and see that all loose rock or ore is removed.
- 3. Machine runners shall carefully examine and sound hanging wall at face working, and remove all loose rock or ore before proceeding to drill.
- 4. No employe shall handle any explosives or do any blasting except person or persons designated for that special purpose by the superintendent, and when a blast is about to be fired, timely notice shall be given thereof by blaster to all persons who may be in danger therefrom.
- 5. All explosives in excess of what is needed for one shift must be kept in magazine, and all explosives carried into the mine must be carried in a covered receptacle.

- 6. After blasting no person except the blaster or blasters shall be allowed in the part of the mine where such blast has been fired, until blaster has made a personal examination of the same, and pronounced all safe.
- 7. Whenever a shot misses fire no person shall be allowed to return to that part of the mine in less than three hours, unless blaster after a personal examination shall pronounce all safe.
- 8. When more than one hole is to be fired the fuse must be cut at different lengths, so that shots may be distinctly counted.
- 9. No iron or steel bar unless tipped with six inches of copper or other soft metal shall be used for tamping any explosive. When tamping dynamite or other high explosives, wood must be used in all cases.
- 10. Mine superintendent, or person designated by him, shall examine daily all mining appliances and see that they are in safe condition.
- 11. A code of hoisting signals shall be posted conspicuously in engine room, shaft head and foot of shaft, and all signals shall be given clearly and distinctly. No person or persons shall ride on any skip, car, cage or bucket unless the signal "men aboard" has been clearly given to engineer.
- 12. No person addicted to the use of intoxicating drink shall have charge of any explosives, boiler, engine or hoist, or be allowed in any part of the mine while under the influence of liquor.

By order,

Factory Inspector.

A. RICHARD KING,

CLOTHING INDUSTRY.

Although the Factory Inspection Department has for years been charged with the duty of enforcing the provisions of the law relating to the manufacture of clothing, still no definite information has ever been reported by the Department which would enable the public to judge of the extent of this branch of industry in the State, or of the number of people who follow the clothing business for a livelihood. The following figures have been collected and compiled with great care, all the work of the inspectors during the past year being preparatory to presenting as authentic a statement on this subject as it is possible to compile. The total number of factories, tenements, apartments and dwelling houses, etc., visited by the inspectors wherein they found clothing being manufactured or in process of manufacture in whole or in part, is 7,498 and the number of persons, young and old, found employed in such places from New York to Buffalo, is 98,395, as shown in the following table:

NUMBER OF PLACES INSPECTED.	Number of males.	Number of males under 18.	Under 16.	Females.	Under 21.	Under 16.	Illiterate children.	Children under 14.	Number of separate places in which orders were given.	Number of separate places in which orders were compiled with.

In presenting these figures we do not wish to convey the impression that all of the 7,498 places set down in the table are "sweating" places. In the table are enumerated the custom tailor shops found in every city and village in the State. Neither do we wish to be understood as classing such shops with "sweatshops." The table is arranged simply to give in a comprehensive manner the number of places, the sex and age of those found employed in the clothing industry without regard to the character of the work or the method of working. The Factory Department has, for its own convenience, divided the State into inspection districts, and each district is composed of one or more counties. When the territory comprising a district is considered in connection with the number of shops and the number of persons enumerated in the table, it is quite easy to see where the crowded conditions exist, and consequently where the "sweater" work is to be found. The first factory district comprises the counties of Kings, Queens, Richmond and Suffolk. Outside the city of Brooklyn no "sweat-shops" are found and only a very few tailor shops. The people engaged in manufacturing readymade clothing-no matter what their nationality may be-are, as a rule, employed together in one part or section of the city. Brooklyn has three sections wherein the clothing employes live and work. In all there are 973 shops in the city employing 12,543 persons, as shown by the reports of the inspectors. The largest "sweating" district is in the sixteenth and twentyseventh wards, in what is commonly known as "Dutchtown," the workers here are Germans, Lithuanians and Jews. The shops and places wherein they work are located for the most part on the following streets: Ten Eyck, Maujer, Meserole, Powers, Devoe, Bogart, Ellery, Melrose, Noll, Hart, Monteith. Stagg, Scholes, Leonard, Humboldt and Morrell, and on Flushing, Hamburg and Montrose avenues. Also on Seigel, Cook, Debevoise, Moore, Boerum, McKibben, Varet, Fayette and Garden streets. Brownsville is the next "sweating" district of consequence in the city, and the population of Brownsville is made up of Jews alone, they having left the crowded east side of New York city to take up their residence and vocation in this settlement. The third "sweating" district is located in what is called the old north side of Williamsburg in the fourteenth ward, and is confined to North Fourth, North Fifth and Roebling streets and Driggs avenue. The clothing workers found here consist of Italians and Lithuanians.

The Second Factory Inspection District is composed of the county and city of New York alone. In this district we find 5,091 shops and 66,500 workers, 75 per cent. of whom are Jews—about 15 per cent Italians and the balance is made up of Hungarians, Russians and English speaking men and women.

In the table for this district are included the number of shops, and the persons found employed in them, wherein are made coats, vests, pants, knee-pants, hats, caps (made of wool or of fur for men, boys or infants), cloaks and capes (for ladies or children), furs of all kinds, ladies' coats and vests, waists of all kinds, suits for men, boys and women, buttonholing, neckwear of all kinds, overalls, binding or trimmings used on clothing for either men or women, aprons and overcoats of every description. While many of the articles enumerated above can be found in process of manufacture in nearly every part of the city, yet very little notice is taken of such places outside of the great and much-talked-of east side, and it is to this section or locality that we must turn our attention. The district, where the "sweating" system so-called is virtually confined, is that section of the city contained within the locality bounded by Eighth street on the north, the Bowery on the west, Catherine street on the south and East river on the east. The population living within this territory, as gathered from the bureau of elections and the police department, is between 400,000 and 450,000 persons.

The Third Inspection District comprises the counties of Westchester, Rockland, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess, Ulster, Sullivan, Greene and Columbia. In this district we find but fifty-four shops engaged in the manufacture of clothing, in which places 6,060 persons were found employed. The Fourth Inspection District comprises the counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Schenectady, Saratoga, Washington, Warren, Hamilton, Fulton, Essex, Montgomery and Schoharie. In this large district we find only 185 shops in which clothing is manufactured, and employed therein 2,560 people. There are some Jewish tailor shops in the cities of Albany, Troy and Schenectady. The Fifth District is made up of the following counties: Jefferson, Franklin, Lewis, Clinton, Herkimer, St. Lawrence, Oneida, Oswego, Madison and Onondaga, in which we find 468 clothing shops employing 3,567 persons. The city of Utica gives employment to 1,316 people, and the city of Syracuse has 1,770 persons working at making clothing-leaving less than 500 persons employed in this business in all the territory embraced in the Fifth District outside of these two cities. The Sixth District embraces the counties of Delaware, Otsego, Chenango, Broome, Cortland, Tioga, Tompkins, Schuyler and Chemung. In this district we find only eighty-eight tailor shops, employing 1,128 persons. Seventh District comprises the counties of Cayuga, Wayne, Seneca, Monroe, Livingston, Ontario, Yates and Steuben. this district there are 468 shops employing 4,539 people in the clothing industry. Of this number of persons 4,019 are found employed in the city of Rochester, thus leaving but 520 persons so employed in the district outside of that city. The Eighth District covers the counties of Orleans, Niagara, Genesee, Wyoming, Allegany, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua and Erie. In this district 171 shops are in operation which afford employment to 1,399 persons; of this number of people 1,186 are found working in the city of Buffalo. This leaves but 213 persons employed in the clothing trade in the remainder of the Eighth District.

It will be noticed by the above statements, and by reference to the tabulation of places under the heading "Clothing Industry," that there are very few large establishments or factories, where clothing is made, in this State outside the cities above mentioned. The reason for this is obvious. Manufacturers can not compete with the "sweating" system and do business. In the Third Inspection District there are 6,060 employes; eleven hat factories employ 3,880 persons and four factories where wrappers, pants and clothing are made employ 1,338 people, leaving but 842 persons to be distributed among custom tailor shops and other small places in this district. These few factories which we find are typical of the American idea of doing business-just as the "sweat-shop" is typical of the foreign method of working. In the American factory you find everything in keeping with the American idea. First of all there is cleanliness and every accommodation provided for the health, comfort and convenience of the workman; no task system; wages by the day or week; work commencing and ending at certain hours; machines run by steam or other power and not by the crippling process of foot power used by the workers in "sweat-shops." The clothing manufacturer up the State, even though he employs the same method of production, can not successfully compete with his New York competitor. The clothing workers employed up the State, who are mostly Germans, and consequently a more intelligent, better and more reliable class of workers, can not stand the fierce competition of the east side workers in New York city, which competition is intensely aggravated by the surplus numbers and consequent poverty and abject wretchedness of those miserable people who try to drag a living out of the clothing business. The Department has applied the anti-tenement-house manufacturing law with a vigor and earnestness never known before. The inspectors have remained constantly on duty in the sweating dis-Objectionable conditions have been traced to their source and the person or persons responsible for their existence, whether tenant or landlord, have been obliged to correct the cause of complaint. Abuses found were not left to the elastic will of the "sweaters" (contractors) to correct. The cause of complaint was constantly watched, and by threatening to have recourse to the courts and to use the "tag," together with repeated visiting, the inspectors have forced the sweaters and all who have dealings with them to understand that there would be no toleration of the evils, consequent upon the system, permitted so far as the Department of Factory Inspection was concerned. Local influences — political and otherwise — have been appealed to by those affected by the orders of the Department, even to the extent of request being made by a representative of the workers to overlook certain things. But to all we gave the same reply — that we would do our duty as directed by the statute, treating each and every person in perfect fairness and just as the conditions found to exist in each case would warrant or direct. We have striven to avoid inflicting any unnecessary loss or hardship upon the unfortunate victims of this viciously pernicious system of employment. The Department has endeavored in every way consistent under the law, to aid the people engaged in this work in establishing better and more humane conditions - appealing to owners of property, to manufacturers and to leaders of organizations; but, so far as the contractors and many of the workers themselves were concerned no responsive effect was noticeable; on the contrary, there was a studied attempt at evasion and deception. The elimination of foul and filthy conditions from a place one week would be found to be aggravated ten-fold when visited the following week. The selfrespecting among the workers have noticed and commended the efforts of the Department to remove and keep removed hurtful or unsanitary conditions; but to those ignorant of the intent of the law, the efforts of the Department have been regarded as " oppression of poor people," and disregard of or enmity towards the provisions of the statute are the only result of this feeling. The great strike last spring of the clothing workers has lead to the belief that better prices prevail in the trade, but as a rule we do not find it so, at least, not to any great extent. While the busy season prevailed better prices were paid for work, but when the rush was over the manufacturers and contractors had their turn at striking, and in almost every instance the workers were forced back to the old standard. The prices paid in New York city for making articles of clothing seem almost beyond belief. It is claimed that the task system has been abolished; our information does not lead to such a conclusion. A scale of prices for day's work, with a stated number of hours per day, has been established, but to earn the maximum wage possible under this arrangement the amount and quality of work to be done in the specified number of hours make it possible for only the most expert workers to attain the reward agreed upon. While, if the worker fell short in either the amount or quality of his work, he was docked the difference. The difference between this and the "task" system is simply this: Under the "task" system a man had to finish the task assigned to him irrespective of the time consumed; under the new rules he must stop after working a given number of hours and is docked for the unfinished portion of the work assigned him. This method tends to relieve the boss or contractor of the odium of being called a "task-master." But, he reaps the full benefit of such a system just the same.

The contractor receives for making a fine beaver overcoat, $1; and for a poorer grade of coat, 60 cents; for best frock coat, $1; for sack coat, 30 to 75 cents, according to quality or grade. Pants are made up for as low as 7 cents per pair; a good, swift workman making 18 pairs in a day; a better grade will, of course, bring a better price. Makers of children's jackets work on a task system; an operator who can turn out 35 jackets per day can secure as high as $14 per week; this is a trifle less than 62-3 cents per jacket. Vests range from 12 to 25 cents each, according to grade, etc. Knee-pants bring from 4 to 8 cents per pair; these are the contractors' prices; the workmen receive less. Knee-pants, commonly called school pants, with double seat and knees, the contractor pays the workers for making, 6 to 8 cents; and for knee-pants, without the extra pieces they receive, 4 to 5 cents per pair. In Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo the prices paid by the manufacturer to contractors do not vary much, but are in advance of the prices paid in New York. contractor pays his help by the week. Women receive from $3 all the way up to $9, and men from $4 to $12 per week. These prices are a reduction from those paid two years ago. The work is mostly done in shops or rooms, separated and used only for shop purposes. Very little work is done in tenements or dwellings, in the above-named cities. Philanthropists and other humanely-disposed persons, and societies which are constantly discussing ways and means of relieving the congested population of the east side, make a mistake when they think that by flooding some other trade by their trade-school methods. they are curing the disease; far from it - for, by this process, they are spreading the contagion, forcing work-people in other vocations into discontent and trouble, and into the very same channel in which the clothing workers now are. This method is much like trying to keep a sinking vessel afloat, when the leak admits more water than the pumps will discharge. These ideas raise false hopes in the minds of the workers. This should not be done; the real situation should be placed before them and the truth told. The cause of the trouble among the clothing workers can never be cured until something is done to check the competition amongst the workers. This can be done in only one way - by stopping the leak itself. As long as this class of people is allowed to flock to the east side of New York, brought there by each incoming steamer, no colonizing or trade scheme will avail to relieve the situation. Stop undesirable immigration and in a short time a change will be noticed in the better prices which will prevail, for in the lack of better prices for the labor done lies all the trouble and cause for complaint.

The clothing cutters, who are supposed to be skilled workmen, who work for the wholesale trade on the east side, fare but little better than the clothing workers. Wages of cutters run as high as \$20 per week and as low as \$6. More often 6 than 20. A cutter who works by the piece on children's jackets has to cut as many as 200 jackets per day for \$1; on women's cloaks they receive $2\frac{1}{2}$ cents for beaver cloth and from 3 to 5 cents for plush cloaks. Up the State these low prices are hardly ever reached, except by apprentices on trimmings. The busy season amongst the clothing workers covers a period of from seven to nine months in each year.

ENFORCING THE LAW.

In our report made to the Legislature last year, we outlined the policy which it was the purpose of this administration to pursue. A year's application of that policy has proven the wisdom of the course therein outlined. The law, as revised by the Legislature of 1897, has been most helpful to this end. The original factory act, as passed in 1886, with the many amendments which were added year after year, was little better than a mass of contradictions, made so by the use of descriptive terms employed in an attempt to make plain the purpose of the act in these amendments, but they served only to confound what was intended to be many of its most effective parts. As arranged, the act of 1897 eliminates all this cause for complaint, and from its application we find the condensed law to be very forceful and comprehensive. The possibility of reaching and inspecting, at least once in the year, all the manufacturing and other establishments in the State, which the law directs and empowers officers of this Department to visit, has also been demonstrated; by this method the Department was able to reach and inspect 7,377 places which had never before been inspected; of this number we found 4,634 factories and 241 bakeries in the city of New York alone. In the counties comprising the first district was found 947 factories and 249 bakeries, and in all the rest of the State, outside of the first and second districts, was found 1,306 factories and bakeries which received their first visit from the factory inspector in 1897. Some of the concerns inspected were new, while the great majority of them had been doing business in their present location for years. In these establishments the inspectors found employed:

Total number of separate places inspected for first time.	Males found employed.	Males under 18 years of age.	Males under 16 years of age.	Females found employed	Females under 21 years of age.	Females under 16 years of age.	Illiterate children.	Children under 14 years of age.
7,877	68,118	1,718	474	24,878	6,711	689	42	114

During the year the Department has issued 48,392 orders of all kinds, and has received a full compliance with 40,648 of such orders. All important orders looking to the safety, comfort, convenience and general well-being of employes, both male and female, have been fully complied with. We attribute this splendid and satisfactory showing to the changed policy of the Department in its treatment of employers and property owners generally, and also in insisting that the deputy inspectors do their work thoroughly and well and in every instance without bias or favor; and requiring them also to exercise that care and consideration which the important duties intrusted to them demand, thus showing by the intelligent application of the law the desire of the Department, while insisting on guarding with all possible care the interests of the employe, yet extending to the employer every aid which under the provisions of the statute it was possible to accord. We have not appealed to the courts to aid us in enforcing the law, for we did not find it necessary to do so, as compliances with the requirements of the law were secured by less expensive and offensive methods. The courts have certainly had a rest so far as the Department of Factory Inspection is concerned, but not at the expense of the interests intrusted to the care of the Department. In the 1896 report of the Department we had occasion to say on this point.

"As factory inspectors it is our duty to enforce the laws intrusted to us. We are not responsible for the wisdom of these laws, nor the particular methods which the Legislature designates for their enforcement, but we are expected to use common sense in our interpretation and application of the statutes. We do not deem it wise to exert authority in an offensive manner. Patience and discretion in handling the work of the bureau will aid rather than injure the interests intrusted to our care."

The Department will continue operations on the lines of the policy laid down one year ago, feeling confident that the same pleasant, beneficial and satisfactory results will be obtained during the year now beginning.

FACTORY INSPECTION LAW.

As CONTAINED IN LABOR LAW, CHAPTER 415, LAWS OF 1897.

ARTICLE I.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 1. Short title.—This chapter shall be known as the labor law.

§ 2. Definitions.—The term employe, when used in this chapter, means a mechanic, workingman or laborer who works for another for hire. The person employing any such mechanic, workingman or laborer, whether the owner, proprietor, agent, superintendent, foreman or other subordinate is designated in this chapter as an employer. The term "factory," when used in this chapter, shall be construed to include also any mill, workshop or other manufacturing or business establishment where one or more persons are employed at labor. The term "mercantile establishment," when used in this chapter, means any place where goods, wares or merchandise are offered for sale. Whenever, in this chapter, authority is conferred upon the factory inspector, it shall also be deemed to include his assistant or a deputy acting under his direction.

ARTICLE V.

FACTORY INSPECTOR, ASSISTANT AND DEPUTY.

Section 60. Factory inspector and assistant.—There shall continue to be a factory inspector and assistant factory inspector, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The term of office of each shall be three years. The term of office of the successors of the factory inspector and assistant factory inspector in office when this chapter takes effect shall be abridged so as to expire on the last day of December preceding the time when each such term would otherwise expire, and thereafter each such term shall begin on the first day of January. There shall be paid to the factory inspector an annual salary of three thousand dollars, and to the assistant factory inspector an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars.

§ 61. Deputies and clerks.—The factory inspector may appoint, from time to time, not more than thirty-six persons as deputy factory inspectors, not more than ten of whom shall be women, and who may be removed by him at any time. Each deputy inspector shall receive an annual salary of one thousand two hundred dollars. The factory inspector may designate six or more of such deputies to inspect the buildings and rooms occupied and used as bakeries and to enforce the provisions of this chapter relating to the manufacture of flour or meal food products. One of such deputies shall have a knowledge of mining, whose duty it shall be, under the direction of the factory inspector, to inspect mines and quarries and to enforce the provisions of this chapter relating thereto. The factory inspector may appoint one or more of such deputies to act as clerk in his principal office.

§ 62. General powers and duties of factory inspector.—The factory inspector may divide the state into districts, assign one or more deputy inspectors to each district, and may, in his discretion, transfer them from one district to another. The factory inspector shall visit and inspect, or cause to be visited and inspected, the factories, during reasonable hours, as often as practicable, and shall cause the provisions of this chapter to be enforced therein and prosecute all persons violating the same. . Any lawful municipal ordinance, by-law or regulation relating to factories or their inspection, in addition to the provisions of this chapter and not in conflict therewith, shall be observed and enforced by the factory inspector. The factory inspector, assistant and each deputy may administer oaths and take affidavits in matters relating to the enforcement of the provisions of this chapter. No person shall interfere with, obstruct or hinder, by force or otherwise, the factory inspector, assistant factory inspector or deputies while in the performance of their duties, or refuse to properly answer questions asked by such officers pertaining to the provisions of this chapter. All notices, orders and directions of assistant or deputy factory inspectors given in accordance with this chapter are subject to the approval of the factory inspector.

- § 63. Reports.—The factory inspector shall report annually to the legislature in the month of January. The assistant factory inspector and each deputy shall report to the factory inspector, from time to time, as he may require.
- § 64. Badges.—The factory inspector may procure and cause to be used, badges for himself, his assistants and deputies, while in the performance of their duties, the cost of which shall be a charge upon the appropriation made for the use of the department.
- § 65. Payment of salaries and expenses.—All necessary expenses incurred by the factory inspector and his assistant in the discharge of their duties shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant'of the comptroller, issued upon proper vouchers therefor. The reasonable necessary traveling and other expenses of the deputy factory inspectors, while engaged in the performance of their duties, shall be paid in like manner upon vouchers approved by the factory inspector and audited by the comptroller. All such expenses and the salaries of the factory inspector, assistant and deputies shall be payable monthly.
- § 66. Sub-office in New York city.—The factory inspector may establish and maintain a sub-office in the city of New York, if, in his opinion, the duties of his office demand it. He may designate one or more of the deputy factory inspectors to take charge of and manage such office, subject to his direction. The reasonable and necessary expenses of such office shall be paid, as are other expenses of the factory inspector.
- § 67. Duties of factory inspector relative to apprentices.—The factory inspector, his assistant and deputies shall enforce the provisions of the domestic relations law, relative to indentures of apprentices, and prosecute employers for failure to comply with the provisions of such indentures and of such law in relation thereto.

ARTICLE VI.

FACTORIES.

Section 70. Employment of minors.—A child under the age of fourteen years shall not be employed in any factory in this state. A child between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years shall not be so employed, unless a certificate executed by a health officer be filed in the office of the employer.

- § 71. Certificate for employment, how issued.—Such certificate shall be issued by the executive officer of the board, department or commissioner of health of the city, town or village where such child resides, or is to be employed, or by such other officer thereof as may be designated, by resolution, for that purpose, upon the application of the child desiring such employment. At the time of making such application, there shall be filed with such board, department, commissioner or officer, the affidavit of the parent or guardian of such child, or the person standing in parental relation thereto, showing the date and place of birth of such child. Such certificate shall not be issued unless the officer issuing the same is satisfied that such child is fourteen years of age or upwards, and is physically able to perform the work which he intends to do. No fee shall be demanded or received for administering an oath as required by this section.
- § 72. Contents of certificate.—Such certificate shall state the date and place of birth of the child, if known, and describe the color of the hair and eyes, the height and weight and any distinguishing facial marks of such child, and that, in the opinion of the officer issuing such certificate, such child is upwards of four-teen years of age, and is physically able to perform the work which he intends to do.
- § 73. School attendance required.— No such certificate shall be granted unless it appears to the satisfaction of such board, department, commissioner or officer, that the child applying therefor has regularly attended at a school in which reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, English grammar and geography are taught, or upon equivalent instruction by a competent teacher elsewhere than at a school, for a period equal to one school year, during the year previous to his arriving at the age of fourteen years, or during the year previous to applying for such certificate, and is able to read and write simple sentences in the English language. The principal or chief executive officer of a school, or teacher elsewhere than at a school, shall furnish, upon demand, to a child who has attended at such school or been instructed by such teacher, or to the factory inspector, his assistant or deputies, a certificate stating the school attendance of such a child.

- § 74. Vacation certificates.—A child of fourteen years of age, who can read and write simple sentences in the English language, may be employed in a factory during the vacation of the public schools of the city or school district where such child resides, upon complying with all the provisions of the foregoing sections, except that requiring school attendance. The certificate issued to such child shall be designated a "vacation certificate," and no employer shall employ a child to whom such a certificate has been issued, to work in a factory at any time other than the time of the vacation of the public school in the city or school district where such factory is situated.
- § 75. Report of certificates issued.—The board or department of health or health commissioner of a city, village or town, shall transmit, between the first and tenth day of each month, to the office of the factory inspector a list of the names of the children to whom certificates have been issued.
- § 76. Registry of children employed.— Each person owning or operating a factory and employing children therein shall keep, or cause to be kept in the office of such factory, a register, in which shall be recorded the name, birthplace, age and place of residence of all children so employed under the age of sixteen years. Such register and the certificates filed in such office shall be produced for inspection, upon the demand of the factory inspector, his assistant or deputies.
- § 77. Hours of labor of minors.—A female under the age of twenty-one years or a male under the age of eighteen years shall not be employed at labor in any factory in this state before six o'clock in the morning or after nine o'clock in the evening of any day, or for more than ten hours in any one day or sixty hours in any one week, except to make a shorter work day on the last day of the week; or more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the whole number of days so worked. A printed notice stating the number of hours per day for each day of the week required of such persons, and the time when such work shall begin and end, shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place in each room where they are employed. But such persons may begin their work after the time for beginning and stop before the time for ending such work, mentioned in such notice, but they shall not be required to perform any labor in such factory, except as stated therein. The terms of such notice shall not be changed after the beginning of labor on the first day of the week without the consent of the factory inspector.

§ 78. Change of hours of labor of minors.—When, in order to make a shorter work day on the last of the week, a female under twenty-one, or a male under eighteen years of age, is to be required or permitted to work in a factory more than ten hours in a day, the employer of such persons shall notify the factory inspector, in writing, of such intention, stating the number of hours of labor per day, which it is proposed to require or permit, and the time when it is proposed to cease such requirement or permission; a similar notification shall be made when such requirement or permission has actually ceased. A record of the names of the employes thus required or permitted to work overtime, with the amount of such overtime and the days upon which such work was performed, shall be kept in the office of such factory, and produced upon the demand of the factory inspector.

§ 79. Enclosure and operation of elevators and hoisting shaft; inspection.— If, in the opinion of the factory inspector, it is necessary to protect the life or limbs of factory employes, the owner, agent or lessee of such factory where an elevator, hoisting shafts, or well-hole is used, shall cause, upon written notice from the factory inspector, the same to be properly and substantially enclosed, secured or guarded, and shall provided such proper traps or automatic doors so fastened in or at all elevator ways, except passenger elevators enclosed on all sides, as to form a substantial surface when closed and so constructed as to open and close by action of the elevator in its passage, either ascending or descending. The factory inspector may inspect the cable, gearing or other apparatus of elevators in factories and require them to be kept in a safe condition. No child under the age of fifteen years shall be employed or permitted to have the care, custody or management of or to operate an elevator in a factory, nor shall any person under the age of eighteen years be employed or permitted to have the care, custody or management of or to operate an elevator therein, running at a speed of over two hundred feet a minute.

§ 80. Stairs and doors.— Proper and substantial hand-rails shail be provided on all stairways in factories. The steps of such stairs shall be provided with rubber, securely fastened thereon, if in the opinion of the factory inspector the safety of the employes would be promoted thereby. The stairs shall be properly screened at the sides and bottom. All doors leading in or to any such factory shall be so constructed as to open outwardly where practicable, and shall not be locked, bolted or fastened during working hours.

§ 81. Protection of employes operating machinery.—The owner or person in charge of a factory where machinery is used, shall provide, in the discretion of the factory inspector, belt shifters or other mechanical contrivances for the purpose of throwing on or off belts or pulleys. Whenever practicable, all machinery shall be provided with loose pulleys. All vats, pans, saws, planers, cogs, gearing, belting, shafting, set-screws and machinery, of every description, shall be properly guarded. No person shall remove or make ineffective any safeguard around or attached to machinery, vats or pans, while the same are in use, unless for the purpose of immediately making repairs thereto, and all such safeguards so removed shall be promptly replaced. Exhaust fans of sufficient power shall be provided for the purpose of carrying off dust from emery wheels, grindstones and other machinery creating If a machine or any part thereof is in a dangerous condition, or is not properly guarded, the use thereof may be prohibited by the factory inspector, and a notice to that effect shall be attached thereto. Such notice shall not be removed until the machine is made safe and the required safeguards are provided, and in the meantime such unsafe or dangerous machinery shall not be used. When, in the opinion of the factory inspector, it is necessary, the halls leading to workrooms shall be properly lighted. No male person under eighteen years of age or woman under twenty-one shall be permitted or directed of Pt.can machinery while in motion.

- § 82. Fire-escapes.— Such fire-escapes as may be deemed necessary by the factory inspector shall be provided on the outside of every factory in this state consisting of three or more stories in Each escape shall connect with each floor above the first, and shall be of sufficient strength, well fastened and secured, and shall have landings or balconies not less than six feet in length and three feet in width, guarded by iron railings not less than three feet in height, embracing at least two windows at each story and connected with the interior by easily accessible and unobstructed openings. The balconies or landings shall be connected by iron stairs, not less than eighteen inches wide, with steps of not less than six inches tread, placed at a proper slant and protected by a well-secured hand-rail on both sides, and shall have a drop ladder not less than twelve inches wide reaching from the lower platform to the ground. The windows or doors to the landing or balcony of each fire-escape shall be of sufficient size and located as far as possible consistent with accessibility from the stairways and elevator hatchways or openings, and a ladder from such fire-escape shall extend to the roof. Stationary stairs or ladders shall be provided on the inside of every factory from the upper story to the roof, as a means of escape in case of fire.
- § 83. Factory inspector may order erection of fire-escapes.—Any other plan or style of fire-escape shall be sufficient if approved in writing by the factory inspector. If there is no fire-escape, or the fire-escape in use is not approved by the factory inspector, he may, by a written order served upon the owner, proprietor or lessee of any factory, or the agent or superintendent thereof, or either of them, require one or more fire-escapes to be provided therefor, at such locations and of such plan and style as shall be specified in such order. Within twenty days after the service of such order, the number of fire-escapes required therein shall be provided, each of which shall be of the plan and style specified in the order, or of the plan and style described in the preceding section.

- § 84. Walls and ceilings.—The walls and ceilings of each work-room in a factory shall be lime washed or painted when in the opinion of the factor it will be conducive to the health or cleanliness of the persons working therein.
- § 85. Size of rooms.— No more employes shall be required or permitted to work in a room or factory between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and six o'clock in the evening than will allow to each of such employes, not less than two hundred and fifty cubic feet of air space; and, unless by a written permit of the factory inspector, not less than four hundred cubic feet for each employe, so employed between the hours of six o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the morning, provided such room is lighted by electricity at all times during such hours, while persons are employed therein.
- § 86. Ventilation.—The owner, agent or lessee of a factory shall provide, in each workroom thereof, proper and sufficient means of ventilation; in case of failure the factory inspector shall order such ventilation to be provided. Such owner, agent or lessee shall provide such ventilation within twenty days after the service upon him of such order, and in case of failure, shall forfeit to the people of the state, ten dollars for each day after the expiration of such twenty days, to be recovered by the factory inspector, in his name of office.
- § 87. Accidents to be reported.—The person in charge of any factory shall report in writing to the factory inspector all accidents or injuries sustained by any person therein, within forty-eight hours after the time of the accident, stating as fully as possible the extent and cause of the injury, and the place where the injured person has been sent, with such other information relative thereto as may be required by the factory inspector who may investigate the cause of such accident, and require such precautions to be taken as will, in his judgment, prevent the recurrence of similar accidents.

- § 88. Washroom and water-closets.— Every factory shall contain a suitable, convenient and separate water-closet or water-closets for each sex, which shall be properly screened, ventilated and kept clean and free from all obscene writing or marking; and also a suitable and convenient washroom. The water-closets used by women shall have separate approaches. If women or girls are employed, a dressing-room shall be provided for them, when required by the factory inspector.
- § 89. Time allowed for meals.— In each factory at least sixty minutes shall be allowed for the noon-day meal, unless the factory inspector shall permit a shorter time. Such permit must be in writing and conspicuously posted in the main entrance of the factory, and may be revoked at any time. Where employes are required or permitted to work overtime for more than one thour after six o'clock in the evening, they shall be allowed at least twenty minutes to obtain a lunch, before beginning to work overtime.
- § 90. Inspection of factory buildings.—The factory inspector, or other competent person designated by him, upon request, shall examine any factory outside of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, to determine whether it is in a safe condition. If it appears to him to be unsafe, he shall immediately notify the owner, agent or lessee thereof, specifying the defects, and require such repairs and improvements to be made as he may deem necessary. If the owner, agent or lessee shall fail to comply with such requirement, he shall forfeit to the people of the state the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the factory inspector in his name of office.

ARTICLE VII.

TENEMENT-MADE ARTICLES.

Section 100. Manufacture of articles in tenements.— No room or apartment in a tenement or dwelling-house shall be used, except by the immediate members of the family living therein, for the manufacture of coats, vests, trousers, knee pants, overalls, cloaks, hats, caps, suspenders, jerseys, blouses, waists, waistbands, underwear, neckwear, furs, fur triumings, fur garments, shirts, skirts, purses, feathers, artificial flowers, cigarettes or cigars. No person shall be employed to work in a room or apartment of a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling-house at manufacturing any of such articles, without first obtaining from the factory inspector a written permit stating the maximum number of employes allowed to work therein. Before such permit shall be granted, an inspection of the premises must be made by the factory inspector. Such notice must be framed and posted in a conspicuous place in each room or apartment to which it relates. It may be revoked by the factory inspector if the health of the community or of the employes requires it.

- § 101. Register of persons to whom work is given.— Persons contracting for the manufacture of such articles, or giving out material from which they or any part of them are to be manufactured, shall keep a written register of the names and addresses of the persons to whom such work is given to be made, or with whom they have contracted to do the same. Such register shall be subject to inspection by the factory inspector, and a copy thereof shall be furnished on his demand.
- § 102. Goods unlawfully manufactured to be labeled.— Such articles manufactured contrary to the provisions of this section shall not be knowingly sold or exposed for sale by any person. The factory inspector shall conspicuously affix to any such article found to be unlawfully manufactured, a label containing the words "tenement-made," printed in small pica capital letters on a tag not less than four inches in length, and an officer finding such article shall notify the person owning or alleging to own such article that he has so labeled it. No person shall remove or deface any tag or label so affixed.
- § 103. Powers and duties of boards of health relative to tenement-made articles.— If the factory inspector discovers any of the articles mentioned in this article to be made under unclean or unhealthful conditions, he shall affix to such articles the label prescribed in the preceding section, and immediately report to the local board of health, who shall disinfect such articles, if necessary, and thereupon remove such label. If the factory inspector is convinced that infectious or contagious diseases exist in a workshop, or that articles manufactured or in process of manufacture therein are infected, or that goods used therein are unfit for use, he shall report to the local board of health, and such board shall issue such order as the public health may require. Such board may condemn and destroy all such infected articles or articles manufactured or in process of manufacture under unclean or unhealthful conditions.

§ 104. Owners of tenement and dwelling-houses not to permit the unlawful use thereof.—The owner, lessee or agent of a tenement or dwelling-house shall not permit the use thereof for the manufacture of any of the articles mentioned in this article contrary to its provisions. If a room or apartment in such tenement or dwelling-house be so unlawfully used, the factory inspector shall serve a notice thereof upon such owner, lessee or agent. Unless such owner, lessee or agent shall cause such unlawful manufacture to be discontinued within thirty days after the service of such notice, or, within fifteen days thereafter, institutes and faithfully prosecutes proceedings for the dispossession of the occupant of a tenement or dwelling-house, who unlawfully manufactures such articles in any room or apartment therein, he shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this article, as if he, himself, was engaged in such unlawful manufacture. The unlawful manufacture of any of such articles by the occupant of a room or apartment of a tenement or dwelling-house, shall be a cause for dispossessing such occupant by summary proceedings to recover possession of real property, as provided in the code of civil procedure.

§ 105. Copy of article to be posted.—A copy of articles five, six and seven shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each work-room of every factory where persons are employed who are affected by the provisions thereof.

PENAL CODE RELATIVE TO VIOLATIONS OF PROVISIONS OF THE LABOR LAW; CHAPTER 416, LAWS OF 1897.

Section 348-1. Violations of provisions of labor law.—Any person who violates or does not comply with:

- 1. The provisions of article six of the labor law, relating to factories and the employment of children therein;
- 2. The provisions of article seven of the labor law, relating to the manufacture of articles in tenements;
- 3. The provisions of article eight of the labor law, relating to bakeries and confectionery establishments, the employment of labor and the manufacture of flour or meal food products therein;
- 4. The provisions of article eleven of the labor law, relating to mercantile establishments, and the employment of women and children therein is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for a first offense by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than one hundred dollars; for a second offense by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; for a third offense by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

WEEKLY PAYMENT LAW.

As Contained in Labor Law, Chapter 415, Laws of 1897.

Section 9. Cash payment of wages.— Every manufacturing, mining, quarrying, mercantile, railroad, street railway, canal, steamboat, telegraph and telephone company, every express company, and every water company, not municipal, shall pay to each employe engaged in its business the wages earned by him in cash. No such company or corporation shall pay its employes in scrip, commonly known as store money orders.

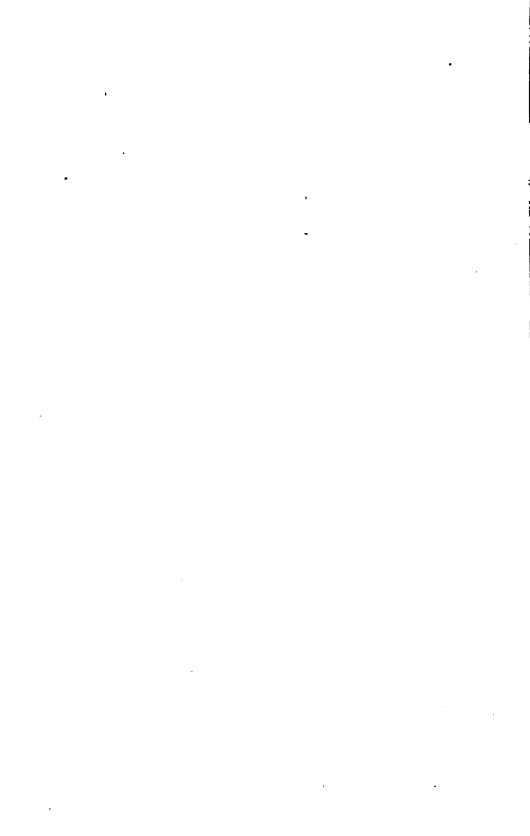

- § 10. When wages are to be paid.— Every corporation or joint-stock association, or person carrying on the business thereof by lease or otherwise, shall pay weekly to each employe the wages earned by him to a day not more than six days prior to the date of such payment. But every person or corporation operating a steam surface railroad shall, on or before the twentieth day of each month, pay the employes thereof the wages earned by them during the preceding calendar month.
- § 11. Penalty for violation of preceding sections.— If a corporation or joint-stock association, its lessee or other person carrying on the business thereof, shall fail to pay the wages of an employe as provided in this article, it shall forfeit to the people of the state the sum of fifty dollars for each such failure, to be recovered by the factory inspector in his name of office in a civil action; but an action shall not be maintained therefor, unless the factory inspector shall have given to the employer at least ten days' written notice that such an action will be brought if the wages due are not sooner paid as provided in this article. On the trial of such action, such corporation or association shall not be allowed to set up any defense, other than a valid assignment of such wages, a valid set-off against the same, or the absence of such employe from his regular place of labor at the time of the payment, or an actual tender to such employe at the time of the payment of the wages so earned by him, or a breach of contract by such employe or a denial of the employment.

§ 12. Assignment of future wages.— No assignment of future wages, payable weekly, or monthly in case of a steam surface railroad corporation, shall be valid if made to the corporation or association from which such wages are to become due, or to any person on its behalf, or if made or procured to be made to any person for the purpose of relieving such corporation or association from the obligation to pay weekly, or monthly in case of a steam surface railroad corporation. Charges for groceries, provisions or clothing shall not be a valid offset for wages in behalf of any such corporation or association. No such corporation or association shall require any agreement from any employe to accept wages at other periods than as provided in this article as a condition of employment.

PENAL CODE, CHAPTER 416, LAWS OF 1897.

Section 384-i. Payment of wages.—A corporation or joint-stock association or a person carrying on the business thereof, by lease or otherwise, who does not pay the wages of its employes in cash, weekly or monthly as provided in article one of the labor law, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor, shall be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars for each offense.

BAKERY INSPECTION LAW

AS CONTAINED IN

Labor Law, Chapter 415, 1897.

BAKERY INSPECTION LAW

(As contained in Labor Law, Chapter 415, Laws of 1897).

ARTICLE VIII.— BAKERIES AND CONFECTIONERY ESTABLISHMENTS.

Section 110. Hours of labor in bakeries and confectionery establishments.— No employe shall be required or permitted to work in a biscuit, bread or cake bakery or confectionery establishment more than sixty hours in any one week, or more than ten hours in any one day, unless for the purpose of making a shorter work day on the last day of the week; nor more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the number of days during such week in which such employe shall work.

- § 111. Drainage and plumbing of buildings and rooms occupied by bakeries.— All buildings or rooms occupied as biscuit, bread, pie or cake bakeries, shall be drained and plumbed in a manner conducive to the proper and healthful sanitary condition thereof, and shall be constructed with air shafts, windows or ventilating pipes, sufficient to insure ventilation. The factory inspector may direct the proper drainage, plumbing and ventilation of such rooms or buildings. No cellar or basement, not now used for a bakery shall hereafter be so occupied or used, unless the proprietor shall comply with the sanitary provisions of this article.
- § 112. Requirements as to rooms, furniture, utensils and manufactured products.— Every room used for the manufacture of flour or meal food products shall be at least eight feet in height and shall have, if deemed necessary by the factory inspector, an impermeable floor constructed of cement, or of tiles laid in cement, or an additional flooring of wood properly saturated with linseed oil. The side walls of such rooms shall be plastered or wainscoted. The factory inspector may require the side walls and ceiling to be whitewashed, at least once in three months. He may also require the woodwork of such walls to be painted. The furniture and utensils shall be so arranged as to be readily cleansed and not prevent the proper cleaning of any part of a room. The manufactured flour or meal food products shall be kept in dry and airy rooms so arranged that the floors, shelves and all other facilities for storing the same can be properly cleaned. No domestic animals, except cats, shall be allowed to remain in a room used as a biscuit, bread, pie, or cake bakery or any room in such bakery where flour or meal products are stored.

- § 113. Wash-room and closets; sleeping places.—Every such bakery shall be provided with a proper wash-room and water-closet or water-closets apart from the bake-room, or rooms where the manufacture of such food product is conducted, and no water-closet, earth-closet, privy or ash-pit shall be within or connected directly with the bake-room of any bakery, hotel or public restaurant. No person shall sleep in a room occupied as a bake-room. Sleeping places for the persons employed in the bakery shall be separate from the rooms where flour or meal food products are manufactured or stored. If the sleeping places are on the same floor where such products are manufactured, stored or sold, the factory inspector may inspect and order them put in a proper sanitary condition.
- § 114. Inspection of bakeries.—The factory inspector shall cause all bakeries to be inspected. If it be found upon such inspection that the bakeries so inspected are constructed and conducted in compliance with the provisions of this chapter, the factory inspector shall issue a certificate to the persons owning or conducting such bakeries.
- § 115. Notice requiring alterations.—If, in the opinion of the factory inspector, alterations are required in or upon premises occupied and used as bakeries, in order to comply with the provisions of this article, a written notice shall be served by him upon the owner, agent or lessee of such premises, either personally or by mail, requiring such alterations to be made within sixty days after such service, and such alterations shall be made accordingly.

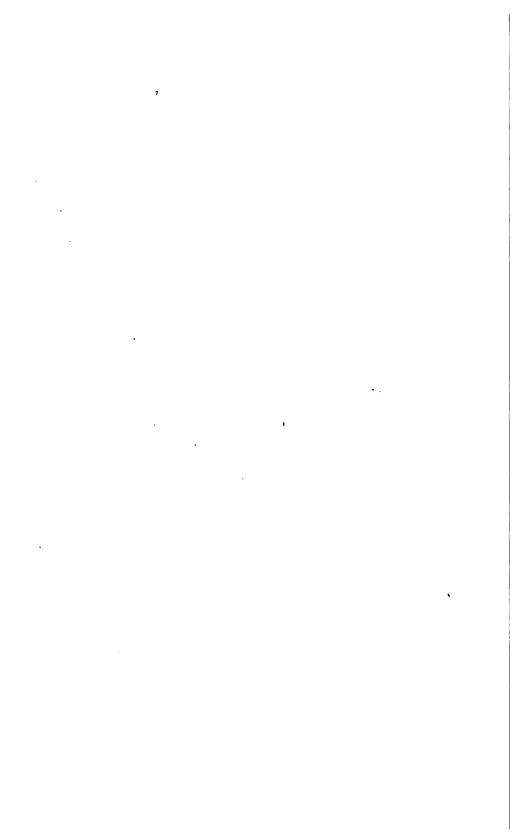

Penal code relative to violations of provisions of the labor law.— Chapter 416 of the laws of 1897

- § 384-1. Violations of provisions of labor law. Any person who violates or does not comply with:
- 1. The provisions of article six of the labor law, relating to factories and the employment of children therein;
- 2. The provisions of article seven of the labor law, relating to the manufucture of articles in tenements;

- 3. The provisions of article eight of the labor law, relating to bakeries and confectionery establishments, the employment of labor and the manufacture of flour or meal food products therein;
- 4. The provisions of article eleven of the labor law, relating to mercantile establishments, and the employment of women and children therein is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for a first offense by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than one hundred dollars; for a second offense by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; for a third offense by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

REPORT

Inspection of Mines and Quarries, STATE OF NEW YORK, 1897.

REPORT.

Hon. Daniel O'Leary, Factory Inspector, Albany, N. Y .:

Dear Sir.—I have the honor to submit herewith report of inspections made by me of the mines in the State for the year ending November 30, 1897.

It affords me great pleasure to be able to report successful progress in the matter of carrying out the provisions of the mining laws, and that their execution has been attended with beneficial results, and with no friction or disturbance between the employes or the operators, nor with the officers of the department.

Both the operators and employes have learned that a thorough inspection of the mines, and a strict compliance with orders issued and suggestions offered, has resulted in permanent good to each. Not only has it resulted in less accidents, but it has also lessened the expense of mining, and at the same time saved large sums of money heretofore expended in litigation.

Operators and employes alike are loud in their praise of the manner in which the mining laws have been applied. The only cause of complaint has been in the mines operated under the contract system, where the operator places the responsibility for the proper working of the mines upon the contractors, and the contractors deceive the owners as to the condition of the mines, but wherever such conditions have been found to exist, prompt compliance, with suggestions from the department, has been made when the attention of the owners has been called to the matter.

One of the greatest causes of accidents in mines is the carelessness and almost criminal negligence of the employes themselves, but the enforcement of the provisions of the laws of 1897, which hold both operators and employes alike responsible, have resulted in much good and have obliterated many dangerous conditions. The issuing of the rules for the daily guidance of employes in mines has also resulted in much good, as it keeps the law before the employes at all times, and many dangers have thus been avoided. My attention has been called to cases where the employes have refused positively to disobey the rules when called upon by the boss to do so. One great danger in and about the mines is intemperance, but the rules relating to it have almost broken up the habit among employes. This report contains statistical tables showing the amount of the productions of the mines, number of employes, method of working, number in operation during the year and their condition at date of inspection; number of boilers and engines in use; number of accidents, whether fatal or otherwise; number of inspections made, together with a list of orders given by the department, and their compliance; with much other information of a descriptive character which, I trust, will be of benefit to those interested in mining.

In closing, permit me to acknowledge my obligation for the kind advice and support you have given me in the execution of the duties of my office, and I trust that in the future, we may reflect with pardonable pride upon the success of our work, which I hope will be of much benefit to those who descend into the depths of the earth to earn their daily bread, and who, being unable to protect themselves, must rely upon the officers delegated by the State to see that all laws and regulations be enforced for their protection.

Respectfully submitted,

A. RICHARD KING,

Deputy Mine Inspector.

LAWS

RELATING

TO THE INSPECTION OF MINES AND QUARRIES IN NEW YORK STATE, AS CONTAINED IN LABOR LAWS, CHAPTER 415, LAWS OF 1897.

ARTICLE IX.

MINES AND THEIR INSPECTION.

§ 120. Duties of factory inspector relating to mines; record and report.—The factory inspector shall see that every necessary precaution is taken to insure the safety and health of employes employed in the mines and quarries of the state and shall prescribe rules and regulations therefor; keep a record of the names and location of such mines and quarries, and the names of the persons or corporations owning or operating the same; collect data concerning the working thereof; examine carefully into the method of timbering shafts, drifts, inclines, slopes and tunnels, through which employes and other persons pass, in the performance of their daily labor, and see that the persons or corporations owning and operating such mines and quarries comply with the provisions of this chapter; and such information shall be furnished by the person operating such mine or quarry, upon the demand of the factory inspector.

The factory inspector shall keep a record of all mines and quarry examinations, showing the date thereof, and the condition in which the mines and quarries are found, and the manner of working the same. He shall make an annual report to the legislature during the month of January, containing a statement of the number of mines and quarries visited, the number in operation, the number of men employed, and the number and cause of accidents, fatal and non-fatal, that may have occurred in and about the same.

§ 121. Outlets of mines.—If, in the opinion of the factory inspector, it is necessary for safety of employes, the owner, operator or superintendent of a mine, operating through either a vertical or oblique shaft, or a horizontal tunnel, shall not employ any person therein unless there are in connection with the subterranean workings thereof not less than two openings or outlets, at least one hundred and fifty feet apart, and connected with each other. Such openings or outlets shall be so constructed as to provide safe and distinct means of ingress and egress from and to the surface, at all times, for the use of the employes of such mine.

§ 122. Ventilation and timbering of mines.—In each mine a ventilating current shall be conducted and circulated along the face of all working places and through the roadways, in sufficient quantities to insure the safety of employes and remove smoke and noxious gases.

Each owner, agent, manager or lessee of a mine shall cause it to be properly timbered, and the roof and sides of each working place therein properly secured. No person shall be required or permitted to work in an unsafe place or under dangerous material, except to make it secure.

§ 123. Riding on loaded cars; storage of inflammable supplies.—No person shall ride or be permitted to ride on any loaded car, cage or bucket into or out of a mine. No powder or oils of any description shall be stored in a mine or quarry, or in or around shafts, engine or boiler-houses, and all supplies of an inflammable and destructive nature shall be stored at a safe distance from the mine openings.

§ 124. Inspection of steam boilers and apparatus; steam and water-gauges.—All boilers used in generating steam for mining purposes shall be kept in good order, and the owner, agent, manager or lessee of such mine shall have such boilers inspected by a competent person, approved by the factory inspector, once in six months, and shall file a certificate showing the results thereof in the mine office and a duplicate thereof in the office of the factory inspector. All engines, brakes, cages, buckets, ropes and chains shall be kept in good order and inspected daily by the superintendent of the mine or a person designated by him.

Each boiler or nest of boilers used in mining for generating steam, shall be provided with a proper safety valve and with steam and water-gauges, to show, respectively, the pressure of steam and the height of water in the boilers. Every boiler-house in which a boiler or nest of boilers is placed, shall be provided with a steam-gauge properly connected with the boilers, and another steam-gauge shall be attached to the steam pipe in the engine-house, and so placed that the engineer or fireman can readily ascertain the pressure carried.

§ 125. Use of explosives; blasting.—When high explosives other than gunpowder are used in a mine or quarry, the manner of storing, keeping, moving, charging and firing, or in any manner using such explosives, shall be in accordance with rules prescribed by the factory inspector.

In charging holes for blasting, in slate, rock or ore in any mine or quarry, no iron or steel-pointed needle or tamping bar shall be used, unless the end thereof is tipped with at least six inches of copper or other soft material. No person shall be employed to blast unless the mine superintendent or person having charge of such mine, is satisfied that he is qualified, by experience, to perform the work with ordinary safety. When a blast is about to be fired in a mine timely notice thereof shall be given by the person in charge of the work, to all persons who may be in danger therefrom.

- § 126. Report of accidents.—Whenever loss of life or serious accident shall occur in the operation of a mine or quarry, the owner, agent, manager or lessee thereof shall immediately report, in writing, all the facts connected therewith to the factory inspector.
- § 127. Notice of dangerous condition.—If the factory inspector, after examination or otherwise, is of the opinion that a mine or anything used in the operation thereof, is unsafe, he shall immediately serve a written notice, specifying the defects, upon the owner, agent, manager or lessee, who shall forthwith remedy the same.

- § 128. Enforcement of articles.—The factory inspector may serve a written notice upon the owner, agent, manager or lessee of a mine requiring him to comply with a specified provision of this article. The factory inspector may thereafter begin an action in the supereme court to enforce compliance with such provisions; and upon such notice as the court directs, an order may be granted, restraining the working of such mine during such time as may be therein specified.
- § 129. Admission of inspectors to mines.—The owner, agent, manager or lessee of a mine, at any time, either day or night, shall admit to such mine or any building used in the operation thereof, the factory inspector or any person duly authorized by him, for the purpose of making the examinations and inspections necessary for the enforcement of this article, and shall render any necessary assistance for such inspections.

PENAL CODE, RELATIVE TO VIOLATIONS OF PROVISIONS OF THE LABOR LAW, CHAPTER 416, LAWS OF 1897.

Section 384g. Refusal to admit inspector to mines and quarries; failure to comply with requirements of inspector.—A person,

- 1. Refusing to admit the factory inspector, or any person authorized by him, to a mine or quarry, for the purpose of examination and inspection.
- 2. Neglecting or refusing to comply with the provisions of article nine of the labor law upon written notice of the factory inspector, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than thirty days.

RULES FOR SAFETY IN MINE WORKING.

STORING EXPLOSIVES.

All explosives should be stored in a magazine provided for that purpose, and located far enough from the working shaft, slope or tunnel, boiler-house or engine-room, so that in case the whole quantity should be exploded, there would be no danger. All explosives in excess of what are needed for one shift should be kept in the magazine. A suitable place for thawing powder should be provided for each mine and quarry and kept in condition for use. The hot water or steam bath is the only safe device. Dry heat is unsafe. A receptacle for carrying explosives should be provided. Exploders and powder should not be kept in the same room. A suitable place, separated from mine-boilers or engine-room should be provided for preparing charges. One man should have full charge of the magazine.

BLASTING.

All the blasting should be done by one man and his helper, designated by the superintendent for that purpose. After blasting, no miners or other persons should be allowed in that part of the mine until the blaster has made a personal examination of the same and pronounced "all over." If the blast misses fire, no miner or other person except the blaster and his helper should be allowed in that part of the mine less than three hours thereafter, or until the blaster has made a personal examination of the same and pronounced "all safe." No person shall use or handle any explosives who is addicted to the use of intoxicants. All tamping of high explosives should be done with a wooden bar. Give timely and sufficient warning when blast is about to be fired.

FIRE.

Storing of oil, waste, candles, etc., should be at a safe distance from the boiler-house, engine-room and shaft-house, and a quantity of water should be stored at such place to guard against fire. All shaft-houses should have ample fire protection, and the appliances should be kept in condition for instant use, as quick action will often save an entire plant from destruction. All mining plants using steam should have a hose attached to the injector or feed pipe for use in case of fire.

TIMBERING.

Improper timbering is often the cause of great fatalities. The use of poor or scant timbering is criminal. All timber should be of sufficient size and strength. Better too large than too small. There is no fixed rule for the use of timber. Use enough and in the proper place; run no chances. Often the life of the timber is gone before it enters the mine on account of improper storing. Cover the timber, if possible, and give large room for ventilation.

SIGNALS.

Too much attention cannot be given to the use of signals, and the care of their appliances. To give proper and distinct signals, the appliances must be in first-class condition. The bell line should be of sufficient strength and free of all rock and timbers. A few sheaves or rollers is all that is required. A code of signals should be posted at different parts of the workings, especially at the shaft-head, together with a notice of penalty for wrong signals. Punishments for wrong signals should be severe. Shafts of four hundred feet in depth should have speaking-tubes from foot of shaft to engine-room.

BOILERS.

Superintendents should require a strict compliance with the law regarding boiler inspection; also boilers should be inspected daily, and any imperfections should be reported to the master mechanic or superintendent.

SUPERINTENDENT.

The duties of a mine superintendent are many and varied. The most essential is discipline. Often is a fatal accident traced to lack of discipline. All inspections should be reported to him. The superintendent should keep close watch on all contractors as regards the safety of the mine. The safety of the miners and the success of all mining operations are the result of good superintendence.

ENGINEER.

In the selection of this important employe, too much care cannot be exercised. He should be of perfectly sober habits, of good judgment and quick action. His surroundings should be comfortable, visitors should be excluded, and he should not be allowed to converse with them when his engine is in motion. He should never act upon a signal not clearly given. Each engineer should have a certificate of experience and ability approved by the factory inspector.

THE SHAFT.

The shaft-head should be covered and guarded so as to prevent accidents from persons falling into them or from foreign objects dropping down. Automatic doors should, in most cases, be used. The manway should be around and not across the shaft-head. The timbering of the shaft is often neglected because it looks all right. It should be sounded and examined often, as it decays very rapidly under certain conditions. Inside shafts, winzes and chutes should be carefully guarded by railings or other means which will prevent accidents.

LADDERWAYS.

The ladders should be strong and intact. In vertical shafts and in deep pitching inclines, there should be landings of not more than twenty feet apart, and closely covered, except a hole large enough for a man to pass to the next ladder. In inclines there should be a hand-rail attached to the ladder, and, wherever possible, steps should be used with hand-rail attached.

DAILY INSPECTION.

The superintendent should designate a competent person, who, at a stated hour each day, should make an inspection of all mining appliances, boilers, engines, magazines, shafts and shafthouses. He should carefully examine all underground workings, roof, pillars, timbers and explosives. He should descend the shaft slowly and examine the bell-rope, track, timbers, ladders, etc., and report any defects to the superintendent, in writing, at once. Such a rule should be strictly enforced where men are handled by skip, car, cage or bucket.

AIR.

The use of air instead of steam for drilling in all underground workings is advised. A drill using air is a great ventilator, driving out smoke and noxious gases and furnishing pure air at the face workings. In some cases air-drills have taken the place of fans and they keep the mines well supplied with fresh air.

RULES FOR STORING, KEEPING, MOVING, THAWING, CHARG-ING AND FIRING DYNAMITE.

STORING AND KEEPING.

Dynamite should be stored in a building separate and isolated from other buildings and from traffic. Caps and electric exploders and fuses must not, under any circumstances, be stored in the same building with the powder. They should always be kept apart until needed for preparing the charge.

MOVING.

Dynamite may be hauled in wagons, railway trains, mine cars or similar vehicles, care being exercised that percussion caps, exploders, fulminators, friction matches or any other article of like nature be not loaded in the same wagon, car or other vehicle. Too much care cannot be exercised in this particular detail.

THAWING POWDER.

All nitro-glycerine compounds freeze and become hard at about 42 degrees Fahrenheit. In this condition they will not readily explode. When large quantities of powder are to be used, a separate building for thawing powder should be fitted with a small steam radiator. Use only exhaust steam for heating the same, if possible, keeping the temperature of the room at about 80 degrees Fahrenheit. In the part of the room at the greatest distance from the radiator, place the powder on racks to thaw. When but small quantities are required to be thawed, a thawing kettle may be used, being two water-tight kettles, one smaller than the other (one placed inside the other), the cartridges to be placed in the smaller kettle, and space between the two kettles filled with hot water of from 120 to 130 degrees Fahrenheit, the kettle being fitted with a cover to retain the heat. Under no circumstances, however, should the kettle be placed over the fire to heat. When more hot water is required, empty out the cold water and fill again with hot water. Under no circumstances should an attempt be made to thaw the powder by placing it in hot water or exposing it to the direct action of steam.

PRECAUTIONS.

Under no conditions should powder be placed on hot steam pipes, or steam boilers, nor on or in a hot stove, nor on any hot metal. Do not expose it to radiated heat from a fire or hot stove. Keep it away from the blacksmith's forge or shop. Never roast, toast or bake it in any way.

Any deviation from the above directions may result in a serious explosion and loss of life.

PREPARING THE CHARGE.

Cut a piece of safety fuse to the right length and carefully insert the fresh-cut end in a blasting cap. See that the cap is free from any particle of saw-dust before inserting the fuse. Press the fuse gently into the cap as far as it will go. Crimp the open end of the cap tightly around the fuse with a pair of cap-nippers, but under no condition disturb the fulminate or filling in the cap. Then open one end of the cartridge carefully, and with a sharpened lead pencil or pointed wooden stick, make a hole in the powder, insert the cap end of the fuse, being careful to see that at least one-fourth of an inch of the cap remains out of the powder. Then draw the paper closely about the fuse and tie it with a strong cord.

Never allow smoking or fire of any description near the powder, nor leave any loose caps or fuse in the vicinity of the powder.

CHARGING THE DRILL-HOLE.

Having prepared the cartridge as above described (being sure that none of the cartridges are frozen) push the cartridges to the bottom of the drilled hole with a wooden stick, putting the cartridge which contains the capped end of the fuse on top. Don't attempt to press the cartridges down too firmly, as in so doing the cap may become disarranged thereby causing a misfire.

TAMPING.

Having placed the required quantity of powder in the hole, cover the charge with six or eight inches of loose tamping, press it down firmly with a wooden stick, after which the hole may be tamped to the top, ramming the tamping down hard. Under no conditions use an iron or metal bar. Wood is all that is required.

MISFIRE.

In cases of misfires, no attempt must be made to remove the tamping or draw the charge, a new hole should be drilled in every case.

ACCIDENTS.

The accident at the mines at Talcville, St. Lawrence county. leased by the United States Talc Co., was caused by a falling pillar of talc, resulting in the death of Milford McLaughlan, Fred McCoy, John Mathews, Alfred Tetherton, Charles Larock and William Dawley. I first inspected the United States Talc Company Mine on May 12, 1896, and found that it had been improperly worked by former parties, and ordered additional timbers at foot of slope, also ladders repaired. On October 8, 1896, I again inspected the mine and found the company had complied with all the orders from the Department. ruary 15, 1897, after the accident, I again inspected this mine. I found that a large pillar of talc 25 x 30 feet had fallen, which had killed the men. The mine is about 150 feet deep on the slope and dips about 60 degrees. The workings had drifted west at right angles with the slope about 25 feet, the skipway running to the west drift. The superintendent had arranged to change the skipway and drift east, and by cutting the pillar at the foot of the slope he could straighten the skipway. The men were cutting round the pillar and were within a few feet of the slope at the top of the pillar. Two shots were fired to hole through, the men retreating to the bottom of the mine directly under the pillar. The holes had been fired and the roof men were at the top of the pillar, boring down loose rock, the men still remaining under the pillar for protection from the rock which the roof men were dropping down, when suddenly the pillar commenced to move, sliding on the foot wall and breaking loose from the hanging wall, toppled over, crushing to death the men who were below. Where the pillar had stood I found indications of a slip, which are very common in the talc mines, and, in my opinion, firing the shots had shook the pillar and caused it to move, the slip being in the under side of the pillar. Had it not been for the slip the pillar would would have remained intact.

On account of the treacherous and dangerous conditions found in the talc mines, and the slips, which are so common, very often with the large ends down, as in the case of the accident, the Department has changed the mode of mining in the deep pitching veins to the level system, leaving one continuous pillar or roof over each level, which will avoid the dangerous possibility of having the pillars slip on the foot wall.

For further information regarding the accident at the Freeman mine, see report of coroner's inquest.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

EDWARDS, St. LAWRENCE COUNTY, N. Y., February 15, 1897.

Inquest regarding death of Milford McLaughlan, Fred McCoy, John Mathews, Al. Tetherton, Charles Larock, Wm. Dawley.

The following jury were duly summoned and sworn, and, after viewing the body of Milford McLaughlan, one of the deceased, and visiting the place of death of above-named persons, a number of persons were sworn and testified as to cause of death:

Jury.—Harlow Rhodes, David Sweet, George H. Gleason, Lorenzo Smith, Henry H. Ryan, W. W. Bresbun.

Examination by Silas E. Brown, coroner:

But a few witnesses were available. The testimony all went to show that there was no known or imagined weakness of the pillar. The verdict was as follows:

"We, the jury, find that Fred McCoy, Alfred Tetherton, Milfred McLaughlan, John Mathews and Charles Larock came to their death by being crushed by the accidental collapse of a section of the Freeman mine, at Talcville, N. Y., leased by the United States Talc Company, at about 4.30 on Saturday afternoon, February 13, 1897, and we further find that Wm. Dawley came to his death at about 1.30 p. m, Sunday, February 14, 1897, from injuries received in the above-mentioned accident.

We furthermore believe that the accident was unforeseen and unavoidable, and the United States Talc Company should be exonerated from any blame or alleged negligence."

On investigation of the fatal accident at the mine of A. J. Snyder at Rosendale, N. Y., October 22, 1897, I found that Arnold W. Johnson had been killed by the explosion of a blast; Mr. Johnson was the regular blaster and had loaded a number of holes and fired them. According to the count, one of the holes missed fire and, after waiting what he thought a sufficient length of time, returned to the face where the shots had been fired, when the hole which had missed exploded, killing him. I previously inspected this mine October 5, 1897, and found that the blaster was handling and using his explosives very carelessly and had a long talk with him on the subject. I cautioned him that he would meet with an accident if he did not handle the explosives more carefully. He replied that he had used dynamite for a number of years and had never met with an accident. I replied that very probably he would never have but one. It was but a very few days after this when I was informed of the accident in which he was killed. At the time of my inspection, orders were issued by the Department regarding the use of explosives as follows: Remove powder house from mine; thaw dynamite with warm water or steam box; keep exploders separate from powder. I also cautioned Mr. Johnson to cut his fuse at different lengths so he could readily count the shots as they were discharged. The verdict of the coroner's inquest was "that Arnold W. Johnson was killed by the explosion of a blast," no blame being attached to any person except to the fact of his own carelessness in handling explosives as above explained.

SERIOUS ACCIDENTS.

There have been four serious accidents reported which were due mostly to the carelessness of the persons injured. Edward Moore, employed at the F. O. Norton Cement Mines, was injured on April 16, 1897, by being thrown from a ledge on to some loose rock, slightly fracturing his skull. John J. Foley, employed by the Lawrence Cement Company, was injured June 19, 1897, by being struck on the head by a small piece of rock falling from the roof, producing a slight scalp wound. A. Bickard, employed by the Cummings Cement Company, was injured July 10, 1897, by having large toe of left foot crushed by a piece of rock falling off a car which he was loading. Wm. Sheridan, employed by L. K. Elliott at Clinton, was injured August 4, 1897, by the explosion of a keg of powder. The powder was old and Sheridan had been ordered to dump it out in an out-of-the-way place. Wanting to satisfy himself as to whether the powder was good or not, he deliberately stuck a match to it, being pretty badly burned in consequence of his rashness.

LAWS AND RULES.

Section 120 of the Laws of 1897, giving the factory inspector authority to prescribe rules for the guidance of employes in the mines in the State has been a source of much good. Under the provisions of this section the Department has caused to be printed a code of rules and has had them posted in every mine in the State. Many dangerous practices have been broken up and the rules have worked very satisfactory to both the companies and the employes.

§ 121. Outlets of mines.—All former laws dating before May 13, 1897, read, "It shall not be lawful for the owner, operator or superintendent of any mine operated through a vertical or oblique shaft at a depth exceeding two hundred and fifty feet from the surface, to employ any person or persons in such mine or permit any person or persons to be in such mine for the purpose of working therein, unless there are in connection with the subterranean workings thereof not less than two openings or outlets at least one hundred and fifty feet apart and connected with each other, at which opening or outlet safe and distinct means of ingress and egress from and to the surface are at all times available for the person or persons employed in the said mine." In mines that were less than 250 feet in depth or that were worked otherwise than by a vertical or oblique shaft, the Department had no authority to change or order two or more outlets. Very many mines in the State worked through a drift or tunnel; also through a vertical or oblique shaft less than 250 feet in depth required more than one outlet and the department was powerless in the matter. The law of 1897 gives the factory inspector the power to order one or more outlets if in his opinion the conditions require it.

RIDING ON LOADED CARS.

Section 123 reads, "No person shall ride or be permitted to ride on any loaded car, cage or bucket into or out of a mine." All former laws read, "the inspector shall positively prohibit any person or persons from riding on any loaded cars, cage or bucket into or out of any mine." The inspector would prohibit the companies from allowing any person to ride on any loaded car, cage or bucket, and in turn the companies would prohibit the employes from so doing. Still the men would disobey the orders and the dangerous practice of riding on loaded cars continued unknown to the companies or the inspector. As the law of 1897 reads it makes both the companies and the employes equally liable, and has entirely broken up the practice.

Section 124 of the Laws of 1897 in regard to the inspection of steam boilers requires that a copy of the inspection of such boilers shall be on file in the mine office which does away with a large amount of misrepresentation, also saves the inspector time and trouble in going to the main office at Albany to see if the boilers have been inspected as the old laws only required that a copy of the boiler inspection should be on file in the factory inspector's office.

Section 125 requires that the use of high explosives shall be in accordance with rules prescribed by the factory inspector. Former laws required that the use of high explosives should be in accordance with rules prescribed by the manufacture of the same. As all manufacturers claim that their powder is the best and safest, the rules differ materially with powder of the same kind and grade and it became necessary that some general rule should be issued for use in handling explosives; this has been done by the factory inspector, and such rules have been posted at all mines, which have tended to lessen accidents from high explosives by at least 75 per cent. The mining laws of 1897 have operated very satisfactorily and have caused no friction between the companies and the department and results have been obtained which were impossible under the former mining laws.

CEMENT DESCRIPTIVE.

The Rosendale or Hydraulic Cement Mines are situated in Ulster, Erie, Onondaga, Schoharie and Saratoga counties. The largest mines being in Ulster and Erie counties, where the business of mining and manufacturing Rosendale cement has assumed very large proportions, the daily output of some of the larger companies being as high as 6,000 barrels. The material mined for the manufacture of cement is a sedimentary rock containing lime, silica and magnesia. The mines in Ulster county consist of slopes, tunnels and ditch quarries. Inspection demonstrated the fact that a number of the mines in this locality were in a dangerous condition owing to an improper and unsafe manner of operating. The mines were opened a number of years ago at the surface to get the stone for present use, regardless to any system of mining, and the operators have followed the old "workings" down to the present time. In deep pitching seams all the rock has been mined out at the surface continuing down to a depth of from 100 to 250 feet without pillars, thus leaving the mine unprotected from the surface rock which is disintegrated by the action of the elements and becomes very dangerous to the miners working below. Only a year or two ago these mines were considered the most dangerous of any in the State, but owing to the vigilance of the Department and the issuing of orders which required the mining companies to comply with the provisions of the law, the number of accidents have been largely reduced, to the great satisfaction of both the operators and the men employed.

ULSTER COUNTY DISTRICT.

The Lawrenceville Cement Company, Binnewater, N. Y., employs 700 men; work eighteen slopes, both on the pillar, room and level system, working thirty-four faces. These mines, in the years 1895 and 1896, were in bad condition, and the Department was obliged to condemn several of them. The mines were opened years ago, and the old, crude way of mining was continued until the year 1896. Under the supervision of Mr. C. M. Carhart, mine superintendent, and the rules of the Department, the mines have been changed to the level or long wall system where it was practicable, and are at the present time in a safe condition.

The F. O. Norton Cement Co., Binnewater, N. Y., employs 100 men; work two slopes on the pillar and room system, and ten working faces. The mines are well supervised, and, in consequence, are in a safe condition.

The Lawrenceville Cement Co., Binnewater, N. Y., employs 150 men. The mine is a tunnel or drift above drainage; works on the pillar and room system. These mines are also well supervised and in safe condition.

LAWRENCEVILLE CEMENT CO., ROSENDALE, N. Y. Mine Opening.

LAWRENCEVILLE CEMENT CO., ROSENDALE. N. Y. Interior Mine Working.

Newark and Rosendale Lime and Cement Co., Whiteport, N. Y., employs 120 men; works two slopes and six working faces. These mines have a pitch of from 60 to 70 degrees, and were formerly worked open—what was commonly known as a ditch quarry, and was very dangerous on account of rock falling from opening. These mines have been changed to the level or long wall system, sinking and leaving a roof to guard against falling rock from old workings. These mines are now among the safest in the district.

Newark Lime and Cement Co., Rondout, N. Y., employs 85 men; works three slopes and six working faces. The mines are worked on the pillar and room system, and are in safe condition, except a scale on roof in some parts of the mine, which is closely watched and taken down. The condition and supervision exercised in these mines is good.

- D. A. Barnhart, High Falls, N. Y., employs 25 men; work two slopes and two working faces; work on the pillar and room system. One of these mines was formerly improperly worked, leaving a bad roof. It has been the duty of the Department to condemn a part of the mine where roof was bad, and allow no person to work or pass under bad roof. The mine was, at the last inspection, in good condition, except as above stated.
- J. H. Vandermark, High Falls, N. Y., employs 35 men. The mine is an open pit, and the only danger would come from the improper use of explosives.
- A. J. Snyder, Rosendale, N. Y., employs 120 men; work two slopes and six working faces, and work on the pillar and room system. The roofs in these mines is bad in some places on account of the pillars in light mine not being located over pillars in the dark mine. It also has a scale on roof in part of the mine. There is no immediate danger and Mr. Snyder is putting the mine in proper condition as fast as possible.

Wm. Van Tassell, Rosendale, N. Y., employs 38 men; work two slopes and four working faces; work on the pillar and room system. One of these mines, on account of a number of mud heads running through the roof, is worked very carefully and is inspected daily. At the last inspection of these mines they were in a safe condition.

New York and Rosendale Cement Co., Rosendale, N. Y., employs 325 men; work three slopes and six working faces and work on the pillar and room system. These mines are safe, with the exception of a scale on the roof in some part of them, which is sounded and inspected daily. The supervision is good, and, in consequence, the mines are in good condition.

New York Cement Co., Lefever Falls, N. Y., employs 150 men; work two slopes and five working faces; work both on the level and pillar system. Good supervision is noticeable on every side, and, in consequence, satisfactory conditions prevail.

Connolly & Shafer Cement Co., Creek Lock, N. Y., employs 120 men; works one slope and six working faces. The mine is worked both on the level, pillar and room system. This mine was formerly an old ditch quarry, but under the changed system of working the mines have been roofed and put in a safe condition.

R. & C. I. Lefever, Creek Lock, N. Y., employs 27 men; works one slope and one working face. This mine was formerly the Rosendale Hydraulic Cement Co. The mine had been worked too near the surface, making the roof bad, but orders were issued by the Department to sink and leave more roof rock. At the last inspection made the mine was idle.

The mines in Erie, Schoharie and Saratoga counties are a series of drifts and tunnels above drainage, except the Buffalo Cement Co., which is an open pit.

ERIE COUNTY DISTRICT.

Buffalo Cement Co., Limited, Buffalo, N. Y., employs 125 men. It is a strip pit and the only danger would come from an improper use of explosives.

The Cummings Cement Co., Akron, N. Y., employs 95 men; is worked through tunnel and drifts on the pillar and room system; works a continuous face. The mine is above drainage and is in a safe condition.

Akron Cement Works, Akron, N. Y., employs 50 men; is worked through tunnel and drifts; works on the pillar and room system; works a continuous face. The mine is above drainage and in a safe condition.

The mines of H. L. & W. C. Newman, Akron, N. Y., employ 50 men; are worked through tunnels and drifts; works on the pillar and room system; are above drainage and are in safe condition.

SARATOGA COUNTY DISTRICT.

The Morgan Lime Co., South Glens Falls, N. Y., employs 14 men; is worked through tunnels and drifts; works a continuous face on the pillar and room system, and is in safe condition.

SCHOHARIE COUNTY DISTRICT.

Howe's Cave Association, Howe's Cave, N. Y., employs 25 men; is a tunnel above drainage; is worked on the pillar and room system; works a continuous face; has a scale on roof which is shot down. The mine is in a safe condition.

Howe's Cave Lime and Cement Co., Howe's Cave, N. Y., employs 10 men; is a tunnel above drainage; is worked on the pillar and room system. The mine was formerly in good condition, but on account of contract work the mine is tending to a bad condition. Pillars, which were formerly used to support roof, have been cut down or robbed, leaving pillars of improper dimensions. Orders have been issued by the Department to remedy this defect.

ONONDAGA COUNTY DISTRICT.

In this district the mines are a series of strip pits, and no danger could arise except through the careless use of explosives.

IRON DESCRIPTIVE.

The iron mines in operation in the State are situated in Essex, Clinton, Columbia, Rockland, St. Lawrence, Dutchess, Putnam and Oneida counties, and nearly all systems and modes of mining are in vogue affording frequent opportunity for accidents, but with a compliance with the State Mining Law and a systematic mode of operating the danger of accidents may be greatly lessened. While the iron business has been on the increase the iron mines in the State have not come up to expectations, on account of competition from the lake region and the southern States, which places the price of ore below a paying basis. While some companies have increased their output, others have suspended operations entirely. With an increased demand for ore, this State would become one of the foremost in the Union in the production of iron.

ESSEX COUNTY.

Port Henry Iron and Ore Co., Mineville, N. Y., employs 68 men; works one shaft on the pillar and room system and works three faces. The mines are in good condition.

Witherbee, Sherman & Co., Mineville, N. Y., employs 111 men; works three shafts on the pillar and room system. The works have been idle until recently, but are now running with the above force of men employed on night and day shifts. The mines are in good condition.

PUTNAM COUNTY.

Tilly Foster mine, Tilly Foster, N. Y., employed a force of 100 men until June 4, 1897, when mining was suspended indefinitely. This mine had been in bad condition for a year, but extensive repairs have been made, yet it was deemed advisable to suspend operations, and the mine is now abandoned. It was an open pit and was operated by the Clinton Stephens Co.

ROCKLAND COUNTY.

Sterling Iron and Railway Co., Sterlington, N. Y., employs 85 men; is working one slope on the pillar and room system. Good supervision prevails, and, as a consequence, the mine is in a safe condition.

CLINTON COUNTY.

Chateaugay Ore and Iron Co., Lyon Mountain, N. Y., employs 250 men; work four shafts on both the level, pillar and room system. This company has twenty shafts and slopes, but on account of the poor market and low price of ore, the company works but four shafts, which are in good condition.

COLUMBIA COUNTY.

Hudson River Ore and Iron Co., Burden, N. Y., employs 40 men; has five slopes. On account of the dull iron market works but one. Operates on the pillar and room system and is in good condition. The works suspended November 16th.

DUTCHESS COUNTY.

Amenia Mining Co., Amenia, N. Y., employs 44 men. The mine is an open pit. The supervision is good, and danger would arise only from the improper use of explosives. The mine is in safe condition.

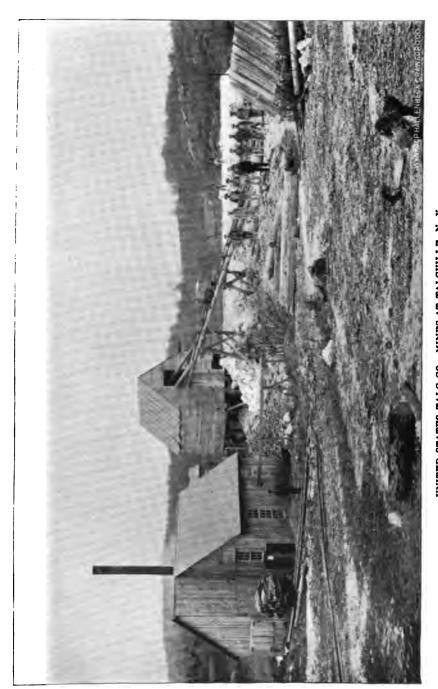

ONEIDA COUNTY.

James B. Paddon, Clinton, N. Y., employs 13 men; is a drift above drainage; operated on the long wall advancing system and a continuous face. The mine is in a safe condition. This company mines red hematite ore for the manufacture of paint.

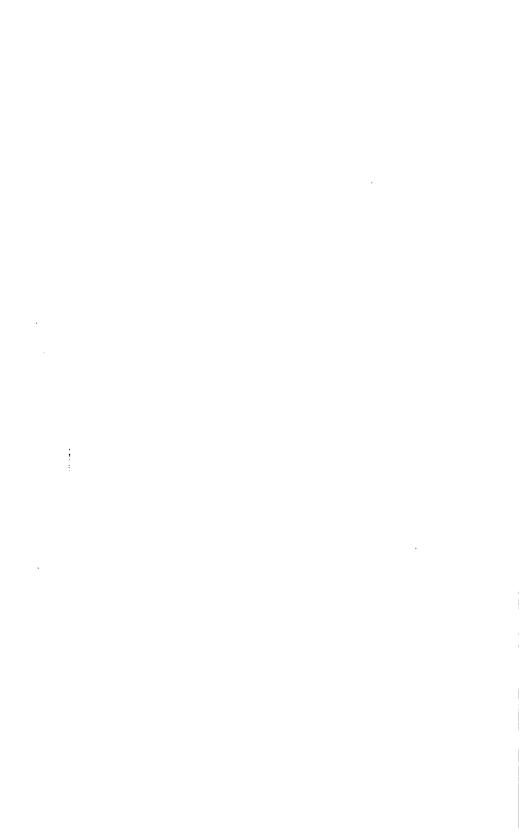

L. K. Elliott, Clinton, N. Y., employs 9 men at mining red hematite ore for the manufacture of paint; works on the long wall advancing system. At the last inspection the mine was in a safe condition.

ST. LAWRENCE COUNTY.

High Falls Sulphite Pulp and Mining Co., Pyrites, N. Y., employs 75 men; works one slope on the pillar and room system. Has two working faces and is in good condition. The supervision is good. This company mines iron pyrites for the manufacture of sulphuric acid.

UNITED STATES TALC CO., MINES AT TALCVILLE, N. Y.

TALC DESCRIPTIVE.

The talc mines are situated in St. Lawrence county. The mining is done by means of shafts and slopes. The "pillar room" and also the "level" systems are used. On account of the nature of the ore (it being slippery and treacherous), a very close watch of the mine is at all times necessary. A number of them were found in bad condition on first inspection, mostly on account of the very dangerous modes of ingress and egress; also on account of careless storing and handling of explosives. With the frequent inspection by the department and compliances on the part of mine owners with orders issued, looking to additional precautions for safety, the mines are at the present time in a safe condition for operation.

The International Pulp Company, Taleville, N. Y., employs 100 men, works five slopes, both on the "level," pillar and room system. The company employs two mining superintendents, and in consequence the mines are in a safe condition.

United States Talc Company, Talcville, N. Y., employs 14 men, works one slope on the level system. This mine pitches about 60 degrees, and one pillar was left as a support for the roof under the old mode of working, when the skip way was changed, on account of a slip at the bottom of the pillar. The pillar fell, since which time the mine has been worked on the level system, and no pillars are left. The supervision is good and the mine is in a safe condition.

Columbia Talc Company, Fullerville, N. Y., employs 15 men, and works one slope on the level system. The management is good and the mine is in a safe condition.

American Tale Company, Fowler, N. Y., employs 9 men, works one slope on level system and is in safe condition.

Kellar Bros. Pulp Company, Fowler, N. Y., employs 3 men, works one slope and was, at last inspection, in good condition. Kellar Bros., in the year 1896, operated the old Kellar mine, which was in bad condition, and orders were issued from the department to make the mine safe but were disregarded, and action was about to be commenced against the company when they abandoned the mine. The mines will not be permitted to begin operations again unless they are made safe.

GARNET DESCRIPTIVE.

North River Garnet Company, North River, Warren county, N. Y., employs 45 men. The mine is an open pit above drainage and under good management, is in first-class condition. The separation of the rock and garnet was formerly done by hand, but the North River Garnet Company have a large separator connected with their mines, thus dispensing with the slow process of hand picking. The deposit of garnet is quite extensive, and with an increasing demand the industry will become an important one.

SALT DESCRIPTIVE.

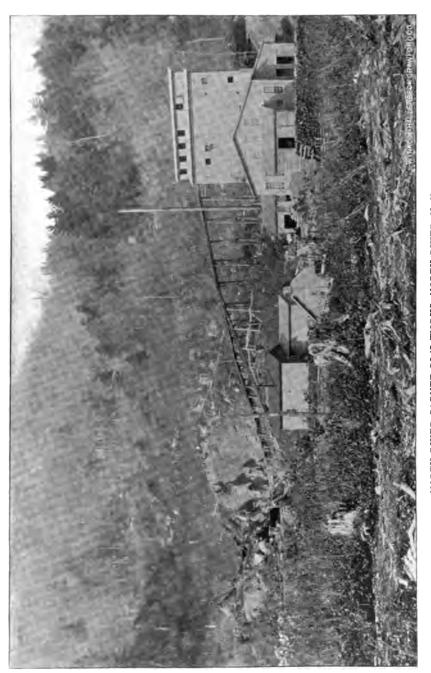

The salt mines are situated in Livingston county. The mining is done by shaft, pillar and room system. The shafts are from 1,000 to 1,500 feet in depth, and are provided with improved machinery; exhaust fans are in use. The mines are lighted by electricity, and have electric signals. These mines are considered the safest in the State. The gangways, drifts and tunnels are driven through solid salt, and when the fresh air, impregnated with moisture, comes in contact with the salt, it hardens, thus making the pillars, breasts and walls very secure, and a falling of rock or salt from the roof is unknown.

The Retsof Mining Company, Retsof and Livonia, N. Y., employs 160 men; has one shaft in operation; works on the pillar and room system; has a perfect system of ventilation, and is in good condition.

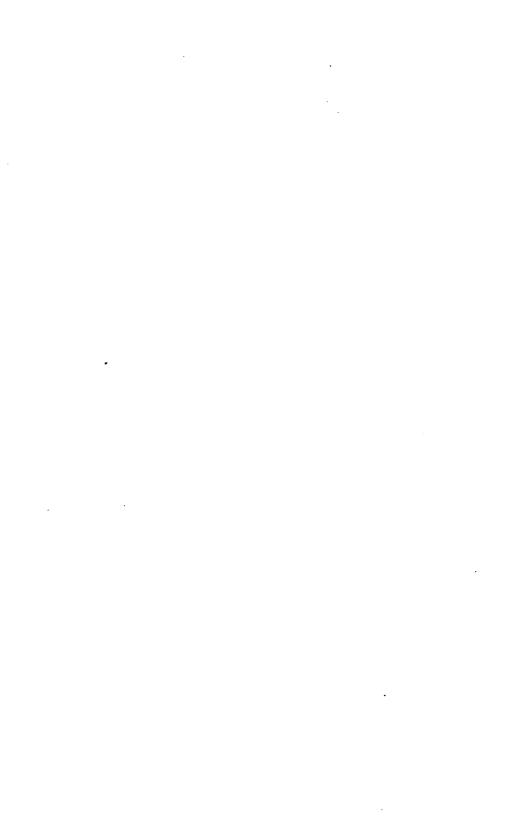

The Greigsville Salt Mining Company at Greigsville has one shaft in operation, has perfect ventilation, works on the pillar room system, and is in good conditon; works 130 men.

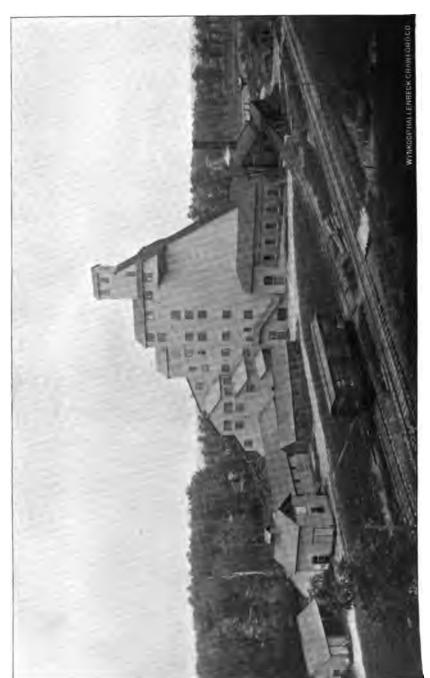

GRAPHITE DESCRIPTIVE.

American Graphite Company, Graphite, Warren county, N. Y. employs 38 men, and is the only mine of its kind in the State, is worked through tunnel and drifts and is operated on the pillar and room system. The mine is in a safe condition. The ventilation in this mine was bad, but the company sunk an air-shaft, giving much needed and good ventilation, and the mine is now in good condition.

SLATE DESCRIPTIVE.

The slate mines are all in Washington county, and are all open pits, from 40 to 100 feet in depth. A number of them were in dangerous condition on account of loose rock on walls. One mine was condemned on that account, but orders issued by the Department have placed the mines in a safe condition. The main cause of danger would come from the improper use of explosives.

GYPSUM DESCRIPTIVE.

Wheatland Land Plaster Company, Wheatland, Monroe county, N. Y., employs 20 men; is a tunnel above drainage; is worked on the pillar and room system. This mine was in a dangerous condition owing to its being operated by contract but, under careful supervision and compliance with orders issued by the department, the mine is now in good condition.

Garbutt, Monroe county, N. Y.—J. W. Garbutt employs 5 men, works one shaft intermittingly, sinks a shaft about 45 feet to the vein matter and drifts a short distance and sinks another shaft; operations conducted in a satisfactory manner.

Oakfield Plaster Manufacturing Company, Oakfield, N. Y., employs 25 men, works three shafts on the pillar and room plan. These mines were in a very bad condition when first visited, owing to being worked by contract. The mines are now worked on specified plans under orders issued by the department which will put them in a safe condition in the future.

English Plaster Works, Oakfield, N. Y., employs 50 men, works four shafts on the pillar and room system. These mines were in a bad condition when first inspected, owing to contract work, but the company engaged the services of a practical miner as superintendent, under whose management and the orders from the Department, the mines are being put in safe condition as fast as possible.

 - Inspection of scaffolding, ropes, blocks, pulleys and tackle in cities.
 - 20. Protection of persons employed on buildings in cities.

Section 1. Short title.—This chapter shall be known as the labor law.

§ 2. Definitions.—The term employe, when used in this chapter, means a mechanic, workingman or laborer who works for another for hire.

The person, employing any such mechanic, workingman or laborer, whether the owner, proprietor, agent, superintendent, foreman or other subordinate, is designated in this chapter as an employer.

The term "factory," when used in this chapter, shall be construed to include also any mill, workshop or other manufacturing or business establishment where one or more persons are employed at labor.

The term "mercantile establishment," when used in this chapter, means any place where goods, wares or merchandise are offered for sale.

Whenever, in this chapter, authority is conferred upon the factory inspector, it shall also be deemed to include his assistant or a deputy acting under his direction.

§ 3. Hours to constitute a day's work.—Eight hours shall constitute a legal day's work for all classes of employes in this state, except those engaged in farm and domestic labor, unless otherwise provided by law. This section does not prevent an agreement for overwork for extra compensation.

This section applies to work for the state or a municipal corporation, or for contractors therewith.

The wages for such public work shall be not less than the prevailing rate for a legal day's work in the same trade or calling in the locality where the work is performed. Every contract for the construction of a public work, shall contain a provision that the same shall be void and of no effect unless such rate is paid by the contractor to his employes.

§ 4. Violations of preceding section.—Any officer or agent of this state or of a municipal corporation therein, who openly violates or otherwise evades the provisions of this article, relating to the hours of labor of employes, shall be deemed guilty of malfeasance in office, and may be suspended or removed by the authority having the power to appoint such officer or agent, if any, otherwise by the governor. A party contracting with the state or a municipal corporation therein, who fails to comply with, or secretly evades such provisions by exacting and requiring more hours of labor for the compensation agreed to be paid per day than is fixed in this article, shall forfeit such contract, at the option of the state or of such municipal corporation.

§ 5. Hours of labor on street surface and elevated railroads.—Ten consecutive hours' labor, including one-half hour for dinner shall constitute a day's labor in the operation of all street surface and elevated railroads, of whatever motive power, owned or operated by corporations in this state, whose main line of travel or whose routes lie principally within the corporate limits of cities of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants. No employe of any such corporation shall be permitted or allowed to work more than ten consecutive hours, including one-half hour for dinner, in any one day of twenty-four hours.

In cases of accident or unavoidable delay, extra labor may be performed for extra compensation.

- § 6. Hours of labor in brickyards.—Ten hours, exclusive of the necessary time for meals, shall constitute a legal day's work in the making of brick in brickyards owned or operated by corporations. No corporation owning or operating such brickyard shall require employes to work more than ten hours in any one day, or to commence work before seven o'clock in the morning. But overwork and work prior to seven o'clock in the morning for extra compensation may be performed by agreement between employer and employe.
- § 7. Regulation of hours of labor on steam surface and elevated railroads.—Ten hours labor, performed within twelve consecutive hours, shall constitute a legal day's labor in the operation of steam surface and elevated railroads owned and operated within this state, except where the mileage system of running trains is in operation. But this section does not apply to the performance of extra hours of labor by conductors, engineers, firemen and trainmen in case of accident or delay resulting therefrom. For each hour of labor performed in any one day in excess of such ten hours, by any such employe, he shall be paid in addition at least one-tenth of his daily compensation.

No person or corporation operating a line of railroad of thirty miles in length or over, in whole or in part within this state, shall permit or require a conductor, engineer, fireman or trainman, who has worked in any capacity for twenty-four consecutive hours, to go again on duty or perform any kind of work, until he has had at least eight hours' rest.

§ 8. Payment of wages by receivers.—Upon the appointment of a receiver of a partnership or of a corporation organized under the laws of this state and doing business therein, other than a moneyed corporation, the wages of the employes of such partnership or corporation shall be preferred to every other debt or claim.

[For sections 9, 10, 11 and 12, Weekly Payment of Wages Law, see pages 70 and 71.]

- § 13. Preferences in employment of persons upon public works.—In the construction of public works by the state or a municipality, or by persons contracting with the state or such municipality, only citizens of the United States shall be employed; and in all cases where laborers are employed on any such public works, preference shall be given citizens of the state of New York. In each contract for the construction of public works, a provision shall be inserted, to the effect that if the provisions of this section are not complied with, the contract shall be void.
- § 14. Stone used in state or municipal works.—All stone used in state and municipal works, except paving blocks and crushed stone, shall be worked, dressed and carved within the state. There shall be inserted in each contract or specification hereafter awarded by state, county or municipal authorities, authorizing or requiring the use of worked, dressed or carved stone, except paving blocks or crushed stone, within the state or such county or municipality, a clause to the effect that such stone shall be so worked, dressed or carved within the boundaries of the state as required by this section. If a contractor of the state or any municipality therein, shall use stone, except paving blocks and crushed stone, which has been worked, dressed or carved without the state, the state or such municipality shall revoke the contract of such contractor and be released from liability thereon.
- § 15. Labels, brands, etc., used by labor organizations.—A union or association of employes may adopt a device in the form of a label, brand, mark, name or other character for the purpose of designating the products of the labor of the members thereof. Duplicate copies of such device shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall, under his hand and seal, deliver to the union or association filing or registering the same a certified copy and a certificate of the filing thereof, for which he shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar. Such certificate shall not be assignable by the union or association to whom it is issued.
- § 16. Penalty for illegal use of labels, etc.; injunction proceedings.—A person manufacturing, using, displaying or keeping for sale a counterfeit or colorable imitation of a device so adapted and filed, or goods bearing the same, shall be subject to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction by the person aggrieved; one-half of which penalty, when recovered, shall be paid to the plaintiff and one-half to the overseer of the poor of the town or to an officer having like power of the city, wherein the person aggrieved resides, for the benefit of the poor of such town or city.

After filing copies of such device, such union or association may commence an action to enjoin the manufacture, use, display or sale of counterfeit or colorable imitations of such device, or of goods bearing the same, and the court may restrain such wrongful manufacture, use, display or sale, and every unauthorized use or display by others of the genuine devices so registered and filed, if such use or display is not authorized by the owner thereof, and may award to the plaintiff such damages resulting from such wrongful manufacture, use, display or sale as may be proved, together with the profits derived therefrom.

- § 17. Seats for female employes in factories.—Every person employing females in a factory shall provide and maintain suitable seats for the use of such female employes, and permit the use thereof by such employes to such an extent as may be reasonable for the preservation of their health.
- § 18. Scaffolding for use of employes.—A person employing or directing another to perform labor of any kind in the erection, repairing, altering or painting of a house, building or structure shall not furnish or erect, or cause to be furnished or erected for the performance of such labor, scaffolding, hoists, stays, ladders or other mechanical contrivances which are unsafe, unsuitable or improper, and which are not so constructed, placed and operated as to give proper protection to the life and limb of a person so employed or engaged.

Scaffolding or staging swung or suspended from an overhead support, more than twenty feet from the ground or floor, shall have a safety rail of wood, properly bolted, secured and braced, rising at least thirty-four inches above the floor or main portions of such scaffolding or staging and extending along the entire length of the outside and the ends thereof, and properly attached thereto, and such scaffolding or staging shall be so fastened as to prevent the same from swaying from the building or structure.

§ 19. Inspection of scaffolding, ropes, blocks, pulleys and tackle in cities.—Whenever complaint is made to the commissioner of police, superintendent or other person in charge of the police force of a city, that the scaffolding or the slings, hangers, blocks, pulleys, stays, braces, ladders, irons or ropes of any swinging or stationary scaffolding used in the construction, alteration, repairing, painting, cleaning or pointing of buildings within the limits of such city, are unsafe or liable to prove dangerous to the life or limb of any person, such police commissioner, superintendent or other person in charge of the police force, shall immediately detail a competent police officer to inspect such scaffolding, or the slings, hangers, blocks, pulleys, stays, braces, ladders, irons or other parts connected therewith. If, after examination, such officer finds such scaffolding or any of such parts to be dangerous to life or limb, he shall prohibit the use thereof, and require the same to be altered and reconstructed so as to avoid such danger.

The officer making the examination shall attach a certificate to the scaffolding, or the slings, hangers, irons, ropes or other parts thereof, examined by him, stating that he has made such examination, and that he has found it safe or unsafe, as the case may be. If he declares it unsafe, he shall at once, in writing, notify the person responsible for its erection of the fact, and warn him against the use thereof. Such notice may be served personally upon the person responsible for its erection, or by conspicuously affixing it to the scaffolding, or the part thereof declared to be unsafe. After such notice has been so served or affixed, the person responsible therefor shall immediately remove such scaffolding or part thereof and alter or strengthen it in such a manner as to render it safe, in the discretion of the officer who has examined it, or of his superiors.

Any officer detailed to examine or test any scaffolding or part thereof, as required by this section, shall have free access, at all reasonable hours, to any building or premises containing them or where they may be in use.

All swinging and stationary scaffolding shall be so constructed as to bear four times the maximum weight required to be dependent therefrom or placed thereon, when in use, and not more than four men shall be allowed upon any swinging scaffolding at one time.

§ 20. Protection of persons employed on buildings in cities.—All contractors and owners, when constructing buildings in cities, where the plans and specifications require the floors to be arched between the beams thereof, or where the floors or filling in between the floors are of fire-proof material of brick work, shall complete the flooring or filling in as the building progresses, to not less than three tiers of beams below that on which the iron work is being erected.

If the plans and specifications of such buildings do not require filling in between the beams of floors with brick or fire-proof material, all contractors for carpenter work, in the course of construction, shall lay the under flooring thereof on each story, as the building progresses, to not less than within two stories below the one to which such building has been erected. Where double floors are not to be used, such contractor shall keep planked over the floor two stories below the story where the work is being performed.

If the floor beams are of iron or steel, the contractors for the iron or steel work of buildings in course of construction, or the owners of such buildings, shall thoroughly plank over the entire tier of iron or steel beams on which the structural iron or steel work is being erected, except such spaces as may be reasonably required for the proper construction of such iron or steel work, and for the raising or lowering of materials to be used in the construction of such building, or such spaces as may be designated by the plans and specifications for stairways and elevator shafts.

The chief officer, in any city, charged with the enforcement of the building laws of such city, is hereby charged with enforcing the provisions of this section.

ARTICLE II.

COMMISSIONER OF LABOR STATISTICS.

Section 30. Commissioner of labor statistics.

- 31. Duties and powers.
- 32. Statistics to be furnished upon request.

Section 30. Commissioner of labor statistics.—There shall continue to be a commissioner of labor statistics, who shall be appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, and shall hold his office for the term of three years, and receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars. He may appoint a deputy commissioner of labor statistics, at an annual salary of two thousand and five hundred dollars, and a chief clerk at an annual salary of two thousand dollars, and such other clerks and assistants as he may deem necessary and fix their salaries.

The term of office of the successor of the commissioner in office when this chapter takes effect is abridged so as to expire on the last day of December preceding the time when such term would otherwise expire, and thereafter the term of office of such commissioner shall begin on the first day of January.

- § 31. Duties and powers.—The commissioner of labor statistics shall collect, assort, systematize and present in annual reports to the legislature, within ten days after the convening thereof in each year, statistical details in relation to all departments of labor in the state, especially in relation to the commercial, industrial, social and sanitary condition of workingmen and to the productive industries of the state. He may subpoena witnesses, take and hear testimony, take or cause to be taken depositions and administer oaths.
- § 32. Statistics to be furnished upon request.—The owner, operator, manager or lessee of any mine, factory, workshop, warehouse, elevator, foundry, machine shop or other manufacturing establishment, or any agent, superintendent, subordinate, or employe thereof, shall, when requested by the commissioner of labor statistics, furnish any information in his possession or under his control which the commissioner is authorized to require, and shall admit him to any place herein named for the purpose of inspection. All statistics furnished to the commissioner of labor statistics, pursuant to this article, may be destroyed by such commissioner after the expiration of two years from the time of the receipt thereof.

A person refusing to admit such commissioner, or a person authorized by him, to any such establishment, or to furnish him any information requested, or who refuses to answer or untruthfully answers questions put to him by such commissioner, in a circular or otherwise, shall forfeit to the people of the state the sum of one hundred dollars for each refusal and answer untruthfully given, to be sued for and recovered by the commissioner in his name of office. The amount so recovered shall be paid into the state treasury.

ARTICLE III.

FREE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT BUREAUS.

- Section 40. Free public employment bureaus in cities of the first class.
 - 41. Duties of superintendent.
 - 42. Applications; list of applicants.
 - 43. Applicants for help, when to notify superintendent.

Section 40. Free public employment bureaus in cities of the first class.— The commissioner of labor statistics shall organize and establish in all cities of the first class a free public employment bureau, for the purpose of receiving applications of persons seeking employment, and applications of persons seeking to employ labor. No compensation or fee shall be charged or received, directly or indirectly, from persons applying for employment or help through any such bureau. Such commissioner shall appoint for each bureau so organized, and may remove for good and sufficient cause, a superintendent and such clerical assistants as, in his judgment, may be necessary for the proper administration of the affairs thereof. The salaries of such superintendents and clerks shall be fixed by the commissioner. Such salaries and the expenses of such bureaus shall be paid in the same manner as other expenses of the bureau of labor statistics.

§ 41. Duties of superintendent.—The superintendent of each free public employment bureau shall receive and record, in a book to be kept for that purpose, the names of all persons applying for employment or for help, designating opposite the name and address of each applicant, the character of employment or help desired.

Each such superintendent shall report, on Thursday of each week, to the commissioner of labor statistics, the names and addresses of all persons applying for employment or help, during the preceding week, the character of the employment or help desired, and the names of the persons receiving employment through his bureau. Such superintendent shall also perform such other duties in the collection of labor statistics, and in the keeping of books and accounts of his bureau, as the commissioner may require, and shall report semi-annually to the commissioner of labor statistics the expense of maintaining his bureau.

§ 42. Applications; list of applicants.—Every application for employment or help made to a free public employment bureau shall be void after thirty days from its receipt, unless renewed by the applicant.

The commissioner of labor statistics shall cause two copies of a list of all applicants for employment or help, and the character of the employment or help desired, received by him from each free public employment bureau, to be mailed on Monday of each week to the superintendent of each bureau, one of which copies shall be posted by the superintendent, immediately on receipt thereof, in a conspicuous place in his office, subject to the inspection of all persons desiring employment or help, and the other shall be filed in his office for reference.

§ 43. Applicants for help, when to notify superintendent.—If an applicant for help has secured the same, he shall, within ten days thereafter, notify the superintendent of the bureau, to which application therefor was made. Such notice shall contain the name and last preceding address of the employes received through such bureau. If any such applicant neglects to so notify such superintendent, he shall be barred from all future rights and privileges of such employment bureau, at the discretion of the commissioner of labor statistics to whom the superintendent shall report such neglect.

ARTICLE IV.

CONVICT-MADE GOODS, AND DUTIES OF COMMISSIONER OF LABOR STATISTICS RELATIVE THERETO.

- Section 50. License for sale of convict-made goods.
 - 51. Revocation of license.
 - 52. Annual statement of licensee.
 - 53. Labeling and marking of convict-made goods.
 - 54. Duties of commissioner of labor statistics relative to violations; fines upon convictions.
 - Article not to apply to goods manufactured for use of state or a municipal corporation.

Section 50. License for sale of convict-made goods.-No person or corporation shall sell, or expose for sale, any convict-made goods, wares or merchandise, either by sample or otherwise, without a license therefor. Such license may be obtained upon application in writing to the comptroller, setting forth the residence or post-office address of the applicant, the class of goods desired to be dealt in, the town, village or city, with the street number, if any, at which the business of such applicant is to be located. Such application shall be accompanied with a bond, executed by two or more responsible citizens, or some legally incorporated surety company authorized to do business in this state, to be approved by the comptroller, in the sum of five thousand dollars, and conditioned that such applicant will comply with all the provisions of law, relative to the sale of convict-made goods, wares and merchandise. Such license shall be for a term of one year unless sooner revoked. Such person or corporation shall pay, annually, on or before the fifteenth day of January, the sum of five hundred dollars as a license fee, into the treasury of the state, which amount shall be credited to the maintenance account of the state prisons.

Such license shall be kept conspicuously posted in the place of business of such licensee.

- § 51. Revocation of license.—The comptroller may revoke the license of any such person or corporation, upon satisfactory evidence of, or upon conviction for the violation of any statute regulating the sale of convict-made goods, wares or merchandise; such revocation shall not be made until after due notice to the licensee so complained of. For the purpose of this section, the comptroller or any person duly appointed by him, may administer caths and subpoena witnesses and take and hear testimony.
- § 52. Annual statement of licensee.—Each person or corporation so licensed shall, annually, on or before the fifteenth day of January, transmit to the secretary of state a verified statement setting forth:
 - 1. The name of the person or corporation licensed.
- 2. The names of the persons, agents, wardens or keepers of any prison, jail, penitentiary, reformatory or establishment using convict labor, with whom he has done business, and the name and address of the person or corporation to whom he has sold goods, wares and merchandise, and

- 3. In general terms, the amount paid to cach of such agents, wardens or keepers, for goods, wares or merchandise and the character thereof.
- § 53. Labeling and marking convict-made goods.—All goods, wares and merchandise made by convict labor in a penitentiary, prison, reformatory or other establishment in which convict labor is employed, shall be branded, labeled or marked as herein provided. The brand, label or mark, used for such purpose shall contain, at the head or top thereof, the words "convict-made," followed by the year when, and the name of the penitentiary, prison, reformatory or other establishment in which the article branded, labeled or marked was made.

Such brands, labels and marks shall be printed in plain English lettering, of the style and size known as great primer Roman condensed capitals. A brand or mark shall be used in all cases where the nature of the article will permit and only where such branding or marking is impossible shall a label be used. Such label shall be in the form of a paper tag and shall be attached by wire to each article, where the nature of the article will permit, and shall be placed securely upon the box, crate or other covering in which such goods, wares or merchandise are packed, shipped or exposed for sale.

Such brand, mark or label shall be placed upon the most conspicuous part of the finished article and its box, crate or covering.

No convict-made goods, wares or merchandise shall be sold or exposed for sale without such brand, mark or label.

§ 54. Duties of commissioner of labor statistics relative to violations; fines upon convictions.—The commissioner of labor statistics shall enforce the provisions of this article. If he has reason to believe that any of such provisions are being violated, he shall advise the district attorney of the county wherein such alleged violation has occurred of such fact, giving the information in support of his conclusion. The district attorney shall, at once, institute the proper proceedings to compel compliance with this article and secure conviction for such violations.

Upon the conviction of a person or corporation for a violation of this article, one-half of the fine recovered shall be paid and certified by the district attorney to the commissioner of labor statistics, who shall use such money in investigating and securing information, in regard to violations of this act and in paying the expenses of such conviction.

§ 55. Articles not to apply to goods manufactured for the use of the State or a municipal corporation.—Nothing in this article shall apply to or affect the manufacture in state prisons, reformatories and penitentiaries, and furnishing of articles for the use of the offices, departments and ininstitutions of the state or any political division thereof, as provided by chapter four hundred and twenty-nine of the laws of eighteen hundred and ninety-six.

ARTICLE X.

STATE BOARD OF MEDIATION AND ARBITRATION.

- Section 140. Organization of board.
 - 141. Secretary and his duties.
 - 142. Arbitration by the board.
 - 143. Mediation in case of strike or lock-out.
 - 144. Decisions of board.
 - 145. Annual report.
 - 146. Submission of controversies to local arbitrators.
 - 147. Consent: oath: powers of arbitrators.
 - 148. Decision of arbitrators.
 - 149. Appeals.

Section 140. Organization of board.—There shall continue to be a state board of mediation and arbitration, consisting of three competent persons to be known as arbitrators, appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, each of whom shall hold his office for the term of three years, and receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars. The term of office of the successors of the members of such board in office when this chapter takes effect, shall be abridged so as to expire on the thirty-first day of December preceding the time, when each such term would otherwise expire, and thereafter each term shall begin on the first day of January.

One member of such board shall belong to the political party casting the highest, and one to the party casting the next highest number of votes for governor at the last preceding gubernatorial election. The third shall be a member of an incorporated labor organization of this state.

Two members of such board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and may hold meetings at any time or place within the state. Examinations or investigations ordered by the board may be held and taken by and before any of their number, if so directed, but a decision rendered in such case shall not be deemed conclusive until approved by the board.

§ 141. Secretary and his duties.—The board shall appoint a secretary, whose term of office shall be three years. He shall keep a full and faithful record of the proceedings of the board, and all documents and testimony forwarded by the local boards of arbitration, and shall perform such other duties as the board may prescribe. He may, under the direction of the board, issue subpoenas and administer oaths in all cases before the board, and call for and examine books, papers and documents of any parties to the controversy.

He shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars, payable in the same manner as that of the members of the board.

§ 142. Arbitration by the board.—A grievance or dispute between an employer and his employes may be submitted to the board of arbitration and mediation for their determination and settlement. Such submission shall be in writing, and contain a statement in detail of the grievance or dispute and the cause thereof, and also an agreement to abide the determination of the board, and during the investigation to continue in business or at work, without a lock-out or strike.

Upon such submission, the board shall examine the matter in controversy. For the purpose of such inquiry they may subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance and take and hear testimony. Witnesses shall be allowed the same fees as in courts of record. The decision of the board must be rendered within ten days after the completion of the investigation.

- § 143. Mediation in case of strike or lock-out.—Whenever a strike or lock-out occurs or is seriously threatened, the board shall proceed as soon as practicable to the locality thereof, and endeavor by mediation to effect an amicable settlement of the controversy. It may inquire into the cause thereof, and for that purpose has the same power as in the case of a controversy submitted to it for arbitration.
- § 144. Decisions of board.—Within ten days after the completion of every examination or investigation authorized by this article, the board or a majority thereof shall render a decision, stating such details as will clearly show the nature of the controversy and the points disposed of by them, and make a written report of their findings of fact and of their recommendations to each party to the controversy.

Every decision and report shall be filed in the office of the board and a copy thereof served upon each party to the controversy, and in case of a submission to arbitration, a copy shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county or counties where the controversy arose.

- § 145. Annual report.—The board shall make an annual report to the legislature, and shall include therein such statements and explanations as will disclose the actual work of the board, the facts relating to each controversy considered by them and the decision thereon together with such suggestions as to legislation as may seem to them conducive to harmony in the relations of employers and employes.
- § 146. Submission of controversies to local arbitrators.—A grievance or dispute between an employer and his employes may be submitted to a board of arbitrators, consisting of three persons, for hearing and settlement. When the employes concerned are members in good standing of a labor organization, which is represented by one or more delegates in a central body, one arbitrator may be appointed by such central body and one by the employer. The two so designated shall appoint a third, who shall be chairman of the board.

If the employes concerned in such grievance or dispute are members of good standing of a labor organization which is not represented in a central body, the organization of which they are members may select and designate one arbitrator. If such employes are not members of a labor organization, a majority thereof at a meeting duly called for that purpose, may designate one arbitrator for such board.

§ 147. Consent; oath; powers of arbitrators.—Before entering upon his duties, each arbitrator so selected shall sign a consent to act and take and subscribe an oath to faithfully and impartially discharge his duties as such arbitrator, which consent and oath shall be filed in the clerk's office of the county or counties where the controversy arose. When such board is ready for the transaction of business, it shall select one of its members to act as secretary, and notice of the time and place of hearing shall be given to the parties to the controversy.

The board may, through its chairman subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance and take and hear testimony.

The board may make and enforce rules for its government and the transaction of the business before it, and fix its sessions and adjournments.

§ 148. Decision of arbitrators.—The board shall, within ten days after the close of the hearing, render a written decision signed by them giving such details as clearly show the nature of the controversy and the questions decided by them. Such decision shall be a settlement of the matter submitted to such arbitrators, unless within ten days thereafter an appeal is taken therefrom to the state board of mediation and arbitration.

One copy of the decision shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county or counties where the controversy arose and one copy shall be transmitted to the secretary of the state board of mediation and arbitration.

§ 149. Appeals.—The state board of mediation and arbitration shall hear, consider and investigate every appeal to it from any such board of local arbitrators and its decisions shall be in writing and a copy thereof filed in the clerk's office of the county or counties where the controversy arose and duplicate copies served upon each party to the controversy. Such decision shall be final and conclusive upon all parties to the arbitration.

ARTICLE XI.

EMPLOYMENT OF WOMEN AND CHILDREN IN MERCANTILE ESTABLISHMENTS.

- Section 160. Application of article.
 - 161. Hours of labor of minors.
 - 162. Employment of children.
 - 163. Certificate for employment: how issued.
 - 164. Contents of certificate.
 - 165. School attendance required.
 - 166. Employment of children during vacations of public schools.
 - 167. Registry of children employed.
 - 168. Wash-rooms and water-closets.
 - 169. Lunch-rooms.
 - 170. Seats for women in mercantile establishments.
 - 171. Employment of women and children in basements.
 - 172. Enforcement of article.
 - 173. Copy of article to be posted.

Section 160. Application of article.—The provisions of this article shall apply to all villages and cities which at the last preceding state enumeration had a population of three thousand or more.

- § 161. Hours of labor of minors.—No male employe, under sixteen years of age, and no female employe, under twenty-one years of age, shall be required to work in any mercantile establishment more than sixty hours in any one week, nor more than ten hours in any one day, unless for the purpose of making a shorter work day of some one day of the week, nor shall any such employe be required or permitted to work before seven o'clock in the morning or after ten o'clock in the evening of any day. This section does not apply to the employment of such persons on Saturday, provided the total number of hours of labor in a week of any such person does not exceed sixty hours, nor to the employment of such persons between the fifteenth day of December and the following first day of January. Not less than forty-five minutes shall be allowed for the noonday meal of the employes of any such establishment.
- § 162. Employment of children.—A child under the age of fourteen years shall not be employed in any mercantile establishment, except that a child upwards of twelve years of age may be employed therein during the vacation of the public schools of the city or district where such establishment is situated. No child under the age of sixteen years shall be employed in any mercantile establishment, unless such child shall produce a certificate issued as provided in this article, to be filed in the office of such establishment.
- ✓ § 163. Certificate for employment; how issued.—Such certificate shall be issued by the executive officer of the board, department or commissioner of health of the city, town or village, where such child resides or is to be employed, or by such other officer thereof as may be designated, by resolution for that purpose, upon the application of the child desiring such employment. At the time of making such application there shall be filed with such board, department, commissioner or officer, the affidavit of the parent or guardian of such child or the person standing in parental relation thereto, showing the date and place of birth of such child. Such certificate shall not be issued unless the officer issuing the same, is satisfied that such child is fourteen years of age or upwards, and is physically able to perform the work, which he intends to do. No fee shall be demanded or received for administering an oath as required by this section.
 - V§ 164. Contents of certificate.—Such certificate shall state the date and place of birth of the child, if known, and describe the color of the hair and eyes, the height and weight and any distinguishing facial marks of such child, and that, in the opinion of the officer issuing such certificate, such child is upwards of fourteen years of age, and is physically able to perform the work which he intends to do.
 - ✓ § 165. School attendance required.—No such certificate shall be issued unless it appears to the satisfaction of such board, department, commissioner or officer, that the child applying therefor has regularly attended at a school in which reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, English grammar and geography are taught, or upon equivalent instruction by a competent teacher elsewhere than at a school, for a period equal in length to one school year, during the year previous to his arriving at the age of fourteen years, or during the year previous to applying for such certificate, and is able to read and write simple sentences in the English language.

The principal or other executive officer of a school at which a child has been in attendance, or the teacher who has instructed such child elsewhere than at a school, shall furnish to such child or to the board or department of health, or health officer or commissioner, upon demand, a statement of the school attendance of such child.

S 166. Employment of children during vacations of public schools.—Children of the age of twelve years or more who can read and write simple sentences in the English language may be employed in mercantile establishments during the vacation of the public schools in the city or school district where such children reside, upon complying with all the provisions of this section, except that requiring school attendance. Certificates, to be designated as "vacation certificates," may be issued to such children in the same form, containing the same statements and issued by the same officers as the other certificates required by this article. Such vacation certificate shall specify the time in which the child may be employed in a mercantile establishment, which in no case shall be other than the time in which the public schools where such children reside, are closed for a vacation.

§ 167. Registry of children employed.—The owner, manager or agent of a mercantile establishment employing children, shall keep or cause to be kept, in the office of such establishment, a register, in which shall be recorded the name, birthplace, age and place of residence of all children so employed under the age of sixteen years.

Such register and the certificates filed in such office shall be produced for inspection, upon the demand of an officer of the board, department or commissioner of health of the town, village or city where such establishment is situated.

§ 168. Wash-rooms and water-closets.—Suitable and proper wash-rooms and water-closets shall be provided in, adjacent to or connected with mercantile establishments where women and children are employed. Such rooms and closets shall be so located and arranged as to be easily accessible to the employes of such establishments.

Such water-closets shall be properly screened and ventilated, and, at all times, kept in a clean condition. The water-closets assigned to the female employes of such establishments shall be separate from those assigned to the male employes.

If a mercaptile establishment has not provided wash-rooms and waterclosets, as required by this section, the board or department of health or health commissioners of the town, village or city where such establishment is situated, shall cause to be served upon the owner of the building occupied by such establishment, a written notice of the omission and directing such owner to comply with the provisions of this section respecting such wash-rooms and water-closets.

Such owner shall, within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice, cause such wash-rooms and water-closets to be provided.

- § 169. Lunch-rooms.—If a lunch-room is provided in a mercantile establishment where females are employed, such lunch-room shall not be next to or adjoining the water-closets, unless permission is first obtained from the board or department of health or health commissioners of the town, village or city where such mercantile establishment is situated. Such permission shall be granted unless it appears that proper sanitary conditions do not exist, and it may be revoked at any time by the board or department of health or health commissioner, if it appears that such lunchroom is kept in a manner or in a part of the building injurious to the health of the employes.
- § 170. Seats for women in mercantile establishments.—Chairs, stools or other suitable seats shall be maintained in mercantile establishments for the use of female employes therein, to the number of at least one seat for every three females employed, and the use thereof by such employes shall be allowed at such times and to such extent as may be necessary for the preservation of their health. If the duties of the female employes, for the use of whom the seats are furnished, are to be principally performed in front of a counter, table, desk or fixture, such seats shall be placed in front thereof; if such duties are to be principally performed behind such counter, table, desk or fixture, such seats shall be placed behind the same.
- § 171. Employment of women and children in basements.—Women or children shall not be employed or directed to work in the basement of a mercantile establishment, unless permitted by the board or department of health, or health commissioner of the town, village or city where such mercantile establishment is situated. Such permission shall be granted unless it appears that such basement is not sufficiently lighted and ventilated, and is not in good sanitary condition.
- § 172. Enforcement of article.—The board or department of health or health commissioners of a town, village or city affected by this article shall enforce the same and prosecute all violations thereof. Proceedings to prosecute such violations must be begun within thirty days after the alleged offense was committed. All officers and members of such boards or department, all health commissioners, inspectors and other persons appointed or designated by such boards, departments or commissioners may visit and inspect, at reasonable hours and when practicable and necessary, all mercantile establishments within the town, village or city for which they are appointed. No person shall interfere with or prevent any such officer from making such visitations and inspections, nor shall he be obstructed or injured by force or otherwise while in the performance of his duties. All persons connected with any such mercantile establishment shall properly answer all questions asked by such officer or inspector in reference to any of the provisions of this article.

§ 173. Copy of article to be posted.—A copy of this article shall be posted in three conspicuous places in each mercantile establishment affected by its provisions.

ARTICLE XII.

EXAMINATION AND REGISTRATION OF HORSESHOERS.

Section 180. Application of article.

181. Board of examiners.

182. Examination of applicants.

183. Registration of horseshoers.

184. Practice without examination.

Section 180. Application of article.—This article applies to all cities of the first and second class.

- § 181. Board of examiners.—There shall continue to be a board of examiners of horseshoers consisting of one veterinarian, two master horseshoers and two journeymen horseshoers, all of whom shall be citizens and residents of cities of the first or second class. The examiners in office when this chapter takes effect shall continue therein until the thirty-first day of December following the date of the expiration of the terms for which they were respectively appointed, and thereafter their successors shall be appointed by the governor for a term of five years.
- § 182. Examination of applicants.—The board of examiners shall, as often as necessary, hold sessions in the cities affected by this article for the purpose of examining applicants, desiring to practice as master or journeyman horseshoers. A person is not qualified to take such examination unless he has served an apprenticeship at horseshoeing for at least three years.

If the person examined is shown to be qualified to practice horseshoeing, the board shall issue to him a certificate stating his name and residence, the time when examined, when and where his apprenticeship was served, and that he is qualified to practice as a master or journeyman horseshoer.

Before he is entitled to be examined, an applicant must file with the board a written application stating his name, place of residence, and when, where and with whom his apprenticeship has been served.

The board shall receive as compensation a fee of five dollars from each person examined.

§ 183. Registration of horseshoers.—Each journeyman or master horseshoer shall present such certificate to the clerk of the county where he proposes to practice, and such clerk shall cause his name, residence and place of business to be registered in a book to be known as the "master and journeyman horseshoers' register." For each name so registered, the clerk is entitled to a fee of twenty-five cents. No person shall practice horseshoeing as a master or journeyman horseshoer in a city of the first or second class unless he is registered and has a certificate, as provided by this article.

§ 184. Practice without examination.—A person who has practiced as a master or journeyman horseshoer outside a city of the first or second class and within the United States continuously for a period of three years may present to the board of examiners his affidavit, stating his name, age, place of residence and when and where he has practiced as such horseshoer. The board shall thereupon issue to him a certificate stating the facts set forth in such affidavit, and that such person is entitled to practice as a master or journeyman horseshoer, as the case may be.

The person to whom the certificate is issued shall present it to the county clerk of the county where he intends to practice, and his name shall be registered, as provided in the preceding section. Such person may thereafter practice as a master or journeyman horseshoer in such county without examination.

The board is entitled to a fee of one dollar for each certificate issued under this section.

CHAP. 416.

AN AOT to amend the penal code, relative to violations of provisions of the labor law.

Became a law, May 13, 1897, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Sections three hundred and eighty-four-b and four hundred and forty-seven-a of the penal code are hereby amended to read as follows:

- § 384b. Unlawful dealing in convict-made goods.—A person who
- 1. Sells or exposes for sale convict-made goods, wares or merchandise, without a license therefor, or having such license does not transmit to the secretary of state the statement required by article four of the labor law; or
- 2. Sells, offers for sale, or has in his possession for sale any such convictmade goods, wares or merchandise without the brand, mark or label required by article four of the labor law; or
- 3. Removes or defaces or in any way alters such brand, mark or label, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand nor less than one hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than ten days or by both such fine and imprisonment.
- § 447a. Negligently furnishing insecure scaffolding.—A person or corporation employing or directing another to do or perform any labor in the erection, repairing, altering or painting, any house, building or structure within this state, who knowingly or negligently furnishes or erects or causes to be furnished or erected for the performance of such labor, unsafe, unsuitable or improper scaffolding, hoists, stays, ladders or other mechanical contrivances; or who hinders or obstructs any officer detailed to inspect the same, destroys or defaces any notice posted thereon, or permits the use thereof after the same has been declared unsafe by such officer contrary to the provisions of article one of the labor law, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

- § 2. The penal code is hereby amended by inserting at the end of title twelve the following new section:
- § 447c. Neglect to complete or plank floors of buildings constructed in cities.—A person, constructing a building in a city, as owner or contractor, who violates the provisions of article one of the labor law, relating to the completing or laying of floors, or the planking of such floors or tiers of beams as the work of construction progresses, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine for each offense of not less than twenty-five nor more than two hundred dollars.
- § 3. The penal code is hereby amended by inserting at the end of title eleven the following new sections:
- § 384f. Failure to furnish statistics to commissioner of labor; statistics.

 —Any person who refuses, when requested by the commissioner of labor statistics.
- 1. To admit him or a person authorized by him to a mine, factory, workshop, warehouse, elevator, foundry, machine shop or other manufacturing establishment; or,
- 2. To furnish him with information relative to his duties which may be in such person's possession or under his control; or,
- 3. To answer questions put by such commissioner in a circular or otherwise, or shall knowingly answer such questions untruthfully, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars.
- § 384g. Refusal to admit inspector to mines and quarries; failure to comply with requirements of inspector.—A person,
- 1. Refusing to admit the factory inspector, or any person authorized by him, to a mine or quarry, for the purpose of examination and inspection.
- 2. Neglecting or refusing to comply with the provisions of article nine of the labor law upon written notice of the factory inspector, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than thirty days.
 - § 384h. Hours of labor to be required.—Any person or corporation,
- 1. Who, contracting with the state or a municipal corporation, shall require more than eight hours work for a day's labor; or
- 2. Who shall require more than ten hours labor, including one-half hour for dinner, to be performed within twelve consecutive hours, by the employes of a street surface and elevated railway owned or operated by corporations whose main line of travel or routes lie principally within the corporate limits of cities of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants; or,

- 3. Who shall require the employes of a corporation owning or operating a brickyard to work more than ten hours in any one day or to commence work before seven o'clock in the morning, unless by agreement between employer and employe; or,
- 4. Who shall require the employes of a corporation operating a line of railroad of thirty miles in length or over, in whole or in part within this state to work contrary to the requirements of article one of the labor law, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction therefor shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred nor more than one thousand dollars for each offense. If any contractor with the state or a municipal corporation shall require more than eight hours for a day's labor, upon conviction therefor in addition to such fine, the contract shall be forfeited at the option of the municipal corporation.
- § 384i. Payment of wages.—A corporation or joint stock association or a person carrying on the business thereof, by lease or otherwise, who does not pay the wages of its employes in cash, weekly or monthly as provided in article one of the labor law, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction therefor, shall be fined not less than twenty-five nor more than fifty dollars for each offense.
- § 384j. Failure to furnish seats for female employes.—Any person employing females in a factory or mercantile establishment who does not provide and maintain suitable seats for the use of such employes and permit the use thereof by such employes to such an extent as may be reasonable for the preservation of their health, is guilty of a misdemeanor.
- § 384k. No fees to be charged for services rendered by free public employment bureaus.—A person connected with or employed in a free public employment bureau, who shall charge or receive, directly or indirectly, any fee or compensation from any person applying to such bureau for help or employment, is guilty of a misdemeanor.
- § 3841. Violations of provisions of labor law.—Any person who violates or does not comply with:
- 1. The provisions of article six of the labor law, relating to factories and the employment of children therein;
- The provisions of article seven of the labor law, relating to the manufacture of articles in tenements;
- 3. The provisions of article eight of the labor law, relating to bakeries and confectionery establishments, the employment of labor and the manufacture of flour or meal food products therein;
- 4. The provisions of article eleven of the labor law, relating to mercantile establishments, and the employment of women and children therein is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for a first offense by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than one hundred dollars; for a second offense by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; for a third offense by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 384m. Illegal practice of horseshoeing.—A person who presents to a county clerk, for the purpose of registration, a certificate purporting to qualify him to practice horseshoeing in a city of the first or second class, which has been fraudulently obtained, or practices as a horseshoer in any such city without complying with the provisions of article twelve of the labor law, or violates or neglects to comply with any of such provisions, is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Section 1. Short title.—This chapter shall be known as the lien law.

§ 2. Definitions.—The term "lienor," when used in this chapter, means any person having a lien upon property by virtue of its provisions, and includes his successor in interest. The term "real property," when used in this chapter, includes real estate, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, corporeal and incorporeal, fixtures, and all bridges and trestle work, and structures connected therewith, erected for the use of railroads, and all oil or gas wells and structures and fixtures connected therewith, and any lease of oil lands or other right to operate for the production of oil or gas upon such lands, and the right or franchise granted by a municipal corporation for the use of the streets or public places thereof, and all structures placed thereon for the use of such right or franchise. The term "owner," when so used, includes the owner in fee of real property, or of a less estate therein, a lessee for a term of years, a vendee in possession under a contract for the purchase of such real property, and all persons having any right, title or interest in such real property, which may be sold under an execution in pursuance of the provisions of statutes relating to the enforcement of liens of judgment, and all persons having any right or franchise granted by a municipal corporation to use the streets and public places thereof, and any right, title or interest in and to such franchise. The purchaser of real property at a statutory or judicial sale shall be deemed the owner thereof, from the time of such sale. If the purchaser at such sale fails to complete the purchase, pursuant to the terms of the sale, all liens created by his consent after such sale shall be a lien on any deposit made by him and not on the real property sold. The term "improvement," when so used, includes the erection, alteration or repair of any structure upon, connected with, or beneath the surface of, any real property and any work done upon such property, or material furnished for its permanent improvement. The term "public improvement," when so used, means an improvement upon any real property belonging to the State or municipal corporation. The term "contractor," when so used, means a person who enters into a contract with the owner of real property for the improvement thereof. The term "sub-contractor," when so used, means a person who enters into a contract for the improvement of such real property with a contractor, or with a person who has contracted with or through such contractor, for the performance of his contract or any part thereof. The term "laborer," when so used, means any person who performs labor or services upon such improvement. The term "material man," when so used, means any person, other than a contractor, who furnishes material for such improvement.

- § 3. Mechanics' lien on real property.—A contractor, sub-contractor, laborer or material man, who performs labor or furnishes materials for the improvement of real property with the consent or at the request of the owner thereof, or of his agent, contractor or sub-contractor, shall have a lien for the principal and interest of the value, or the agreed price, of such labor or materials upon the real property improved or to be improved and upon such improvement, from the time of filing a notice of such lien as prescribed in this article.
- § 4. Extent of lien.—Such lien shall extend to the owner's right, title or interest in the real property and improvements, existing at the time of filing the notice of lien. If an owner assigns his interest in such real property by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days prior to such filing, the lien shall extend to the interest thus assigned. If any part of the real property subjected to such lien be removed by the owner or by any other person, at any time before the discharge thereof, such removal shall not affect the rights of the lienor, either in respect to the remaining real property, or the part so removed. If labor is performed for, or materials furnished to a contractor or sub-contractor for an improvement, the lien shall not be for a sum greater than the sum unearned and unpaid on the contract at the time of filing the notice of lien, and any sum subsequently earned thereon. In no case shall the owner be liable to pay by reason of all liens, created pursuant to this article a sum greater than the value or agreed price of the labor and materials remaining unpaid, at the time of filing notices of such liens, except as hereinafter provided.

- § 5. Liens under contracts for public improvements.—A person performing labor for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his sub-contractor or legal representative for the construction of a public improvement pursuant to a contract by such contractor with the state or a municipal corporation, shall have a lien for the principal and interest of the value or agreed price of such labor or materials upon the moneys of such corporation applicable to the construction of such improvement, to the extent of the amount due or to become due on such contract, upon filing a notice of lien as prescribed in this article.
- § 6. Lieus for labor on railroads.—Any person who shall hereafter perform any labor for a railroad corporation shall have a lien for the value of such labor upon the railroad track, rolling stock and appurtenances of such railroad corporation an upon the land upon which such railroad track and appurtenances are situated, by filing a notice of such lien in the office of the clerk of any county wherein any part of such railroad is situated, to the extent of the right, title and interest of such corporation in such property, existing at the time of such filing. The provisions of this article relating to the contents, filing and entry of a notice of a mechanic's lien, and the priority and duration thereof, shall apply to such liens. A copy of the notice of such lien shall be personally served upon such corporation within ten days after the filing thereof in the manner prescribed by the code of civil procedure for the service of summons in actions in justices' courts against domestic railroad corporations.
- § 7. Liability of owner for advance payments, collusive mortgages and incumbrances.—Any payment by the owner to a contractor upon a contract for the improvement of real property, made prior to the time when, by the terms of the contract, such payment becomes due, for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this article, shall be of no effect as against the lien of a sub-contractor, laborer or material man under such contract, created before such payment actually becomes due. A mortgage, lien or incumbrance made by an owner of real property, for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this article, with the knowledge or privity of the person in whose favor the mortgage, lien or incumbrance is created, shall be void and of no effect as against a claim on account of the improvement of such real property, existing at the time of the creation of such mortgage, lien or incumbrance.

- § 8. Terms of contract may be demanded.—A statement of the terms of a contract pursuant to which an improvement of real property is being made, and of the amount due or to become due thereon, shall be furnished upon demand, by the owner, or his duly authorized agent, to a sub-contractor, laborer or material man performing labor for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his agent or sub-contractor, under such contract. If, upon such demand the owner refuses or neglects to furnish such statement or falsely states the terms of such contract or the amount due or to become due thereon, and a sub-contractor, laborer or material man has not been paid the amount of his claim against a contractor or sub-contractor, under such contract, and a judgment has been obtained and execution issued against such contractor or sub-contractor and returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, the owner shall be liable for the loss sustained by reason of such refusal, neglect or false statement, and the lien of such subcontractor, laborer or material man, filed as prescribed in this article, against the real property improved for the labor performed or materials furnished after such demand, shall exist to the same extent and beenforced in the same manner as if such labor and materials had been directly performed for and furnished to such owner.
 - § 9. Contents of notice of lien.—The notice of lien shall state:
 - 1. The name and residence of the lienor.
- 2. The name of the owner of the real property against whose interest therein a lien is claimed, and the interest of the owner as far as known to the lienor.
- 3. The name of the person by whom the lienor was employed, or to whom he furnished or is to furnish materials; or, if the lienor is a contractor or sub-contractor, the person with whom the contract was made.
- 4. The labor performed or to be performed, or materials furnished or to be furnished and the agreed price or value thereof.
 - 5. The amount unpaid to the lienor for such labor or materials.
- 6. The time when the first and last items of work were performed and materials were furnished.
- 7. The property subject to the lien, with a description thereof sufficient for identification; and if in a city or village, its location by street and number, if known. A failure to state the name of the true owner or contractor, or a misdescription of the true owner, shall not affect the validity of the lien. The notice must be verified by the lienor or his agent, to the effect that the statements therein contained are true to his knowledge, except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes it to be true.
- § 10. Filing of notice.—The notice of lien may be filed at any time during the progress of the work and the furnishing of the materials, or within ninety days after the completion of the contract, or the final performance of the work, or the final furnishing of the materials, dating from the last item of work performed or materials furnished. The notice of lien must be filed in the clerk's office of the county where the property is situated.

If such property is situated in two or more counties the notice of lien shall be filed in the office of the clerk of each of such counties. The county clerk of each county shall provide and keep a book to be called the "lien docket," which shall be suitably ruled in columns headed "owners," "lienors," "property," "amount," "time of filing," "proceedings had," in each of which he shall enter the particulars of the notice, properly belonging therein. The date, hour and minute of the filing of each notice of lien shall be entered in the proper column. The names of the owners shall be arranged in such book in alphabetical order. The validity of the lien and the right to file a notice thereof shall not be affected by the death of the owner before notice of the lien is filed.

- § 11. Service of copy of notice.—At any time after filing the notice of lien, the lienor may serve a copy of such notice upon the owner, by delivering the same to him personally, or if the owner can not be found, to his agent or attorney, or by leaving it at his last known place of residence in the city or town in which the real property or some part thereof is situated, with a person of suitable age and discretion, or by registered letter addressed to his last known place of residence, or, if such owner has no such residence in such city or town, or can not be found, and he has no agent or attorney, by affixing a copy thereof conspicuously on such property, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon. Until service of the notice has been made, as above provided, an owner, without knowledge of the lien, shall be protected in any payment made in good faith to any contractor or other person claiming a lien. A failure to serve the notice does not otherwise affect the validity of such lien.
- § 12. Notice of lien on account of public improvements.—At any time before the construction of a public improvement is completed and accepted by the municipal corporation, and within thirty days after such completion and acceptance, a person performing work for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his sub-contractor, assignee or legal representative, may file a notice of lien with the head of the department or bureau having charge of such construction and with the financial officer of the municipal corporation, or other officer or person charged with the custody and disbursements of the corporate funds applicable to the contract under which the claim is made. The notice shall state the name and residence of the lienor, the name of the contractor or sub-contractor for whom the labor was performed or materials furnished, the amount claimed to be due or to become due, the date when due, a description of the public improvement upon which the labor was performed and materials expended; the kind of labor performed and materials furnished and give a general description of the contract pursuant to which such public improvement was constructed. If the name of the contractor or sub-contractor is not known to the lienor, it may be so stated in the notice, and a failure to state correctly the name of the contractor or sub-contractor shall not affect the validity of the lien. The financial officer of the municipal corporation or other officer or person with whom the notice is filed shall enter the same in a book provided for that purpose, to be called the "lien book." Such entry shall include the name and residence of the lienor, the name of the contractor or sub-contractor, the amount of the lien and date of filing, and a brief designation of the contract under which the lien arose.

- § 13. Priority of liens.—A lien for materials furnished or labor performed in the improvement of real property shall have priority over a conveyance, judgment or other claim against such property not recorded, docketed or filed at the time of filing the notice of such lien; over advances made upon any mortgage or other incumbrance thereon after such filing; and over the claim of a creditor who has not furnished materials or performed labor upon such property, if such property has been assigned by the owner by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days before the filing of such notice. Such liens shall also have priority over advances made upon a contract by an owner for an improvement of real property which contains an option to the contractor, his successor or assigns to purchase the property, if such advances were made after the time when the labor began or the first item of material was furnished, as stated in the notice of lien. If several buildings are erected, altered or repaired, or several pieces or parcels of real property are improved, under one contract, and there are conflicting liens thereon, each lienor shall have priority upon the particular building or premises where his labor is performed or his materials are used. Persons standing in equal degrees as co-laborers or material men, shall have priority according to the date of filing their respective liens; but in all cases laborers for daily or weekly wages shall have preference over all other claimants under this article, without reference to the time when such laborers shall have filed their notices of liens.
- § 14. Assignments of lien.—A lien, filed as prescribed in this article, may be assigned by a written instrument signed and acknowledged by the lienor, at any time before the discharge thereof. Such assignment shall contain the names and places of residence of the assignor and assignee, the amount of the lien and the date of filing the notice of lien, and be filed in the office where the notice of the lien assigned is filed. The facts relating to such an assignment and the names of the assignee shall be entered by the the proper officer in the book where the notice of lien is entered and opposite the entry thereof. Unless such assignment is filed, the assignee need not be made a defendant in an action to foreclose a mortgage, lien or other incumbrance. A payment made by the owner of the real property subject to the lien assigned or by his agent or contractor, or by the contractor of a municipal corporation, to the original lienor, on account of such lien, without notice of such assignment and before the same is filed, shall be valid and of full force and effect. Except as prescribed herein, the validity of an assignment of a lien shall not be affected by a failure to file the same.

- § 15. Assignments of contracts and orders to be filed.—No assignment of a contract for the performance of labor or the furnishing of materials for the improvement of real property or of the money or any part thereof due or to become due therefor, nor an order drawn by a contractor or subcontractor upon the owner of such real property for the payment of such money shall be valid, until the contract or a statement containing the substance thereof and such assignment or a copy of each or a copy of such order, be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county wherein the real property improved or to be improved is situated, and such contract, assignment or order shall have effect and be enforceable from the time of such filing. Such clerk shall enter the facts relating to such assignment or order in the "lien docket" or in another book provided by him for such purpose.
 - § 16. Duration of lien.—No lien specified in this article shall be a lien for a longer period than one year after the notice of lien has been filed, unless within that time an action is commenced to foreclose the lien, and a notice of the pendency of such action, whether in a court of record or in a court not of record, is filed with the county clerk of the county in which the notice of lien is filed, containing the names of the parties to the action, the object of the action, a brief description of the real property affected thereby, and the time of filing the notice of lien; or unless an order be granted within one year from the filing of such notice by a court of record, continuing such lien, and such lien shall be redocketed as of the date of granting such order and a statement made that such lien is continued by virtue of such order. No lien shall be continued by such order for more than one year from the granting thereof, but a new order and entry may be made in each successive year. If a lienor is made a party defendant in an action to enforce another lien, and the plaintiff or such defendant has filed a notice of the pendency of the action within the time prescribed in this section, the lien of such defendant is thereby continued. Such action shall be deemed an action to enforce the lien of such defendant lienor. The failure to file a notice of pendency of action shall not abate the action as to any person liable for the payment of the debt specified in the notice of lien, and the action may be prosecuted to judgment against such person.
 - § 17. Duration of lien under contract for a public improvement.—If the lien is for labor done or materials furnished for a public improvement, it shall not continue for a longer period than three months from the time of filing the notice of such lien, unless an action is commenced to foreclose such lien within that time, and a notice of the pendency of such action is filed with the financial officer of the municipal corporation, with whom the notice of lien was filed.
 - § 18. Discharge of lien generally.—A lien other than a lien for labor performed or materials furnished for a public improvement specified in this article, may be discharged as follows:

- 1. By the certificate of the lienor, duly acknowledged or proved and filed in the office where the notice of lien is filed, stating that the lien is satisfied and may be discharged.
- 2. By failure to begin an action to foreclose such lien or to secure an order continuing it, within one year from the time of filing the notice of lien.
- 3. By order of the court vacating or canceling such lien of record, for neglect of the lienor to prosecute the same, granted pursuant to the code of civil procedure.
- 4. Either before or after the beginning of an action by the owner executing an undertaking with two or more sufficient sureties, who shall be freeholders, to the clerk of the county where the premises are situated, in such sums as the court or a judge or justice thereof may direct, not less than the amount claimed in the notice of lien conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be rendered against the property for the enforcement of the lien. The sureties must together justify in at least double the sum named in the undertaking. A copy of the undertaking, with notice that the sureties will justify before the court, or a judge or justice thereof, at the time and place therein mentioned, must be served upon the lienor or his attorney, not less than five days before such time. Upon the approval of the undertaking by the court, judge or justice an order shall be made discharging such lien. The execution of any such bond or undertaking by any fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of this state to transact business, shall be equivalent to the execution of said bond or undertaking by two sureties; and such company, if excepted to, shall justify through its officers or attorney in the manner required by law of fidelity and surety companies. Any such company may execute any such bond or undertaking as surety by the hand of its officers or attorney duly authorized thereto by resolution of its board of directors a certified copy of which resolution under the seal of said company, shall be filed with each bond or undertaking.
- § 19. Discharge of lien by payment of money into court.—A lien specified in this article, other than a lien for performing labor or furnishing materials for public improvement, may be discharged, at any time before an action is commenced to foreclose such iten, by depositing with the county clerk, in whose office the notice of lien is filed, a sum of money equal to the amount claimed in such notice, with interest to the time of such deposit. After such action is commenced the lien may be discharged by a payment into court of such sum of money, as, in the judgment of the court or a judge or justice thereof, after at least five days' notice to all the parties to the action, will be sufficient to pay any judgment which may be recovered in such action. Upon any such payment, the county clerk shall forthwith enter upon the lien docket and against the lien for the discharge of which such moneys were paid, the words "discharged by payment." A deposit of money made as prescribed in this section shall be repaid to the party making the deposit, or his successor, upon the discharge of the liens against the property pursuant to law. All deposits of money made as provided in this section shall be considered as paid into court and shall be subject to the provisions of the code of civil procedure relative to the payment of money into court and the surrender of such money by order of the court. An order for the surrender of such moneys may be made by any court of record having jurisdiction of the parties and of the subject matter of the proceeding for the foreclosure of the lien for the discharge of which such moneys were deposited. If no action is brought in a court of record to enforce such lien, such order may be made by any judge of a court of record.

- § 20. Discharge of lien for public improvement.—A lien against the amount due or to become due a contractor from a municipal corporation for the construction of a public improvement may be discharged as follows:
- 1. By filing a certificate of the lienor or his successor in interest, duly acknowledged and proved, stating that the lien is discharged.
- 2. By lapse of time, when three months have elapsed since filing the notice of lien, and no action has been commenced to enforce the lien.
- 3. By satisfaction of a judgment rendered in an action to enforce the lien.
- 4. By the contractor depositing with the financial officer of the municipal corporation, or the officer or person with whom the notice of lien is filed, such a sum of money as is directed by a justice of the supreme court, which shall not be less than the amount claimed by the lienor, with interest thereon for the term of one year from the time of making such deposit, and such additional amount as the justice deems sufficient to cover all costs and expenses. The amount so deposited shall remain with such financial officer or other officer or person until the lien is discharged as prescribed in subdivisions one, two or three of this section.
- § 21. Building loan contract.—A contract for the sale of land with a building loan and any modification thereof, must be in writing, and within ten days after its execution be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which any part of the land is situated. If not so filed, the interest of each party to such contract in the real property affected thereby, is subject to the lien and claim of a person who shall thereafter file a notice of lien under this chapter. A modification of such contract shall not affect or impair the right or interest of a person, who, previous to the filing of such modification had furnished or contracted to furnish materials, or had performed or contracted to perform labor for the improvement of the real property, but such right or interest shall be determined by the original contract. The county clerk is entitled to a fee of twenty cents for filing such a contract or modification. Such contracts and modifications thereof shall be indexed in a book provided for that purpose, in the alphabetical order of the names of the vendees.
- § 22. Construction of article.—This article is to be construed liberally to secure the beneficial interests and purposes thereof. A substantial compliance with its several provisions shall be sufficient for the validity of a lien and to give jurisdiction to the courts to enforce the same.

§ 23. Enforcement of mechanics' liens.—The mechanics' liens specified in this article may be enforced against the property specified in the notice of lien and which is subject thereto and against any person liable for the debt upon which the lien is founded. The code of civil procedure regulates and provides for such enforcement.

ARTICLE II.

LIENS ON VESSELS.

Section 30. Liens on vessels.

- 31. Lien on vessels causing damage.
- 32. Notice of lien, when to be filed.
- 33. Duration of lien.
- 34. Assignment of lien.
- 35. Enforcement of lien.

Section 30. Liens on vessels.—A debt which is not a lien by the maritime law, and which amounts to fifty dollars or upwards, on a sea-going or ocean-bound vessel, or fifteen dollars or upwards on any other vessel shall be a lien upon such vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, and shall be preferred to all other liens thereon, except mariners' wages, if such debt is contracted by the master, owner, charterer, builder or consignee of such ship or vessel, or by the agent of either of them, within this state, for either of the following purposes:

- 1. For work done or material or other articles furnished in this state for or towards the building, repairing, fitting, furnishing or equipping of such vessel.
- 2. For such provisions and stores, furnished within this state, as are fit and proper for the use of such vessel, at the time when they were furnished.
- 3. For wharfing and the expense of keeping such vessel in port, and for the expense of employing persons to watch her.
- 4. For loading or unloading such vessel, or for the advances made to procure necessaries therefor, or for the insurance thereof.
- 5. For towing or piloting such vessel, or for the insurance or premium of insurance of or on such vessel, or her freight; but no lien exists for a debt contracted for any purpose specified in this subdivision, unless it amounts to the sum of twenty-five dollars or more.
- § 31. Lien on vessel causing damage.—When a vessel shall have sustained damage by any other vessel through the negligence or wilful misconduct of the person navigating such vessel, to the extent of fifty dollars, the owner of the damaged vessel shall have a lien, unless a lien is given therefor by maritime law, upon the vessel causing the damage, her tackle, apparel and furniture, to the extent of such damage, which shall be deemed a debt for the purposes of this article, and the master, owner, agent or consignee of the damaged vessel may enforce such lien in like manner and with like effect as in case of other liens created by this article; but a notice of the lien must be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which such damage is sustained, and proceedings to enforce the lien must be commenced within ten days after the damage has been done, or such damage shall cease to be a lien upon such vessel. But if such damage is sustained in either of the counties of New York, Kings or Queens, such notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New York, and if the vessel causing such damage is built, used or fitted for the navigation of any of the canals or lakes of the state, a certified copy of such notice shall be filed in the office of the comptroller as provided in the next section.

- § 32. Notice of lien, when to be filed.—Every debt specified in section thirty shall cease to be a lien upon such vessel, unless the lienor shall, within thirty days after it is contracted, file a notice of lien, containing the name of the vessel, the name of the owner, if known, the particulars of the debt and a statement of the amount claimed to be due from such vessel, and verified by the lienor, his legal representative, agent or assignee, to be true and correct. If the debt is based upon a written contract, a copy of such contract shall be attached to such notice. The notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which the debt was contracted. But if the debt was contracted in either of the counties of New York, Kings or Queens, such notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New York. If the vessel is built, used or fitted for the navigation of any of the canals or lakes of the state the lienor shall immediately after filing the notice in the county clerk's office, file a copy thereof in the office of the comptroller of the state, duly certified by the county clerk in whose office the original notice is filed.
- § 33. Duration of lien.—Every lien for a debt shall cease if the vessel navigates the Western or Northwestern lakes, or either of them, or the Saint Lawrence river, at the expiration of six months after the first of January next succeeding the time when the debt was contracted, and in case of any other vessel, at the expiration of twelve months after the debt was contracted. If, upon the expiration of the time herein limited in either of such cases, such vessel shall be absent from the port at which the debt was contracted, the lien shall continue until the expiration of thirty days after the return of such vessel to such port. If proceedings are instituted for the enforcement of the lien within the time herein limited, such lien shall continue until the termination of such proceedings.
- § 34. Assignment of lien.—A lien, a notice of which has been filed pursuant to the provisions of this article, may be assigned by a written instrument duly acknowledged and filed in the same place where the notice of the lien was filed. The assignment shall specify the debt upon which the lien is founded, the date of the filing of the notice thereof, and the assignee. Such assignment and the name of the assignee shall be entered by the clerk opposite the original entry of such lien, and after the filing of such assignment, but not otherwise, the assignee may enforce the lien in like manner as the assignor could have done.

§ 35. Enforcement of liens.—If a lien, created by virtue of this article, is founded upon a maritime contract, it can be enforced only by proceedings in the courts of the United States, and in any other case, in the courts of this State, in the manner provided by the code of civil procedure.

ARTICLE III.

LIENS ON MONUMENTS, GRAVESTONES AND CEMETERY STRUCTURES.

Section 40. Liens on monuments, gravestones and cemetery structures.

- 41. Notice of lien.
- 42. Proceedings to enforce liens.
- 43. Disposition of proceeds of sale.
- 44. Duties of officers of cemetery associations.

Section 40. Liens on monuments, gravestones and cemetery structures.— A person furnishing or placing in a cemetery or burial ground, a monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure, has a lien thereon for the agreed price thereof or the part remaining unpaid, with interest from the time the amount was due, upon filing with the superintendent or person in charge of such cemetery or burial ground, a notice of lien as provided in this article.

- § 41. Notice of lien.—Such notice may be filed at any time after the completion of the work, but must be filed within one year after the agreed price for furnishing or placing such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure becomes due, and shall state that the lienor has a lien on such monument, gravestone, inclosure or structure for the purchase price thereof, or some unpaid part of such purchase price, with interest, specifying the amount agreed to be paid, and the amount unpaid, with a description of such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure, and the location of the plot upon which it stands, and the names of the persons with whom the agreement for the purchase and erection of the structure, or for the performance of such labor was made. The notice shall be signed and verified by the lienor. The lienor shall, within ten days after the filing of such notice, serve a copy personally, or by mail, upon the person with whom the agreement for the purchase and erection of such monument, gravestone, or other structure, or for the performance of labor thereon was made, and upon the owner of the lot upon which such monument, gravestone or other structure is erected, if the name and residence of such owner can, who reasonable diligence, be ascertained.
- § 42. Proceedings to enforce lien.—After the service of such notice, an action to recover the amount of the debt and to enforce a lien therefor may be maintained by the lienor against the person with whom the agreement was made, for the purchase and erection of such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure or for the performance of labor thereon. If such lienor succeeds in establishing his lien, the judgment recovered may authorize him to remove such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure from the burial-ground or cemetery and to sell the same at public auction to satisfy the amount of such judgment. Notice of the sale shall be published at least ten days before the time thereof, in a newspaper published in the town or city where such sale is to take place, and if no newspaper is published therein, in a newspaper nearest thereto. Such notice shall state the time and place of the sale, and shall describe the property to be sold. A copy of such notice shall be served personally or by mail at least ten days before such sale upon the persons served with the notice of lien as prescribed in the preceding section.

- § 43. Disposition of proceeds of sale.—The lienor shall, out of the proceeds of the sale, pay the expenses thereof, and the expenses of the removal of such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure from the cemetery or burial-ground, not exceeding fifty dollars, if a monument, and ten dollars, if a gravestone, inclosure or other structure, and retain out of such proceeds the amount due upon the judgment recovered in the action to enforce the lien, and the residue, if any, shall be forthwith paid to the judgment debtor.
- § 44. Duties of officers of cemetery associations.—The superintendent or other person in charge of a cemetery or burial-ground shall not permit the removal, alteration or inscription of a monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure, against which a lien exists, after the notice of such lien has been filed and served as prescribed in this article, except pursuant to the terms of a judgment recovered in an action brought to enforce such lien. No officer of a cemetery association, or other person connected with a cemetery or burial-ground, shall hinder or obstruct the removal in a proper manner of any such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure pursuant to the terms of such judgment.

ARTICLE IV.

LIENS FOR LABOR ON STONE.

Section 50. Lien for labor performed in quarrying, dressing and cutting stone.

- 51. Duration and effect of lien.
- 52. Discharge of lien.

Section 50. Lien for labor performed in quarrying, dressing and cutting stone.—A person employed in a quarry, yard or dock at excavating, quarrying, dressing or cutting sandstone, granite, bluestone, or marble, may have a lien upon such sandstone, granite, bluestone or marble, for the amount due for the labor expended thereon, upon filing a notice of lien in the office where a chattel mortgage upon such sandstone, granite, bluestone or marble is required to be filed, as provided in this chapter. Such notice must be filed within thirty days after the completion of such labor and must state the amount due therefor, the name and residence of the lienor, and the name of the person for whom the labor was performed, the quantity and a description of the sandstone, granite, bluestone or marble against which the claim is made. Such notice of lien shall be endorsed, filed and entered by the proper officer, in the same manner as chattel mortgages, and the same fees shall be charged therefor. A copy of the notice so filed shall be served upon the owner of such sandstone, granite, bluestone or marble or upon the person in charge of the quarry, yards or docks wherein such services were performed within five days after the filing thereof.

- § 51. Duration and effect of lien.—Such lien shall terminate unless an action is brought to enforce the same within three months after the date of filing such notice, as provided in the code of civil procedure for the enforcement of a lien upon a chattel. If the labor on such sandstone, granite, bluestone or marble is performed for a contractor under a contract with the owner of such quarry, yard or dock, the owner shall not be liable to pay by reason of all the liens filed against such quarry, yard or dock a greater sum than the amount unpaid upon such contract at the time of filing such notices, or in case there is no contract, then the aggregate amount unpaid of the value of labor and services performed, pursuant to the preceding section. The lien created by this article shall not attach to any material which shall have become a part of any building or structure, or ceased to be the property of the person for whom such labor was performed.
- § 52. Discharge of lien.—Such lien may be discharged by a payment of the amount due thereon, by a failure to bring an action to enforce the same within the time prescribed in the preceding section, by the written consent of the lienor, duly acknowledged and filed with the proper officer to the effect that such lien may be discharged, and by the owner of such sandstone, granite, bluestone or marble filing with such officer an undertaking in an amount equal to twice the sum specified in the notice of lien, executed by one or more sureties who shall justify in such amount and approved by the officer with whom the notice of lien is filed, conditioned for the payment of the sum due such lienor by reason of such lien, and the costs and expenses of enforcing the same.

ARTICLE V.

LIENS FOR SERVICE OF STALLIONS.

Section 60. Lien on mare and foal.

- 61. Statement and certificate.
- 62. Copy of statement and certificate to be filed.
- 63. Penalty.

Section 60. Lien on mare and foal.—On complying with the provisions of this article, the owner of a stallion shall have a lien on each mare served together with the foal of such mare from such service, for the amount agreed on at the time of service, or if no agreement was made, for the amount specified in the statement hereinafter required to be filed, if within one year after such service he files a notice of such lien in the same manner and place as chattel mortgages are required by law to be filed. Such notice of lien shall be in writing, specifying the person against whom the claim is made, the amount of the same and a description of the property upon which the lien is claimed, and such lien shall terminate at the end of one year from the date of such filing, unless within that time an action is commenced for the enforcement thereof, as provided in the code of civil procedure for the foreclosure of a lien on chattels.

- § 61. Statement and certificate.—A person having the custody or control of a stallion and charging a fee for his services, shall, before advertising or offering such services to the public, file with the clerk of the county in which he resides or in which such stallion is kept for service, a written statement giving the name, age, description and pedigree, if known, and if not, stating that the same is unknown, of such stallion and the terms and conditions on which he will serve. On filing such statement, the county clerk shall record the same in a book provided for that purpose and issue a certificate to such person, that such statement has been so filed and recorded. He shall be entitled to receive ten cents per folio for recording such statement and for such certificate.
- § 62. Copy of statement and certificate to be posted.—The person having the custody and control of such stallion, shall post a written or printed copy of such statement and certificate in a conspicuous place in each locality in which said stallion is kept for service.
- § 63. Penalty.—A person who neglects or refuses to file and post such statement as required in this article, or falsely states the pedigree of such stallion in such statement, forfeits all fees for the services of such stallion and is liable to a person deceived or defrauded thereby for the damages sustained.

ARTICLE VI.

OTHER LIENS ON PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Section 70. Artisans' lien on personal property.

- 71. Liens of hoter, inn, boarding and lodging house keepers.
- 72. Factors' liens on merchandise.
- . 73: Warehouse liens.
 - 74. Lien of bailee of animals.

Section 70. Artisans' lien on personal property.—A person who makes, alters, repairs or in any way enhances the value of an article of personal property, at the request or with the consent of the owner, has a lien on such article, while lawfully in possession thereof, for his reasonable charges for the work done and materials furnished, and may retain possession thereof until such charges are paid.

§ 71. Liens of hotel, inn, boarding and lodging house keepers.—A keeper of a hotel, inn, boarding-house or lodging-house, except an emigrant lodging-house, has a lien upon, while in possession, and may detain the baggage and other property brought upon their premises by a guest, boarder or lodger, for the proper charges due from him, on account of his accommodation, board and lodging, and such extras as are furnished at his request. If the keeper of such hotel, inn, boarding or lodging-house knew that the property so brought upon his premises was not, when brought, legally in possession of such guest, boarder or lodger, a lien thereon does not exist.

- § 72. Factors' liens on merchandise.—A person, in whose name any merchandise shall be shipped, is deemed the true owner thereof so far as to entitle the consignee of such merchandise to a lien thereon.
- 1. For any money advanced or negotiable security given by such consignee, to or for the use of the person in whose name such saipment is made; and
- 2. For any money or negotiable security received by the person in whose name such shipment is made, to or for the use of such consignee.

Such lien does not exist where the consignee has notice, by the bill of lading or otherwise, when or before money is advanced or security is given by him, or when or before such money or security is received by the person in whose name the shipment is made, that such person is not the actual and bona fide owner thereof.

- § 73. Warehouse liens.—A warehouse company, warehouseman or other person lawfully engaged in the business of storing goods, wares and merchandise for hire has a lien on goods deposited and stored with him for his storage charges, and for moneys advanced by him for cartage, labor, weighing and coopering in relation to such goods, or other goods belonging to the same owner; and he may detain such goods until his lien is paid.
- § 74. Lien of bailee of animals.—A person keeping a livery stable, or boarding stable, for animals, or pasturing or boarding one or more animals has a lien dependent upon possession upon each animal kept, pastured or boarded by him under an agreement with the owner thereof, whether such owner be a mortgagor remaining in possession or otherwise, for the sum due him for the care, keeping, boarding or pasture of the animal under the agreement, and may detain the animal accordingly until such sum is paid.

ARTICLE VII.

ENFORCEMENT OF LIENS ON PERSONAL PROPERTY BY SALE.

Section 80. Sale of personal property to satisfy a lien.

- 81. Notice to owner.
- 82. Sale to be advertised.
- 83. Redemption before sale.
- 84. Disposition of proceeds.
- 85. Remedy not exclusive.

Section 80. Sale of personal property to satisfy a lien.—A lien against personal property, other than a mortgage on chattels, if in the legal possession of the lienor, may be satisfied by the public sale of such property according to the provisions of this article.

- § 81. Notice to owner.—Before such sale is held, the lienor shall serve a notice upon the owner of such personal property, personally, if the owner is within the county where such lien arose, and if not, by mailing it to him at his last known place of residence. Such notice shall contain a statement of the following facts:
- 1. The nature of the debt or the agreement under which the lien arose, with an itemized statement of the claim and the time when due;
- A brief description of the personal property against which the lien exists:
 - 3. The estimated value of such property;
 - 4. The amount of such lien, at the date of the notice.

It shall also require such owner to pay the amount of such lien on or before a day mentioned therein, not less than ten days from the service thereof, and shall state the time when and place where such property will be sold, if such amount is not paid. If the agreement on which the lien is based provides for the continuous care of property, the lienor is also entitled to receive all sums which may accrue under the agreement, subsequent to the notice and prior to payment or a sale of the property; and the notice shall contain a statement that such additional sum is demanded. Such notice shall be verified by the lienor to the effect that the lien upon such property is valid, that the debt upon which such lien is founded is due and has not been paid and that the facts stated in such notice are true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

- § 82. Sale to be advertised.—Each sale of personal property to satisfy a lien thereon shall be at public auction to the highest bidder, and shall be held in the city or town where the lien was acquired. After the time for the payment of the amount of the lien, specified in the notice required to be served by the preceding section, notice of such sale, describing the property to be sold, and stating the name of the owner and the time and place of such sale, shall be published once a week, for two consecutive weeks, in a newspaper published in the town or city where such sale is to be held, and such sale shall be held not less than fifteen days from the first publication; if there be no newspaper published in such town, such notice shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein.
- § 83. Redemption before sale.—At any time before such property is so sold, the owner thereof may redeem the same by paying to the lienor the amount due on account of the lien, and whatever legitimate expenses have been incurred at the time of such payment in serving the notice and advertising the sale as required in this article. Upon making such payment, the owner of such property is entitled to the possession thereof.
- § 84. Disposition of proceeds.—Of the proceeds of such sale, the lienor shall retain an amount sufficient to satisfy his lien, and the expense lock advertisement and sale. The balance of such proceeds, if anamatical be held by the lienor subject to the demand of the owner, or it massignee or legal representative, and a notice that such balance is so held shall be served personally or by mail upon the owner of the property sold. If such balance is not claimed by the owner or his assignee or legal representative within thirty days from the day of sale, such balance shall be deposited with the treasurer or chamberlain of the city or village, or the supervisor of the town, where such sale was heid. There shall be filed with such deposit the affidavit of the lienor, stating the name and place of residence of the owner of the property sold, if known, the articles sold, the prices obtained therefor, that the notice required by this article was duly served and how served upon such owner, and that such sale was legally and how advertised. There shall also be filed therewith a copy of the notice served upon the owner of the property and of the notice of sale published or posted as required by this article. The officer with whom such balance is deposited shall credit the same to the owner of the property, and pay the same to such owner, his assignee or legal representative, on demand and satisfactory evidence of identity. If such balance remains in the possession of such officer for a period of five years, unclaimed by the person legally entitled thereto, it shall be transferred to the general funds of the town, village or city, and be applied and used as other moneys belonging to such town, village or city.

§ 85. Remedy not exclusive.—The provisions of this article do not preclude any other remedy by action or otherwise, now existing, for the enforcement of a lien against personal property, or bar the right to recover so much of the debt as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property.

ARTICLE VIII.

CHATTEL MORTGAGES.

Section 90. Chattel mortgage to be filed.

- 91. Corporate mortgages against real and personal property.
- 92. Where filed.
- 93. Filing and entry
- 94. Fees.
- 95. Mortgage invalid after one year, unless statement is filed.
- 96. Duration of lien of mortgage on canal craft.
- 97. Copies to be evidence of certain facts.
- 98. Mortgage, how discharged of record.

Section 90. Chattel mortgage to be filed.—Every mortgage or conveyance intended to operate as a mortgage of goods and chattels, or of any canal boat, steam tug, scow or other craft, or the appurtenances thereto, navigating the canals of the state, which is not accompanied by an immediate delivery, and followed by an actual and continued change of possession to Sect. things mortgaged is absolutely void as against the creditors of the mortgage) prand as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unlested in this article.

- § 91. Corporate mortgages against real and personal property.—Mortgages creating a lien upon real and personal property, executed by a corporation as security for the payment of bonds issued by such corporation, or by any telegraph, telephone or electric light corporation, and recorded as a mortgage of real property in each county where such property is located or through which the line of such telegraph, telephone or electric light corporation runs, need not be filed or refiled as chattel mortgages.
- § 92. Where filed.—An instrument, or a true copy thereof, if intended to operate as a mortgage of a canal boat, steam tug, scow or other craft, or of the appurtenances thereto, navigating the canals of this state, must be filed in the office of the comptroller, and need not be filed elsewhere. Every other chattel mortgage, or an instrument intended to operate as such, or a true copy thereof, must be filed in the town or city where the mortgagor, if a resident of the state, resides at the time of the execution thereof, and if not a resident, in the city or town where the property mortgaged is, at the time of the execution of the morgtage. If there is more than one mortgagor, the mortgage, or a certified copy thereof, must be filed in each city or town within the state where each mortgagor resides at the time of the execution thereof In the city of New York, such instrument must be filed in the office of the register of the city and county of New York; in the city of Brooklyn, in the office of the register of the county of Kings, and in every other city or town of the state, in the office of the city or town clerk, unless there is a county clerk's office in such city or town, in which case it must be filed therein.
- § 93. Filing and entry.—Such officers shall file every such instrument presented to them for that purpose, and indorse thereon its number and the time of its receipt. They shall enter in a book, provided for that purpose, in separate columns, the names of sli the parties to each mortgage so filed, arranged in alphabetical order, under the head of "mortgagors" and "mortgagees," the number of such mortgage or copy, its date, the amount secured thereby, when due, the date of the filing thereof; and, if the mortgage be upon a craft navigating the canals, and filed in the office of the comptroller, the name of the craft shall also be inserted.
- § 94. Fees.—The several clerks and registers are entitled to receive for services hereunder the following fees: For filing each instrument, or copy, six cents; for entering the same as aforesaid, six cents; for searching for each paper, six cents; and the like fees for certified copies of such instruments or copies as are allowed by law to clerks of countles for copies and certificates of records kept by them. The comptroller is entitled to receive the following fees for services performed under this article, for the use of the state: For filing each instrument or copy and entering the same, twenty-five cents; for searching for each paper, twenty-five cents; and the like fees for certified copies of such instruments or copies, as are allowed by law to be charged by the comptroller for copies and certificates of records kept in his office.

No office is required to file or enter any such paper or furnish a copy thereof, until his lawful fees are paid.

- § 95. Mortgage invalid after one year, unless statement is filed.—A chattel mortgage, except as otherwise provided in this article, shall be invalid as against creditors of the mortgagor, and against subsequent purchasers or mortagees in good faith, after the expiration of the first or any succeeding term of one year, reckoning from the time of the first filing, unless,
- 1. Within thirty days next preceding the expiration of each such term, a statement containing a description of such mortgage, the names of the parties, the time when and place where filed, the interest of the mortgagee or of any person who has succeeded to his interest in the property claimed by virtue thereof, or
- 2. A copy of such mortgage and its endorsements, together with a statement attached thereto or indorsed thereon, showing the interest of the mortgagee or of any person who has succeeded to his interest in the mortgage, is filed in the proper office in the city or town where the mortgagor then resides, if he is then a resident of the town or city where the mortgage or a copy thereof or such statement was last filed; if not such resident, but a resident of the state, a true copy of such mortgage, together with such statement, shall be filed in the proper office of the town or city where he then resides; and if not a resident of the state, then in the proper office of the city or town where the property so mortgaged was at the time of the execution of the mortgage.
- § 96. Duration of lien of mortgage on canal craft.—Every mortgage upon a canal boat or other craft navigating the canals of this state, filed as provided in this article, shall be valid as against the creditors of the mortgagor and against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith, as long as the debt which the mortgage secures is enforceable. From the time of filing, every such mortgage shall have preference and priority over all other claims and liens, not existing at the time of such filing.
- § 97. Copies to be evidence of certain facts.—A copy of any such original instrument, or of a copy thereof, including any statement relating thereto, certified by the officer with whom the same is filed, may be received in evidence, but only of the fact that such instrument, or copy, or statement was received and filed according to the endorsement thereon; and the original endorsement upon such instrument or copy may be received in evidence only of the facts stated in such endorsement.
- § 98. Mortgage, how discharged of record.—Upon the payment or satisfaction of a chattel mortgage, the mortgagee, his assignee or legal representative, upon the request of the mortgagor or of any person interested in the mortgaged property, must sign and acknowledge a certificate setting forth such payment or satisfaction. The officer with whom the mortgage, or a copy thereof is filed, must, on receipt of such certificate, file the same, in his office, and write the word "discharged" in the book where the mortgage is entered, opposite the entry thereof, and the mortgage is thereby discharged.

ARTICLE IX.

CONTRACTS FOR THE CONDITIONAL SALE OF GOODS AND CHATTELS.

- 111. Conditional sale of railroad equipment and rolling stock.
- 112. Conditions and reservations in contracts for the sale of goods and chattels.
- 113. Where contract to be filed.
- Endorsement, entry, refiling and discharge of conditional contracts.
- 115. Preceding sections not to apply to certain articles.
- 116. Sale of property retaken by vendor.
- 117. Notice of sale.

Section 110. Definitions.

118. Disposition of proceeds.

Section 110. Definitions.—The term "conditional vendor," when used in this article, means the person contracting to sell goods and chattels upon condition that the ownership thereof is to remain in such person, until such goods and chattels are fully paid for or until the occurrence of any future event or contingency; the term "conditional vendee," when so used, means the person to whom such goods and chattels are so sold.

- § 111. Conditional sale of railroad equipment and rolling stock.—Whenever any railroad equipment and rolling stock is sold, leased or loaned under a contract which provides that the title to such property, notwithstanding the use and possession thereof by the vendee, lessee or bailee, shall remain in the vendor, lessor or bailor, until the terms of the contract as to the payment of installments, amounts or rentals payable, or the performance of other obligations thereunder, are fully complied with and that title to such property shall pass to the vendee, lessee or other bailee on full payment therefor, such contract shall be invalid as to any subsequent judgment creditor of or purchaser from such vendee, lessee or bailee for a valuable consideration, without notice, unless
- 1. Such contract is in writing, duly acknowledged and recorded in the book in which real estate mortgages are recorded in the office of the county clerk or register of the county in which is located the principal office or place of business of such vendee, lessee or bailee; and unless
- 2. Each locomotive or car so sold, leased or loaned, has the name of the vendor, lessor or bailor, or of the assignee of such vendor, lessor or bailor, plainly marked upon both sides thereof, followed by the word owner, lessor, bailor or assignee, as the case may be.
- § 112. Conditions and reservations in contracts for sale of goods and chattels.—Except as otherwise provided in this article, all conditions and reservations in a contract for the conditional sale of goods and chattels, accompanied by immediate delivery and continued possession of the thing contracted to be sold, to the effect that the ownership of such goods and chattels is to remain in the conditional vendor or in a person other than the conditional vendee, until they are paid for, or until the occurrence of a future event or contingency shall be void as against subsequent purchasers, pledgees or mortgagees in good faith, and as to them the sale shall be deemed absolute, unless such contract of sale, containing such conditions and reservations, or a true copy thereof be filed as directed in this article.

- § 113. Where contract to be filed.—Such contracts shall be filed in the city or town where the conditional vendee resides, if he resides within the state at the time of the execution thereof; and if not, in the city or town where such property is at such time. Such contract shall be filed, in the city of New York, in the office of the register of the city and county of New York; in the city of Brooklyn, in the office of the register of the county of Kings; in every other city or town of the state, in the office of the town clerk, unless there be a county clerk's office in the city or town, when it shall be filed in such office.
- § 114. Endorsement, entry, refiling and discharge of conditional contracts.—The provisions of the preceding article relating to chattel mortgages apply to the endorsement, entry, refiling and discharge of contracts for the conditional sale of goods and chattels. The officers with whom such contracts are filed shall enter the future contingency or event required to occur before the ownership of such goods and chattels shall pass from the vendor to the vendee, and the amount due upon such contract and the time when due. The name of the conditional vendor shall be entered in the column of "mortgagees" and the name of the conditional vendee in the column of "mortgagors." The officers performing services under this article are entitled to receive the same fees as for like services relating to chattel mortgages.
- § 115. Preceding sections not to apply to certain articles.—The preceding sections of this article do not apply to the conditional sale of household goods, pianos, organs, scales, butchers' and meat market tools and fixtures, wood cutting machinery, engines, dynamos, boilers, portable furnaces, boilers for heating purposes, threshing machines, horse-powers, mowing machines, reapers, harvesters, grain drills and attachments, dairy sizes of centrifugal cream separators, coaches, hearses, carriages, buggles, phaetons and other vehicles, bicycles, tricycles and other devices for locomotion by human power, if the contract for the sale thereof is executed in duplicate, and one duplicate delivered to the purchaser.
- § 116. Sale of property retaken by vendor.—Whenever articles are sold upon the condition that the title thereto shall remain in the vendor, or in some other person than the vendee, until the payment of the purchase price, or until the occurrence of a future event or contingency, and the same are retaken by the vendor, or his successor in interest, they shall be retained for a period of thirty days from the time of such retaking, and during such period the vendee or his successor in interest may comply with the terms of such contract, and thereupon receive such property. After the expiration of such period, if such terms are not complied with.

§ 117. Notice of sale.—Not less than fifteen days before such sale, a printed or written notice shall be served personally upon the vendee, or his successor in interest, if he is within the county where the sale is to be held; and if not within such county, or he can not be found therein, such notice must be mailed to him at his last known place of residence.

Such notice shall state:

- 1. The terms of the contract.
- 2. The amount unpaid thereon.
- 3. The amount of expenses of storage.
- 4. The time and place of the sale, unless such amounts are sooner paid.
- § 118. Disposition of proceeds.—Of the proceeds of such sale, the vendor or his successor in interest may retain the amount due upon his contract, and the expenses of storage and of sale; the balance thereof shall be held by the vendor or his successor in interest, subject to the demand of the vendee or his successor in interest, and a notice that such balance is so held shall be served personally or by mail upon the vendee or his successor in interest. If such balance is not called for within thirty days from the time of sale, it shall be deposited with the treasurer or chamberlain of the city or village, or the supervisor of the town where such sale was held, and there shall be filed therewith a copy of the notice served upon the vendee or his successor in interest and a verified statement of the amount unpaid upon the contract, expenses of storage and of sale and the amount of such balance. The officer with whom such balance was deposited shall credit the vendee or his successor in interest with the amount thereof and pay the same to him on demand after sufficient proof of identity. If such balance remains in possession of such officer for a period of five years, unclaimed by the person legally entitled thereto, it shall be transferred to the funds of the town, village or city, and be applied and used as other moneys belonging to such town, village or city.

AN ACT to amend the code of civil procedure, relating to the enforcement of mechanics' liens on real property and liens on vessels.

Became a law, May 13, 1897, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, a majority being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. The code of civil procedure is hereby amended by inserting in chapter twenty-two thereof, a new title to be known as title three, and to read as follows:

TITLE III.

PROCEEDINGS FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF MECHANICS' LIENS ON REAL PROPERTY.

- Section 3398. Purpose of title; definitions.
 - 3399. Enforcement of a mechanic's lien on real property.
 - 8400. Enforcement of a lien under contracts for a public improvement.
 - 3401. Action in a court of record: consolidation.
 - 3402. Parties to action in a court of record.
 - 3403. Equities of lienors to be determined.
 - 3404. Action in a court not of record.
 - 3405. When personal service can not be made.
 - 3406. Proceedings on return of summons; judgment by defaults.
 - 3407. Issue; how tried.
 - 3408. Executions.
 - 3409. Appeals from judgments in courts not of record.
 - 3410. Transcripts of judgment in courts not of record.
 - 3411, Cost and disbursements.
 - 3412. Judgment in case of failure to establish lien.
 - 3413. Offer to pay into court.
 - 3414. Preference over contractors.
 - 3415. Judgment may direct delivery of property in lieu of money.
 - 3416. Judgment for deficiency.
 - 3417. Discharge of mechanics' lien by order of court.
 - 3418. Judgments in actions to foreclose liens on account of public improvements.
 - 3419. Judgment in action to foreclose a mechanic's lien on property of a railroad corporation.

Section 3398. Purpose of title; definitions.—This title is to be construed in connection with article one of the lien law, and provides proceedings for the enforcement of liens for labor performed and materials furnished in the improvement of real property, created by virtue of such article. The terms "real property," "lienor," "owner," "improvement," "public improvement," "contractor," "sub-contractor," "material man" and "laborer," as used in this title, are defined by section one of such law.

- § 3399. Enforcement of a mechanic's lien on real property.—A mechanic's lien on real property may be enforced against such property, and against a person liable for the debt upon which the lien is founded, by an action, by the lienor, his assignee or legal representative, in a court which has jurisdiction in an action founded on a contract for a sum of money equivalent to the amount of such debt.
- § 3400. Enforcement of a l'en under contract for a public improvement.— A lien for labor done or materials furnished for a public improvement may be enforced against the funds of the municipal corporation for which such public improvement is constructed, to the extent prescribed in article one of the lien law, and against the contractor or sub-contractor liable for the debt, by a civil action, in the same court and in the same manner as a mechanic's lien on real property.
- § 3401. Action in a court of record; consolidation.—The provisions of this code, relating to actions for the foreclosure of a mortgage upon real property, and the sale and the distribution of the proceeds thereof apply to actions in a court of record, to enforce mechanics' liens on real property, except as otherwise provided in this title. If actions are brought by different lienors in a court of record, the court in which the first action was brought, may, upon its own motion, or upon the application of either party to either action, consolidate all of such actions.
- § 3402. Parties to an action in a court of record.—In an action in a court of record the following are necessary parties defendant:
 - 1. All lienors having liens against the same property or any part thereof.
- 2. All other persons having subsequent liens or claims against the property, by judgment, mortgage or otherwise, and
- 3. All persons appearing by the records in the office of the county clerk or register to be overseers of such property or any part thereof. Every defendant who is a lienor shall, by answer in the action, set forth his lien, or he will be deemed to have waived the same, unless the lien is admitted in the complaint, and not contested by another defendant. Two or more lienors having liens upon the same property or any part thereof, may join as plaintiffs.
- § 3403. Equities of lienors to be determined.—The court may adjust and determine the equities of all the parties to the action and the order of priority of different liens, and determine all issues raised by any defense or counterclaim in the action.
- § 3404. Action in a court not of record.—If an action to enforce a mechanic's lien against real property is brought in a court not of record, it shall be commenced by the personal service upon the owner, anywhere within the state, of a summons and complaint verified in the same manner as a complaint in an action in a court of record. The complaint must set forth substantially the facts contained in the notice of lien, and the substance of the agreement under which the labor was performed or the materials were furnished. The form and contents of the summons shall be the same as provided by this code for the commencement of an action upon a contract in such court. The summons must be returnable not less than twelve nor more than twenty days after the date of the summons, or, if service is made by publication, after the day of the last publication of the summons. Service must be made at least eight days before the return day.

§ 3405. When personal service can not be made.—If personal service of the summons can not be made upon a defendant in an action in a court not of record, by reason of his absence from the state, or his concealment therein, such service may be made by leaving a copy thereof at his last place of residence and by publishing a copy of the summons once in each of three successive weeks in a newspaper in the city or county where the property is situated.

§ 3406. Proceedings on return of summons; judgment by default.—At the time and place specified in the summons for the return thereof, in a court not of record, issue must be joined, if both parties appear, by the defendant filing with the justice a verified answer, containing a general denial of each allegation of the complaint, or a specific denial of one or more of the material allegations thereof; or any other matter constituting a defense to the lien or to the claim upon which it is founded. If the defendant fail to appear on the return-day, on proof by affidavit of the service of the summons and complaint, judgment may be rendered for the amount claimed, with costs.

- § 3407. Issue, how tried.—If issue is joined in such action in a court not of record, it must be tried in the same manner as other issues in such court, and judgment entered thereon, which shall be enforced, if for the plaintiff, in the manner provided in the following section. If for the defendant, in the same manner as in an action on contract in such court.
- § 3408. Executions.—Execution may be issued upon a judgment obtained in an action to enforce a mechanic's lien against real property in a court not of record, which shall direct the officer to sell the title and interest of the owner in the premises, upon which the lien set forth in the complaint existed at the time of filing the notice of lien.
- § 3400. Appeals from judgments in courts not of record.—An appeal may be taken from such judgment rendered in a court not of record, according to the provisions of this code regulating appeals from judgments in actions on contract in such courts.
- § 3410. Transcripts of judgment in courts not of record.—When a judgment is rendered in a court not of record, the justice or judge of the court in which it is tried, or other person authorized to furnish transcripts of judgments therein, shall furnish the successful party a transcript thereof, which he may file with the clerk of the county with whom the notice of lien is filed. The filing of such transcript has the same effect as the filing of a transcript of any other judgment rendered in such courts.

§ 3411. Costs and disbursements.—If an action is brought to enforce a mechanic's lien against real property in a court of record, the costs and disbursements shall rest in the discretion of the court, and may be awarded to the prevailing party. The judgment rendered in such an action shall include the amount of such costs and specify to whom and by whom the costs are to be paid. If such action is brought in a court not of record, they shall be the same as allowed in civil actions in such court. The expenses incurred in serving the summons by publication may be added to the amount of costs now allowed in such court.

§ 3412. Judgment in case of failure to establish lien.—If the lienor shall fail, for any reason, to establish a valid lien in an action under the provisions of this title, he may recover judgment therein for such sums as are due him, or which he might recover in an action on a contract, against any party to the action.

§ 3413. Offer of payment.—At any time after an action is brought under the provisions of this title, the owner may make and file with the clerk with whom the notice of lien is filed, if in a court of record, and if in a court not of record, with the court, an offer to pay into court the sum of money stated therein, or to execute and deposit securities which he may describe, in discharge of the lien, and serve upon the plaintiff a copy of such offer. If a written acceptance of the offer is filed with such clerk, or court, within ten days after its service, and a copy of the acceptance is served upon the party making the offer, the court, upon proof of such offer and acceptance, may make an order, that on depositing with such clerk, or court, the sum so offered, or the securities described, the lien shall be discharged, and that the money or securities deposited shall take the place of the property upon which the lien existed, and shall be subject to the lien. If the offer is of money only, the court, on application and notice to the plaintiff may make such order, without the acceptance of the offer by the plaintiff. Money or securities deposited upon the acceptance of an offer pursuant to this section shall be held by the clerk or the court until the final determination of the action, including an appeal.

§ 3414. Preference over contractors.—When a laborer or a material man shall perform labor or furnish materials for an improvement of real property for which he is entitled to a mechanic's lien, the amount due to him shall be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of such property under any judgment rendered pursuant to this title, in the order of priority of his lien, before any part of such proceeds is paid to a contractor or subcontractor. If several notices of lien are filed for the same claim, as where the contractor has filed a notice of lien for the services of his workmen, and the workmen have also filed notices of lien, the judgment shall provide for but one payment of the claim which shall be paid to the parties entitled thereto in the order of priority. Payment voluntarily made upon any claim filed as a lien shall not impair or diminish the lien of any person except the person to whom the payment was made.

- § 3415. Judgment may direct delivery of property in lieu of money.—If the owner has agreed to deliver bills, notes, securities or other obligations or any other species of property, in payment of the debt upon which the lien is based, the judgment may direct that such substitute be delivered or deposited as the court may direct, and the property affected by the lien cannot be sold, by virtue of such judgment, except in default of the owner to so deliver or deposit within the time directed by the court.
- § 3416. Judgment for deficiency.—If upon the sale of the property under judgment in a court of record there is a deficiency of proceeds to pay the plaintiff's claim, judgment may be docketed for the deficiency against any person liable therefor, who shall be adjudged to pay the same in like manner and with like effect as in judgments for deficiency in foreclosure cases.
- § 3417. Discharge of mechanics' lien, by order of court.—A mechanic's lien on real property may be vacated and canceled by an order of a court of record. Before such order shall be granted a notice shall be served upon the lienor, either personally or by leaving it at his last-known place of residence, with a person of suitable age, with directions to deliver it to the lienor. Such notice shall require the lienor to commence an action to enforce the lien, within a time specified in the notice, not less than thirty days from the time of service, or show cause at a special term of a court of record, or at a county court, in a county in which the property is situated, at a time and place specified therein, why the notice of lien filed should not be vacated and canceled of record. Proof of such service and that the lienor has not commenced the action to foreclose such lien, as directed in the notice, shall be made by affidavit, at the time of applying for such order.
- § 3418. Judgments in actions to foreclose liens on account of public improvements.—If, in an action to enforce a lien on account of a public improvement, the court finds that the lien is established, it shall render judgment directing the municipal corporation to pay over to the lienors entitled thereto for work done or material furnished for such public improvement, and in such order of priority as the court may determine, to the extent of the sums found due the lienors from the contractors, so much of the funds or money which may be due from the state or municipal corporation to the contractor, as will satisfy such liens, with interest and costs, not exceeding the amount due to the contractor.
- § 3419. Judgment in actions to foreclose a mechanic's lien on property of a railroad corporation.—If the lien is for labor done or materials furnished for a railroad corporation, upon its land, or upon or for its track, rolling stock or the appurtenances of its railroad, the judgment shall not direct the sale of any of the real property described in the notice of the lien, but when in such case a judgment is entered and docketed with the county clerk of the county where the notice of lien is filed, or a transcript thereof is filed and docketed in any other county, it shall be a lien upon the real property of the railroad corporation, against which it is obtained, to the same extent, and enforcible in like manner as other judgments of courts of record against such corporation.

§ 2. The code of civil procedure is hereby amended by inserting in chapter twenty-two a new title, to be known as title four, and to read as follows:

TITLE IV.

PROCEEDINGS TO ENFORCE LIENS ON VESSELS.

Section 3420. Enforcement of liens on vessels.

- 3421. Application for warrant.

Section 3419. Enforcement of liens on vessels.—Liens on vessels, created by virtue of article two of the lien law, and not based upon a maritime contract, may be enforced as prescribed in this title.

§ 3420. Application for warrant.—The lienor may make a written application to a justice of the supreme court, at chambers, in the judicial district in which the lienor resides or in a county adjoining such district for a warrant to enforce a lien on a vessel and to collect the amount thereof.

The application shall specify:

- 1. By whom and when such debt was contracted and for what vessel; and the name and residence of the owner of the vessel, if known.
 - 2. The items composing the debt and the amount claimed.

- 3. That the debt is justly due the applicant over and above all payments and just deductions.
- 4. Any assignment or transfer of the debt which may have taken place since it was contracted.
 - 5. When and where the notice of lien was filed.

The application shall be verified in the same manner as a pleading in a court of record.

§ 3421. Undertaking to accompany application.—Such application shall be accompanied by an undertaking in the sum of at least one hundred dollars, to be approved by such justice and filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the notice of lien is filed, with at least one surety, who shall be a resident and freeholder within the state, to the effect that if it is finally adjudged that the applicant was not entitled to the warrant, he will pay all costs which may be awarded against him, not exceeding the amount specified in the undertaking, and any damages sustained by reason of the seizure of the vessel under such warrant, not to exceed fifty dollars.

§ 3422. Warrant; execution thereof.—Thereupon, such justice shall issue a warrant to the sheriff of the county where such vessel may be, or, generally to the sheriff of any county, specifying the amount of the claim, and the names of the persons making the claim and commanding him to seize and safely keep such ship or vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, to satisfy such claim, if established to be a lien upon the vessel according to law, and within ten days after the seizure to make return of his proceedings under the warrant to such justice. The sheriff shall forthwith execute such warrant, and keep the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture to be disposed of according to law. In his return the sheriff shall state also whether he has seized such vessel by virtue of any other warrant, and if so, in whose behalf and for what sum such warrant was issued and the time of its receipt by him.

§ 3423. Order to show cause; contents; service.—At the time of issuing such warrant the justice shall grant an order to show cause, why the vessel seized by virtue of such warrant should not be sold to satisfy the lien specified in the application. Such order shall be returnable not less than eight days after the service thereof, as required in this section, before the justice and at the time and place mentioned therein. It shall be directed to the master or other person in charge of the vessel selzed and to the owner and consignee thereof, if known. A copy of such order and the application for the warrant shall be served personally upon the master or other person in charge of such vessel at the time of the execution of such warrant; and personally upon the owner and consignee of such vessel if a resident of the state, or if not a resident of the state, by mail addressed to such owner or consignee at his last known place of residence, within ten days after the execution of such warrant.

§ 3424. Notice of service to be published and served.—Within three days after the issue of the warrant, the applicant shall cause a notice to be published once in each week for two consecutive weeks, in a newspaper published in the county where the vessel was selzed, stating the issuance of the warrant, the date thereof, the amount of the claim specified therein, the name of the applicant, and the time and place of the return of the order to show cause granted as prescribed in this title. If the vessel selzed is used to navigate any of the canais or lakes of the state, a copy of such notice shall be served personally, or by mail, within ten days after the first publication, upon all persons who have filed claims or liens against such vessel, by mortgage or otherwise in the office of the comptroller of the state,

- § 3425. Proceedings upon return of order to show cause.—At the time and place mentioned in the order to show cause, the master or other person in charge of such vessel, the owner or consignee thereof or any other person interested therein, may apply and contest the claim of the lienor as contained in the application for a warrant, by filing with the justice an affidavit controverting any material allegation contained in the notice of lien or the application of the lienor. The issue so raised shall be tried as are other issues in a court of record, without a jury, before the justice granting the order at a time to be fixed by him, or they may be referred by him to a referee, to be heard and determined.
- § 3426. Order of sale.—An order may be made by the justice before whom the order to show cause was returnable, for the sale of the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, in the following cases:
- 1. In case the master, owner, consignee or other person interested in the vessel does not appear upon the return day and contest the claim of the lienor, and proof is made of the service of the order to show cause and the application and of the publication of the notice and the service thereof, as required in this title, and due proof is made of the validity and amount of such claim;
- 2. In case a trial is had of the issues raised, and it is determined that the lien is valid and the amount claimed by the lienor or some part thereof is due.

Such order shall direct the sheriff who seized the vessel to sell the same and her tackle, apparel and furniture, to satisfy the liens established on hearing, and pay the costs and expenses necessarily incurred in the proceedings as prescribed in this title. The rights of mortgagees whose mortgages have been filed according to law, prior to the filing of the notice of lien, on account of which the order of sale is granted shall not be affected by the sale of such vessel pursuant to such order.

§ 3427. Sale and proceeds.—Within ten days after the receipt of the order of sale, the sheriff, unless the order be sooner vacated or the lien discharged, shall sell the vessel selzed, her tackle, apparel and furniture, upon notice, and in the manner prescribed by law for the sale of personal property upon execution issued out of a court of record. He shall make a return to the justice granting the order, of his proceedings thereunder, and shall, after deducting his fees and expenses in seizing, preserving, watching and selling the vessel, pay into court the remaining proceeds of the sale.

§ 3428. Notice of the distribution of the proceeds of sale.—The justice granting the order of sale, upon receiving such proceeds, shall order a notice to be published once a week for three successive weeks in the same newspaper in which the notice of seizure was published, requiring all persons having liens upon the vessel under article two of the lien law, and the master, owner, agent or consignee thereof, and all other persons interested therein, to appear before him, or a referee appointed by him, at the time and place specified in such notice, not less than thirty nor more than forty days from the first publication thereof, to attend a distribution of such proceeds. Such justice may appoint a referee to make such distribution.

§ 3429. Liens for which no warrants are issued.—A person who has a lien under article two of the lien law, against the vessel so sold, and has made no application for a warrant thereon, may present to and file with the justice or referee at the time and place specified in the notice of distribution of such proceeds, a verified statement of the facts and allegations required to be stated in the application for a warrant. And thereupon such lien shall be determined, with the same effect as if a warrant had been issued to enforce such lien.

§ 3430. Contested claims.—The master, owner, agent or consignee of the vessel, or any person having an interest in the proceeds before final distribution thereof, may contest any claim made against the vessel or its proceeds, by filing with such justice a written answer, verified as a pleading in a court of record, designating the claims contested and controverting any material allegation of the notice of lien, application for a warrant or statement of lien, and setting up any other matter in defense thereto. A copy of such answer shall be served within five days from such filing, upon the person whose claim is contested, or his attorney.

If the answer does not contain any matter of defense to the claim, it may be stricken out on motion of any person who has filed a notice of lien against the vessel.

§ 3431. Trial of issues and appeal.—The issues raised by any such answer shall be tried in the same manner as issues are tried in a court of record without a jury, before such justice at a time and place to be fixed by him, or they may be referred by such justice to a referee, to hear and determine. An appeal may be taken from the decision of such justice or referee as in a civil action in a court of record. On such appeal the decision upon the law and the facts, may be reversed, modified or a new trial ordered. Costs, upon appeal, shall be allowed, as in the case of an appeal from a judgment in a court of record, and judgment may be rendered therefor.

§ 3432. Distribution of proceeds.—Upon the determination of all the claims presented, the justice or referee shall make an order of distribution of the proceeds. The order shall direct the payment of the claims found to be subsisting liens upon such vessel or proceeds, with all costs, expenses and allowances, in the order of the priority of filing the notices of such liens, as provided in article two of the lien law. Such costs, expenses and allowances shall be in the discretion of the justice, except as otherwise provided in this title.

§ 3433. Payment of uncontested claims.—Any uncontested claims, entitled to priority of payment over the claims which are contested, shall, on motion of the parties interested, be paid with costs, in the order of their respective priorities, without awaiting the determination of such contest. If at any time it is made to appear that after the payment of all prior uncontested claims and their respective costs, and after deducting an amount sufficient to pay all prior contested claims and costs, that there remains a surplus of proceeds applicable to the payment of any subsequent uncontested claims such claims may on notice to all the parties interested be paid out of the surplus with costs, without awaiting the determination of such contest.

§ 3434. Distribution of surplus.—If upon payment of all claims established as liens against the vessel from the proceeds of its sale, a surplus remains, it may be distributed by the court to the persons entitled thereto, after a hearing and the publication of a notice by the applicants for the same time and in the same manner as the notice of seizure is required by this title to be published. Such notice shall specify the amount of the surplus proceeds, the names of the persons applying therefor, the name of the vessel from the sale of which the same arose, the date of the sale and the time and place when the hearing will be held and the distribution of the surplus made.

§ 3435. Application for a discharge of warrant.—The owner, consignee, agent or master of any vessel so seized, or any person interested therein, may at any time before the sale of the vessel under this title, apply in person or by attorney to the justice issuing the warrant, on at least one day's notice to the lienor or his attorney, for an order discharging the same on giving an undertaking therefor. Such notice shall specify the names, places of residence and places of business of the proposed sureties upon such undertaking.

§ 3436. Undertaking to accompany application for discharge.—The application shall be accompanied by an undertaking to the lienor executed by at least two sureties in a sum at least twice the amount specified in the warrant, to the effect that the person making the application for the discharge of the vessel will pay the amount of all claims and demands which shall be established to be due to the person in whose behalf the warrant was issued, and to have been a subsisting lien on the vessel at the time of its issue. The undertaking, when found sufficient, must be approved by the justice to whom the application is made as to the sufficiency of the sureties, and the lienor may examine the sureties as to their sufficiency at such time and places as may be fixed by such justice.

§ 3437. Discharge of warrant.—When such undertaking shall have been executed, approved and delivered to the lienor and the taxed fees of the sheriff upon the seizure and detention of the vessel have been paid, the justice shall make an order discharging the warrant, and no further proceedings against the vessel seized shall be had under this article founded upon any demand secured by such undertaking.

§ 3438. Action on undertaking.—The undertaking may be prosecuted by action in any court having jurisdiction thereof, at any time within three months after its delivery, but not afterward. If, in such action it is found that any sum is due the plaintiff which was a subsisting lien upon the vessel at the time the notice of lien was filed, the plaintiff shall have judgment for the recovery of the same with the costs and disbursements of the action and the costs of the proceedings for the seizing of the vessel and shall have execution therefor. If it is found in such action that no such lien existed, judgment shall be rendered against the plaintiff for the costs and disbursements of the action and the costs of the proceedings, including the amount paid the sheriff in the discharge of the vessel from the warrant.

§ 3439. Costs of proceedings.—The costs of the proceedings in addition to the disbursements shall be: For filing notice of lien, two dollars. For applying for and procuring a warrant if the lien is fifty dollars or under, ten dollars; if the lien exceeds fifty dollars and is not more than two hundred and fifty dollars, twenty dollars; if the lien exceeds two hundred and fifty dollars, and is not more than one thousand dollars, thirty dollars; if the lien exceeds one thousand dollars, forty dollars. For attending proceedings upon the discharge of the warrant on the execution of an undertaking, ten dollars.

The sheriff shall be entitled in any such proceedings to the following fees and expenses: For serving warrant, one dollar. For return of the same, one dollar. The necessary sums paid by him for the expense of keeping the vessel in custody, not exceeding two dollars and fifty cents for each day. The sheriff shall not receive any other or greater sums for any service rendered by him in any proceeding under this title, nor shall he be allowed expense of custody of the vessel upon more than one warrant at the same time. All costs, disbursements and fees shall be verified by affidavit and adjusted by the justices issuing the warrant.

§ 3440. Sheriff must return warrant.—A sheriff to whom a warrant may have been delivered pursuant to the provisions of this title, may be compelled by an order made by the justice issuing it, to return such warrant with his proceedings thereon and pay over moneys in his hands, and to take any necessary steps for the safety of the vessel, pursuant to any order for that purpose. Obedience to such an order may be enforced by attachment against the sheriff on the application of any person interested therein.

§ 3441. Discharge of lien before issue of warrant.—When any notice of lien shall have been filed under this article and no warrant has been issued to enforce the same, any person interested in the vessel may apply to any justice of the supreme court for leave to discharge the lien upon giving an undertaking therefor to the lienor. The application shall be in writing, and shall state the amount of the lien claimed and the grounds of the defense thereto, and the names of the persons proposed as sureties on such undertaking, with their respective residences and places of business. Upon presenting such application with proof that a copy thereof. with at least five days' notice of the time and place of presenting the same, has been served upon the lienor, such justice may, if no just cause be shown in opposition thereto, authorize the execution of such undertaking, which shall be to the same effect as an undertaking required in this article upon the application to discharge a warrant, and an action may be brought thereon in like manner. At the time of the presentation of such application the sureties proposed in such undertaking shall justify before such justice. When such undertaking has been executed and approved by such justice and delivered to the lienor, the justice shall direct the clerk with whom the notice of lien is filed to mark the same as discharged, and it shall cease to be lien upon such vessel.

- § 3. The laws enumerated in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed. Such repeal shall not revive a law repealed by any law hereby repealed, but shall include all laws amendatory of the laws hereby repealed.
- § 4. The repeal of a law or any part of it, specified in the annexed schedule shall not affect or impair any act done or right accruing, accrued or acquired under or by virtue of the laws so repealed, but the same may be asserted, enforced or prosecuted as fully and to the same extent as if such laws had not been repealed. And all actions and proceedings commenced under or by virtue of any provision of a law so repealed, and pending immediately prior to the taking effect of this act, may be prosecuted and defended to final effect in the same manner as they might if such provisions were not repealed.
- § 5. This act shall take effect September first, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven.

CHAP. 444.

AN ACT to prohibit the assignment and subletting of public contracts.

Became a law May 17, 1897, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

- Section 1. A clause shall be inserted in all specifications or contracts hereafter made or awarded by the state, or by any county, or any municipal corporation, or any public department or official thereof, prohibiting any contractor, to whom any contract shall be let, granted or awarded, as required by law, from assigning, transferring, conveying, subletting or otherwise disposing of the same or of his right, title or interest therein, or his power to execute such contract to any other person, company or corporation, without the previous consent in writing of the department or official awarding the same.
- § 2. If any contractor, to whom any contract is hereafter let, granted or awarded, as required by law, by the state, or any county, or any municipal corporation in the state, or by any public department or official thereof, shall, without the previous written consent specified in section one of this act, assign, transfer, convey, sublet or otherwise dispose of the same, or his right, title or interest therein, or his power to execute such contract, to any other person, company or other corporation, the state, county, municipal corporation, public department, or official as the case may be, which let, made, granted or awarded said contract shall revoke and annul such contract, and the state, county, municipal corporation, public department or officer, as the case may be, shall be relieved and discharged from any and all liability and obligations growing out of said contract to such contractor, and to the person, company, or corporation to whom he shall assign, transfer, convey, sublet or otherwise dispose of the same, and said contractor, and his assignee, transferee, or sub-lessee, shall forfelt and lose all monies theretofore earned under said contract except so much as may be required to pay his employes; provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to hinder, prevent or affect an assignment by such contractor for the benefit of his creditors, made pursuant to the statues of this state.
- § 3. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.
 - $ 4. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAP. 635.

AN ACT to amend chapter four hundred and ten of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-two, entitled "An act to consolidate into one act and to declare the special and local laws affecting public interests in the city of New York," relative to engineers.

Accepted by the city.

Became a law May 22, 1897, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section three hundred and twelve of chapter four hundred and ten of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-two is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 312. The board of police shall preserve in proper form a correct record of all inspections of steam boilers made under its direction, and of the amount of steam or pressure allowed in each case, and in cases where any steam boiler or the apparatus or appliances connected therewith shall be deemed by the board, after inspection, to be insecure or dangerous, the board shall prescribe such changes and alterations as may render such boilers, apparatus and appliances secure and devoid of danger. And in the meantime, and until such changes and alterations are made, and such appliances attached, such boiler, apparatus and appliances may be taken under the control of the board of police, and all persons prevented from using the same, and in cases deemed necessary, the appliances, apparatus, or attachments for the limitation of pressure may be taken under the control of the said board of police. And no owner, or agent of such owner, or lessee of any steam boiler to generate steam, shall employ any person as engineer or to operate such boiler unless such person shall first obtain a certificate as to qualification therefor from a board of practical engineers detailed as such by the police department, such certificate to be countersigned by the officer in command of the sanitary company of the police department of the city of New York. In order to be qualified to be examined for and to receive such certificate of qualification as an engineer, a person must comply, to the satisfaction of said board, with the following requirements:

- 1. He must be a citizen of the United States and over twenty-one years of age.
- 2. He must, on his first application for examination, fill out, in his own handwriting, a blank application to be prepared and supplied by the said board of examiners, and which shall contain the name, age, and place of residence of the applicant, the place or places where employed and the nature of his employment for five years prior to the date of his application, and a statement that he is a citizen of the United States. The application shall be verified by him, and shall, after the verification, contain a certificate signed by three engineers, employed in New York city, and registered on the books of said board of examiners as engineers working at their trade, certifying that the statements contained in such application are true. Such application shall be filed with said board.

- 3. The following persons, who have first complied with the provisions of subdivisions one and two of this section, and no other persons may make application to be examined for a license to act as engineer.
- a. Any person who has been employed as a fireman, as an oiler, or as a general assistant under the instructions of a licensed engineer in any building or buildings in the city of New York, for a period of not less than five years.
- b. Any person who has served as a fireman, oiler, or general assistant to the engineer on any steamship, steamboat, or on any locomotive engine for the period of five years and shall have been employed for two years under a licensed engineer in a building in the city of New York.
- c. Any person who has learned the trade of machinist, or boiler maker or steamfitter, and worked at such trade for three years, exclusive of time served as apprentice, or while learning such trade, and also any person who has graduated as a mechanical engineer from a duly established school of technology, after such person has had two years' experience in the engineering department in any building or buildings in charge of a licensed engineer in the city of New York.
- d. Any person who holds a certificate as engineer issued to him by any duly qualified board of examining engineers existing pursuant to law in any state or territory of the United States and who shall file with his application a copy of such certificate and an affidavit that he is the identical person to whom said certificate was issued. If the board of examiners of engineers shall determine that the applicant has complied with the requirements of this section he shall be examined as to his qualifications to take charge of, and operate steam boilers and steam engines in the city of New York, and if found qualified said board shall issue to him a certificate of the third class. After the applicant has worked for a period of two years under his certificate of the third class, he may be again examined by said board for a certificate of the second class and if found worthy the said board may issue to him such certificate of the second class, and after he has worked for a period of one year under said certificate of the second class he may be examined for a certificate of the first class; and when it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of said board of examiners that the applicant for either of said grades lacks mechanical skill, is a person of bad habits or is addicted to the use of intoxicating beverages he shall not be entitled to receive such grade of license and shall not be re-examined for the same until after the expiration of one year. Every owner or lessee, or the agent of the owner or lessee, of any steam boiler, steam generator, or steam engine aforesaid, and every person acting for such owner or agent is hereby forbidden to delegate or transfer to any person or persons other than the licensed engineer the responsibility and liability of keeping and maintaining in good order and condition any such steam boiler, steam generator or steam engine, nor shall any such owner, lessee or agent enter into a contract for the operation or management of a steam boiler, steam generator or steam engine, whereby said owner, lessee or agent shall be relieved of the responsibility or liability for injury which may be caused to person or property by such steam boiler, steam generator or steam engine. Every engineer holding a certificate of qualification from said board of examiners shall be responsible to the owner, lessee, or agent employing him for the good care, repair, good order and management of the steam boiler, steam generator or steam engine in charge of, or run or operated by such engineer.

CHAP. 645.

AN ACT in relation to printing in penal institutions in the state.

Became a law April 29, 1898, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, a majority being present,

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. No printing or photo-engraving shall be done in any state prison, penitentiary or reformatory for the state or any political division thereof, or for any public institution owned or managed and controlled by the state or any such political division except such printing as may be required for or used in the penal and state charitable institutions, and the reports of the state commission of prisons and the superintendent of prisons, and all printing required in their offices.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

CHAP. 671.

AN ACT to prevent fraudulent representation in labor organizations.

Became a law April 30, 1898, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, a majority being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Any person who represents himself or herself to be a member of, or who claims to represent a labor organization which does not exist within the state, at the time of such representation, or who has in his or her possession a credential, certificate or letter of introduction bearing a fraudulent seal, or bearing the seal of a labor organization which has ceased to exist, and does not exist at the time of such representation, and attempts to gain admission by the use of said credential, certificate or letter of introduction, as a member of any convention, or meeting of representatives of labor organizations of the state, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punishable by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than fifty dollars, and imprisonment for not less than ten days nor more than thirty days in the jail of the county wherein such conviction is had, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION LAW.

Chapter 671 of the Laws of 1894, as Amended by Chapter 988 of the Laws of 1895, and Chapter 606 of the Laws of 1896.

CHAP. 671, LAWS OF 1894.

V AN ACT to provide for the compulsory education of children.

Became a law May 12, 1894, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Short title.—This chapter shall be known as the compulsory education law.

§ 2. Definitions.—When used in this act, the term school authorities means the trustees or board of education or corresponding officers, whether one or more, and by whatever name known, of a city, union free school district, common school district, or school district created by special law; the term persons in parental relation to a child, includes the parents, guardians or other persons, whether one or more, lawfully having the care, custody or control of such child. A child under sixteen years of age required by the persons in parental relation to such a child, to attend upon lawful instructions at a school or elsewhere, upon which such child is entitled to attend, is lawfully required to attend such school. A child between eight and sixteen years of age, who is required by law to attend upon instruction, and is required by the persons in parental relation to such child, to attend upon lawful instruction at school or elsewhere, upon which such child is entitled to attend, is lawfully required to attend upon such instruction, and if not required by the persons in parental relation to such child to attend upon any instruction, is lawfully required to attend a public school.

- § 3. *Required attendance upon instruction.—Every child between eight and sixteen years of age, in proper physical and mental condition to attend school, shall regularly attend upon instruction at a school in which at least the common school branches of reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, English grammar and geography are taught, or upon equivalent instruction by a competent teacher elsewhere than at a school, as follows: such child between fourteen and sixteen years of age, not regularly and lawfully engaged in any useful employment or service, and every such child between eight and twelve years of age, shall so attend upon instruction as many days annually, during the period between the first days of October and the following June, as the public school of the city or district in which such child resides, shall be in session during the same period. Every child between twelve and fourteen years of age in proper physical and mental condition to attend school, shall attend upon instruction during the school year then current at least eighty secular days of actual attendance, which shall be consecutive except for holidays, vacations and detentions by sickness, which holidays, vacations and detentions shall not be counted as a part of such eighty days, and such child shall, in addition to the said eighty days, attend upon instruction when not regularly and lawfully engaged in useful employment or service. If any such child shall so attend upon instruction elsewhere than at a public school, such instruction shall be at least substantially equivalent to the instruction given to children of like age at the public school of the city or district in which such child resides; and such attendance shall be for at least as many hours of each day thereof, as are required of children of like age at public schools; and no greater total amount of holidays and vacations shall be deducted from such attendance during the period such attendance is required, than is allowed in such public school to children of like age. Occasional absences from such attendance, not amounting to irregular attendance in the fair meaning of the term, shall be allowed upon such excuses only as would be allowed in like cases by the general rules and practice of such public school.
- § 4. * Duties of persons in parental relation to children.—Every person in parental relation to a child between eight and sixteen years of age, in proper physical and mental condition to attend school, shall cause such child to so attend upon instruction or shall present to the school authorities of his city or district proof by affidavit that he is unable to compel such child to so attend. A violation of this section shall be a misdemeanor, punishable for the first offense by a fine not exceeding five dollars, and for each subsequent offense by a fine not exceeding fifty dollars or by imprisonment not exceeding thirty days or by both such fine and imprisonment. Courts of special sessions shall, subject to removal as provided in sections fifty-seven and fifty-eight of the code of criminal procedure, have exclusive jurisdiction, in the first instance, to hear, try and determine charges of violations of this section, within their respective jurisdictions.

- § 5. Persons employing children unlawfully to be fined.—It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to employ any child between the ages of eight and twelve years in any business or service whatever, during any part of the term during which the public schools of the district in which the child resides, are in session; or to employ any child between twelve and fourteen years of age who does not, at the time of such employment, present a certificate signed by the superintendent of schools of the city or district in which the child resides, or, where there is no superintendent, by such other officer as the school authorities may designate, certifying that such child has complied with the law relating to attendance at school during the school year between September and July, then current; and any person who shall employ any child contrary to the provisions of this section shall, for each offense, forfeit and pay to the treasurer of the city or village or to the supervisor of the town in which such offenses shall occur, a penalty of fifty dollars, the same, when paid, to be added to the public school moneys of the city, village or district in which the offense occurred.
- § 6. Teachers' records of attendance.—An accurate record of the attendance of all children between eight and sixteen years of age shall be kept by the teacher of every school, showing each day by the year, month, day of the month and day of the week, such attendance, and the number of hours in each day thereof; and each teacher upon whose instruction any such child shall attend elsewhere than at a school, shall keep a like record of such attendance. Such records shall, at all times, be open to the attendance officers or other persons duly authorized by the school authorities of the city or district, who may inspect or copy the same; and every such teacher shall fully answer all inquiries lawfully made by such authorities, inspectors or other persons, and a willful neglect or refusal so to answer any such inquiry shall be a misdemeanor.
- § 7. * Attendance officers.—The school authorities of each city, union free school district, or common school district whose limits include in whole or in part an incorporated viliage, shall appoint and may remove at pleasure one or more attendance officers of such city or district, and shall fix their compensation and may prescribe their duties not inconsistent with this act, and may make rules and regulations for the performance thereof; and the superintendent of schools of such city or school district shall supervise the enforcement of this act within such city or school district; and the town board of each town shall appoint one or more attendance officers whose jurisdiction shall extend over all school districts in said town, not by this section otherwise provided for, and shall fix their compensation which shall be a town charge; and such attendance officers appointed by said board shall be removable at the pleasure of the school commissioner in whose commissioner's district such town is situated.
- § 8. *Arrest of truants.—The attendance officer may arrest without warrant any child between eight and sixteen years of age, found away from his home, and who then is a truant from instruction, upon which he is lawfully required to attend within the city or district of such attendance officer. He shall forthwith deliver a child so arrested either to the custody of a person in parental relation to the child, or of a teacher from whom such child is then a truant, or in case of habitual and incorrigible truants, shall bring them before a police magistrate for commitment by him to a truant school as provided for in the next section. The attendance officer shall promptly report such arrest and the disposition made by him of such child, to the school authorities of the said city, village or district where such child is lawfully required to attend upon instruction or to such person as they may direct.

§ 9. * Truant schools.—The school authorities of any city or school district may establish schools, or set apart separate rooms in public school buildings, for children between eight and sixteen years of age, who are habitual truants from instruction upon which they are lawfully required to attend, or who are insubordinate or disorderly during their attendance upon such instruction, or irregular in such attendance. Such school or room shall be known as a truant school; but no person convicted of crimes or misdemeanors, other than truancy, shall be committed thereto. Such authorities may provide for the confinement, maintenance and instruction of such children in such schools; and they or the superintendent of schools in any city or school district may, after reasonable notice to such child and the persons in parental relation to such child, and an opportunity for them to be heard, and with the consent in writing of the persons in parental relation to such child, order such child to attend such school or to be confined and maintained therein for such period and under such rules and regulations as such authorities may prescribe, not exceeding the remainder of the school year, or may order such child to be confined and maintained during such period in any private school, orphans' home or similar institution controlled by persons of the same religious faith as the persons in parental relation to such child, and which is willing and able to receive, confine and maintain such child, upon such terms as to compensation as may be agreed upon between such authorities and such private school, orphans' home or similar institution. If the person in parental relation to such child shall not consent to either such order, such conduct of the child shall be deemed disorderly conduct, and the child may be proceeded against as a disorderly person, and upon conviction thereof, if the child was lawfully required to attend a public school, the child shall be sentenced to be confined and maintained in such trust school for the remainder of the current school year; or if such child was lawfully required to attend upon instruction otherwise than at a public school, the child may be sentenced to be confined and maintained for the balance of such school year in such private school, orphans' home or other similar institution, if there be one, controlled by persons of the same religious faith as the person in parental relation to such child, which is willing and able to receive, confine and maintain such child for a reasonable compensation. Such confinement shall be conducted with a view to the improvement, and to the restoration, as soon as practicable, of such child to the institution elsewhere, upon which he may be lawfully required to attend. The authorities committing any such child, and in cities and villages the superintendent of schools therein, shall have authority in their discretion to parole at any time any truant so committed by them. Every child suspended from attendance upon instruction by the authorities in charge of furnishing such instruction, for more than one week, shall be required to attend such truant schood during the period of such suspension. The school authorities of any city or school district, not having a truant school, may contract with any other city or district having a truant school, for the confinement, maintenance and instruction therein of children whom such school authorities might require to attend a truant school, if there were one in their own city or district. Industrial training shall be furnished in every such truant school. The expense attending the commitment and cost of maintenance of any truant residing in any city or village employing a superintendent of schools shall be a charge against such city or village, and in all other cases shall be a county charge.

- § 10. * Withholding the state moneys by state superintendent.—The state superintendent of public instruction may withhold one-half of all public school moneys from any city or district, which, in his judgment, willfully omits and refuses to enforce the provisions of this act, after due notice, so often and so long as such willful omission and refusal shall, in his judgment, continue; whenever the provisions of this act have been complied with, all moneys so withheld shall be paid over by said state superintendent to such city or district. The said state superintendent is hereby authorized and empowered to employ such assistance as he may deem necessary to properly carry this act into effect. He may remove such assistants from time to time and appoint their successors. He shall fix their salaries, and under his direction such assistants shall investigate the extent to which this act is complied with in the cities and school districts of the state, and make such reports, and perform such other duties as the said superintendent shall determine. Such assistants shall be paid, in addition to their salaries, their necessary traveling and other expenses incurred in the discharge of their official duties, to be audited by the state superintendent. The sum of twelve thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, including payment of salaries, expenses, and blanks, to be paid upon the warrant of the comptroller on the order of the state superintendent of public
- § 11. * Chapter four hundred and twenty-one of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-four is hereby repealed.
- § 12. This act shall take effect January first, eighteen hundred and ninety-five.

(Chapter 988, Laws of 1895, signed June 11, 1895, and chapter 606, Laws of 1896, signed May 13, 1896, took effect immediately.)

[In justice to the State Factory Inspection Department it may be well to state at this point that it was not until after the institution of the Factory Department, in 1886, that public attention was directed to the deplorable lack of a stringent school law which would compel children of tender age to acquire even the rudiments of a common school education. The work of inspecting done by the officers of the Department the first year, though necessarily limited and incomplete, found children as young as seven, eight and nine years of age employed in mills and factories. No thought seemed apparent by school officers, parents or other persons tending to protect or develop the mental qualifications of the child. The first report of the Department designated the then educational law as a "dead letter" compulsory education law, and a strong appeal was made to the Legislature of the State to correct this evil by the enactment of a stringent compulsory education law. All reports of the Department, up to 1893, contain arguments and urgent appeals to the law-making powers for the enactment of a compulsory education law, but action by the Legislature was slow. Legislators expressed fear of such legislation lest the cost for additional school buildings and other school facilities, which such a law would entail, would raise the ire of the tax-paying citizen. In 1887 it was estimated that there was in the State 644,011 children of school age who were not receiving instruction of any kind. In 1889 the Factory Law was amended raising the age at which children could work in shops, from thirteen to fourteen years. The inspection force was materially increased. Under the amended law children were required to be able to read and write simple sentences in the English language before they would be allowed to work in a shop or factory, and the vigorous enforcement of the amended law forced thousands of children out of the workshops; this overcrowded the schools and filled the streets with idle children, and a reluctant public was forced to confess that something would have to be done with the children,

The Department kept up a constant agitation in its reports, through the press and in various other ways until, in 1894, the above splendid and very forceful Compulsory Education Law was placed on the statute books of the State. The successful and very satisfactory operation of the Compulsory Education Law is voiced by State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. R. Skinner in his report for 1898, wherein he says: "A material increase in enrollment and a very unusual increase in average daily attendance are evidences of the satisfactory enforcement of the Compulsory Education Law. The people are interested, and, as taxpayers, insist that the educational facilities provided shall be utilized by all the children."]

PROCEEDINGS.

Eleventh annual convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors of North America, held at Detroit, Michigan, August 31 and September 1-2, 1897. The convention was called to order at 10 a. m. by President Rufus R. Wade, of Massachusetts. Mayor Maybury, of the city of Detroit, was introduced and delivered the following address of welcome:

MAYOR MAYBURY'S ADDRESS.

"It affords me great pleasure to welcome you to our city. It has been my pleasure to welcome a great many conventions during this summer, but this is one that appeals particularly to my heart. This movement you represent is something new in the world. You are men whose work is for humanity. With you the pleasure of elevating labor and the condition of the masses, of protecting helpless men and women from the oppression of the commercial mill stones, of shielding childhood from the grasp of selfish greed, all these supersede with you all mere money considerations. There is a dignity about it that appeals to me powerfully, as it must to all thinking citizens.

"Many centuries ago the question was asked, 'Am I my brother's keeper?' In this age it has been answered, 'Yes, I am my brother's keeper.' We see a man lashing his poor overworked horse on the street. The intelligence is often between the shafts rather than on the wagon seat. What is the impulse that bids us stay that whip? If we interrupt him he has always been able to say, 'The horse is mine and I have a right to do what I please with it; what are you going to do about it?" But something in our hearts tells us we have a duty here. We did not put that feeling in our hearts; we found it there. And in this age these natural impulses in the hearts of men have been developed and organized into just such noble movements as you are representing here. As workers in this great field I bid you a cordial welcome to the city of Detroit."

President Wade replied to the mayor briefly but feelingly. He said they had all heard a great deal about the beautiful city of Detroit, its broad streets, grand parks and fine homes, and now they were pleased indeed to see all this for themselves. Our hearts are already warmed towards this city and we thank you heartily for your cordial welcome.

PRESIDENT WADE'S ADDRESS.

President Wade then addressed the convention as follows: Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

It scarcely seems credible, until we stop to reflect, that it is eleven years since the first convention of factory inspectors convened in the city of Philadelphia.

The delegates of that convention had definite ideas of the principles and purposes of such an association and therefore they laid its foundations deep and broad.

Mindful of the danger that such an organization, if its members lack wisdom and forbearance, may be easily diverted from its original plan and purposes, there has been a settled determination to adhere to our specific work and avoid merely speculative matters.

Such experience as we have is derived from our official work of inspection, society, not as a mutual debating club to discuss theoretical questions, but as factory inspectors commissioned by our respective states and countries to secure the enforcement of industrial laws which mark the progress of our modern civilization.

Such experience as we have is derived from our official work of inspection, and from a more or less thorough study of those conditions upon which so called labor legislation is intended to operate.

If we are interested in our work and have made wise use of our opportunities we ought to be able at these annual meetings to add materially to each other's stock of knowledge.

For if we are guided by a common purpose, if we labor with zeal and intelligence, it is inevitable that we should gain inspiration by becoming better acquainted and by a friendly comparison of views and methods.

We who represent Massachusetts are proud of the attitude of our ancient commonwealth in respect to what is denominated the cause of labor, but we are not so foolish as to suppose that our industrial laws are the embodiment of all legislative wisdom nor that our methods of enforcing them can not be improved.

We mean as far as our influence extends to keep the old bay state on the bed rock of principle, and when under the ever changing conditions of social and economic life new applications of those established principles are justified, we hope to have the courage to welcome and adopt them.

Meanwhile we expect to learn much from our colleagues who represent other jurisdictions.

The object of this as of all other organizations is to utilize the knowledge of all for the benefit of each.

If you train a colt to the use of an open bridle he becomes way-wise, he see on all sides and therefore is less likely to shy at strange objects.

But many minds operate as do the eyes of a horse which has always worn blinders—they see only what lies upon a narrow line straight ahead.

It is much more important to cultivate open-mindedness so as to see on all sides of a subject, and thus escape that too common mental trick of shying at new ideas.

And here we commend to each other the old adage, that "Error is always harmless when truth is left free to combat it." To this end in our annual meetings we have always maintained an entire freedom of discussion.

In what other way could we derive the advantage of such conventions than by a full report of the work of our inspection and a candid comparison and criticism of our respective opinions and arguments?

Is there any better way than to prove all things and hold fast to that which is good?

Of one fact I am fully convinced, and that is that these eleven years have manifestly been years of progress. Our beginning was necessarily the day of small things; we were few in number and our territorial jurisdiction was correspondingly limited. We had somewhat crude ideas of the scope and influence of such an association, but we listened with eagerness to the statements and arguments concerning inspection work and so from year to year our horizon has broadened.

The International Association of Factory Inspectors of North America is the ripened fruit of that small seed which with fear and trembling we planted in the city of Philadelphia eleven years ago.

It seems proper, ladies and gentlemen of the convention, that I should congratulate you that we meet in this beautiful city of the great middle west of the United States. We have not exactly boxed the compass, as sailors say, but we have assembled in widely separated States and understand more clearly the meaning of that clergyman's daughter who was asked where she was born, and remembering the frequent removals of the family, replied, 'I was not born anywhere, my father was a Methodist preacher."

We did stay long enough in the Quaker City to be born, and we have reached a lusty youth in this fair city of Michigan, but where we shall find ourselves when we reach our majority we must leave for the future to determine.

In our eleven years of wandering we have not convened in tropical nor in frigid regions, but we have a definite impression of the meaning of the phrase: "A change of climate."

And speaking of climate, those of you who are familiar with the climate of the New England coast will appreciate the sick man's answer when his doctor said, "Change of climate is what you need."

"Change of climate!" exclaimed the invalid, "Why, doctor, I have never had anything else; I have lived right here in Boston all my life."

But it is only a country as great as ours that can boast of such a variety of climates, and we can try to be as loyal to our own as was the Nebraska pastor who said, "Our sister has gone to a better land, that is, if there be any better land than can be found here in the valley of the Platte."

It is not merely the formal recognition of the hospitality of Detroit that impels me to say we are most happy to assemble in convention here to-day. In this metropolis of the great State of Michigan, whose mining, agriculture and manufactured products place it well towards the head in our list of States, whose honored chief executive needs no introduction anywhere throughout our broad land, we are assured of the welcome of an intelligent and progressive people.

Charles Mackey wrote a song which attained a great popularity; the first line ran, "There's a good time coming, boys. Wait a little longer." An old farmer heard a glee club sing it, and at the close he said, "I say, mister, won't you please fix the date?"

We may not give a satisfactory response to his request to state the precise day of that earthly millenium, but he is indeed a hopeless man who does not habitually look for better things.

We want to see prosperity throughout this broad continent. It can never fully come nor come to stay until the people generally are employed, contented and prosperous. We want busy brains and hands and happy homes everywhere, and I am one of those who is looking for such a state of things.

I know that we are told that moral forces are more important elements in the growth of a country than material ones. Far be it from me even to seem to depreciate ideas and sentiments that inspired and sustained the founders of this republic. Still, I must insist that material prosperity if it has been achieved by fair and honorable means, if it has not been gained by the degradation of labor is something to be grateful for, and I quite appreciate the philosophy of Uncle Remus, who said, "'In God we trust' is put on two-cent pieces but not on a ten-dollar bill, for you don't have to ask for trust when you have ten dollars."

And so I say, when the incoming tide of prosperity shall approach and steadily cover our shores, may its beneficial waters irrigate this fair city and the noble State of which it is the metropolis.

At this stage of the convention business I may not consume your time by entering upon the discussion of specific questions, which will be presented later in our proceedings, by delegates fully competent to instruct and entertain you. But of this fact I am convinced that there has been a general advance all along the line.

Interesting and important questions which concern both employer and employe will undoubtedly engage our attention, and I trust the results of our conference here will be of benefit to us all in the administration of laws that are or may be enacted for the improvement and advancement of the laboring population.

A single illustration will make this plain, and what is true of this class of legislation here referred to is true to some extent of the whole body of our labor laws. I refer now to child labor in factories and workshops.

In Massachusetts, as you know, we have laws which regulate the employment of children in manufacturing and mercantile establishments.

No child under thirteen years of age can be legally employed.

We have rigidly enforced that statute, as we intend to enforce all laws coming under our jurisdiction, and the result is, that child labor itself is largely decreasing in Massachusetts. so that in many large establishments not a child can be found under the prescribed age of school attendance.

Many of our managers of textile factories maintain the settled conviction that the children who have regularly attended school up to the age of fourteen years are more reliable and profitable because of that preliminary instruction.

I have instanced child labor, but it is equally true of all industrial legislation in our State. No backward steps have been taken, and there has been a marked improvement in the respect and obedience of those who come under the operation of the laws.

Should we not endeavor to execute the laws intrusted to us to enforce, with such wisdom of method, that the good resulting from them may be plainly apparent to the whole country.

If there are defects in the laws or in our manner of enforcing them, let us seek them out, to the end that they may be remedied. Let us so act that we may have the assurance that our efforts have strengthened and maintained the laws which have resulted in so many blessings to the human race.

Finally, let us perform our duties as inspectors with the high purpose which sees in the prosperity and happiness of the toiling millions the steady advance of our common humanity.

REPORTS OF CHIEFS BY STATES.

President Wade then announced that the convention would proceed with the regular report of the chiefs from various States.

Pennsylvania was the first report. Chief Campbell briefly stated that new laws were enacted relative to factory inspection, sweat shops and bake shops during the last Legislature, and that they were quite satisfactory, excepting the Bake Shop Law, which meets the approval of a majority of the bakers and the public in general. A few large bakeries object to section 1, which prohibits Sunday work before 6 p. m., and have been prosecuted and fined for violating that section, having appealed the case to a higher court and set up the claim that the law is unconstitutional.

New York.—Chief O'Leary read the following excellent report of the condition of New York State factory inspections.

REPORT OF CONDITION OF NEW YORK STATE FACTORY INSPECTION.

Our factory laws have undergone important changes at the hands of the Legislature of 1897, which we think render the factory laws of our State very effective as a whole. The law of 1897 is written as an act in relation to labor, constituting chapter 32 of the general laws; the act is a grouping of all laws relating to labor, found upon the statutes prior to the year 1897. The codification is for the purpose of convenient reference to all the labor laws. The various subjects embraced in the act are grouped, and each group of subjects is designated an "Article." The sections of the whole chapter are consecutively numbered from 1 to 191. The laws relating to the Factory Department are contained in articles 1, 2, 5 and 6; article 7 relating to tenement-made goods, or as we commonly call it, "sweating;" article 8 relating to bake shop inspection; and article 9 relating to mine and quarry inspection.

The original factory act, as passed in 1886, with the many amendments which were added year after year, was little better than a mass of contradictions, made so by the use of descriptive terms employed in an attempt to make plain the purpose of the act in these amendments, but they served only to confound what was intended to be many of its most effective parts. As arranged, the act of 1897 eliminates all this cause for complaint, and from its application, at least so far as we have gone, we find the condensed law to be very forceful. Between the explanatory terms in the old law "manufacturing establishment" and the title "An act to regulate the employment of women and children," the deputy inspector oftentimes felt severely tried in patience to know just what to do. One man would say the law did not apply to him because he did not employ any "women and children," Another would say the law did not apply to him because he did not conduct a "manufactory." Note for instance the New York Herald, a large printing plant in the city of New York, perhaps the most perfect of its kind in the world, with a pay-roll of nearly seven hundred (700) people, an immense building filled with machinery of the most intricate kind-refusing to allow a deputy to make an inspection of the place, because they claimed they did not "manufacture" anything. Also note fashionable dressmaking and millinery establishments, employing hundreds of young women and children, having gorgeously arranged apartments for the reception of their patrons, styled reception, show and fitting rooms, with nothing but elegance to meet the view of the public eye-refusing admittance to the inspector because the law said nothing about such places; or, if the deputy gained admittance, the right to make an inspection of the premises was strenuously denied; and, where inspections of such places are made, as has been done since the new law went into effect, we find women and children packed into foul basements and sometimes into sub-cellars, into small, ill-ventilated, foul smelling, overcrowded back rooms, or in garrets up under the roof, five and six stories from the ground, with no means of escape in case of panic or accident by fire or through other cause.

In the new arrangement of the law we had the words "business establishment" added to the paragraph defining the term "factory" so that the law now reads:

Section 2. Definitions.—The term employee, when used in this chapter, means a mechanic, workingman or laborer who works for another for hire. The person employing any such mechanic, workingman or laborer, whether the owner, proprietor, agent, superintendent, foreman or other subordinate is designated in this chapter as an employer. The term "factory," when used in this chapter, shall be construed to include also any mill, workshop or other manufacturing or business establishment where one or more persons are employed at labor. The term "mercantile establishment," when used in this chapter, means any place where goods, wares or merchandise are offered for sale. Whenever, in this chapter, authority is conferred upon the factory inspector, it shall also be deemed to include his assistant or a deputy acting under his direction.

The effectiveness of these additional words has been made manifest many times since the change to which we refer went into effect. A large printing firm in New York city, one which had successfully resisted the efforts of the deputies to make inspection of their place year after year, was a short time ago waited upon by an officer of the department, and of course the manager of the concern put up the old bluff that their property and establishment was exempt, etc. The deputy said to him, "I am not a lawyer, but here is the law (handing him a copy of it); you can read it yourself and you will then understand whether or not your place comes under the law." The manager accepted the law and read the paragraph indicated by the inspector and to use a common or vulgar expression "threw up both hands," saying, "Oh! you have us this time sure, we are yours now, take us!" and he gracefully yielded to the majesty of the law.

The child labor provisions of the old law were always a source of great annoyance to the department, and the protests of the work-people against the ineffectiveness of the act became so great that the Legislature of 1895 appointed a special committee to investigate the subject. The report of that committee covered two volumes of about 900 pages and was submitted to the Legislature of 1896 with various recommendations. recommendations are embodied in the amendments or changes which were made to section 2 of the old law. When these amendments were pending before the Governor of our State, I opposed them for the reason, as I stated in a memorandum filed at that time, that I believed the proposed changes would tend to increase the difficulties of enforcing the provisions relating to the employment of children and would ultimately act as a For opposing the amendments I was quite nullification of the law. severely taken to task by the Central Labor Union of New York, and in a letter from the secretary, under the seal of the union, I was requested to withdraw my opposition before the Governor, which I subsequently did. My instructions to the officers of the department, upon the law taking effect, were to enforce the law in a manner favorable to the child. Our work went on smoothly enough in all parts of the State, excepting the city of Buffalo. Here we found a health officer who was a lawyer, as well as a doctor, and no friend to the restriction of child labor. The deputy inspector in that city reported the finding of young children in factories, etc., with the health department certificate on file, who were unable to read or write in the English or any other language. I ordered the children removed from the work shops, and in an interview with the gentleman representing the board of health of Buffalo, I elicited the information that he was acting upon the plain instruction of the law's provisions. This contention was carried to the Attorney-General of our State, and he decided the matter in favor of the health officer. While the decision of the Attorney-General was all right from a legal standpoint, I regarded it as a severe blow to the work which had been going on for years by all those who had labored so hard to take and keep the child out of the work shops, factories, etc., and to direct its young footsteps, by legal means, into the school-house; and, furthermore, I was determined that such decision was not to remain the law of our State. An amendment was prepared and submitted to the statutory revision commission, having the matter in charge, and as a result of such effort, we have the following very stringent provision bearing on the subject of school attendance:

Section 73. School attendance required.—No such certificate shall be granted unless it appears to the satisfaction of such board, department, commissioner or officer, that the child applying therefor has regularly attended at a school in which reading, spelling, writing, arithmetic, English grammar and geography are taught, or upon equivalent instruction by a competent teacher elsewhere than at a school, for a period equal to one school year, during the year previous to his arriving at the age of fourteen years or during the year previous to applying for such certificate, and is able to read and write simple sentences in the English language. The principal or chief executive officer of a school, or teacher elsewhere than at a school, shall furnish, upon demand, to a child who has attended at such school or been instructed by such teacher, or to the factory inspector, his assistant or deputies, a certificate stating the school attendance of such a child.

The law is very drastic and means business, and we are much pleased with its effectiveness when applied; for, it gives the department, as it should, full control of this subject, and in connection with which, the provisions bearing on this matter, which are contained in the Penal Code—no one cares to try conclusions with the department, or to question its right to enforce the provisions of the Child Labor Law. That our manner of handling the law is effective, is plainly shown by the reports of our inspectors from all over the State as they find place after place which our records show formerly to have employed young children indiscriminately, who now absolutely refuse to employ any child under the age of 16 years, and those of them who do employ young children do so in strict conformity to the law, thus saving the department great annoyance on this point, and stopping all complaint ensuing from this source.

SWEATING.

Article 7 relating to tenement made articles, or as it is better known as the "sweating" law, is very satisfactory to the department and splendid results have been obtained during the past year under the application of the present arrangement of the sweating laws in New York. The most effective part of the law is the tag; by its use we can say, in all truth, that if no exceptions were made in favor of members of a family working in living rooms, we could force the "sweaters" entirely out of the homes and into the shops. By its application we do now force the "sweater" and his illegal working crew out of the tenement and into the shop; by its use we enforce cleanliness in the house, workroom, and in the shop building; by its use we cause dark halls in dingy shop buildings to be properly lighted; by its use we can dispossess the obstinate "sweater" and force the landlord or his agent to do the work of dispossessing; by its use we can make the worker, jobber, or wholesaler give any desired information under the law—and by its use we can close all connection with the living and the workrooms. We have made it build fire-escapes on sweat shop buildings—made them clean water closets and build or provide them where necessary. Separate them for the sexes and properly care for them in all other respects.

The effective working of the law was most noticeable last spring during the great strike in New York city of some 20,000 clothing workers for a period of nearly two months, during which time—with all the discontent which is usually present among the workers on such occasions—not a single complaint was made against the Department, nor was a single charge made that the law was not capable of coping with the conditions which might be found to exist. I think the satisfaction of the workers themselves has been very forcibly voiced by the secretary of the Clothing Cutters' National Union, who said at a meeting of workingmen a short time ago, that New York had the best law of this kind which he thought possible to devise. All this is said in favor of the tag.

We cannot use the tag to keep out of our State the material of which the "sweater" is made. We cannot by its use force the wholesaler or jobber to pay a better price for the labor done. We cannot by its use send the "sweater" out west, to grow up with the country, as advised long ago by the late Mr. Greeley. The "sweater" is still coming in at the port of New York with the arrival of each incoming steamer, and as a rule he stays there after landing.

ARTICLE 9.-BAKE SHOPS.

No material change has occurred in our bake shop inspection law, nor have we any cause to find fault with its operations during the past year. A marked improvement in the condition of bakeries is noticeable all over the State, but the work in bake shops, like the work in "sweat shops," will always and at all times claim the attention of the inspectors. This is true more especially of the Jew and Italian bake shop, for "like causes produce like effects."

ARTICLE 9.-MINING LAW.

In the mining laws some radical changes were made. This is a law which it was never intended should be of any use or benefit to the mine workers. The original act was passed in 1890; a mine inspector was not appointed by the Governor until 1893. The first mine inspector was a mine owner, who never made an inspection of a mine during his incumbency—and this inaction was deliberate. The Department of Mine Inspection was abolished as a separate department, April 16, 1895, and the power to enforce the provisions of the mining laws was vested in the Factory Inspector, with authority to appoint a deputy to do that particular kind of work. An inspector for this purpose was not appointed until the middle of November, 1895, and no thorough work in mine inspection was done in our State until 1896, notwithstanding the fact that the act took effect immediately after its passage by the Legislature. The deaths in the mines of our State in 1895 number twenty-eight (28); in the year 1896, under efficient and honest work in this direction there occurred but eight (8) accidents or deaths. In 1897, up to date, only one accident has occurred in our mines—so you will see by these comparisons and by the above statements that a labor law which was passed in 1890, and made operative upon its passage, took seven years to put into successful and practical operation. We do not look upon our laws as perfect; but we know they are far better than they were. And by intelligent and honest application they can be made to yield good results to the forces in whose interest they were framed—giving all the safeguards and benefits which it is possible to obtain from such legislation.

New Jersey.—Chief Ward reported that the laws in that State were very satisfactory and working well, and that there had been no changes made in them by the last Legislature.

Ohio.—Chief Knaub reported the work of shop inspection, etc., in his department as progressing finely under their present laws, but that there had been no special legislation in Ohio since the last convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors. After a little talk on the observance of the laws in Ohio, the chief stated that Mr. Wagner, one of the bakery inspectors of Ohio, in the course of the convention, would read a paper on their bake shop laws, which were generally complied with. He also reported that they were having some trouble with their blower law, in having orders to place exhaust systems complied with, but believed in due time that the law would be appreciated, and opposition to the law would cease.

Illinois.—Assistant Chief Harris, in the absence of his newly appointed chief, whom he had not met yet, spoke for his delegation substantially as follows:

"Illinois,, as you are aware, is represented here by ten new delegates. We came here not to teach but to learn. It is only four months since the burden of inspection and enforcing the child labor laws has been bestowed upon us, but we accept our duties gracefully and feel that there is nothing sweeter and nobler in the human heart than the desire for the advancement of humanity, and the embetterment of our laboring men and women. We know that too much care cannot be taken by factory inspectors. Inspection is the safeguard against moral and physical injuries to life and limb and furnishes protection to health, all of which brings a feeling of safety alike to the employe and employer. I consider the factory inspection laws of Illinois the best work of our Legislature, and a just debt that they owed the working men and women. Our latest amended law reads as follows:

"'No child under the age of fourteen years shall be permitted or suffered to work for wages at any gainful occupation hereinafter mentioned. A register is required to be kept of all children under sixteen years of age, giving their name, age and birthplace. Sworn affidavits are required by parents. A list of all persons under sixteen years of age is required to be posted in each of the rooms where they are employed. No person under the age of sixteen years can be employed more than sixty hours in any one week, nor more than ten hours in any one day. The presence of any person under the age of sixteen in any manufacturing establishment, factory or workshop shall constitute prima facie evidence of his or her employment therein.' We have splendid blower laws.

"Profiting by what we learn here and our experience in the field I assure you that with God's help we will be at the next meeting of this philanthropic body, and I assure you that the Iilinois inspectors will be prepared for any emergency that will present itself."

Canada (Ontario).—Mr. Robert Barber spoke very interestingly of the general observance of the laws of their province, and stated that there had been no material change in them.

Mr. Brown, of Toronto, made a few supplementary remarks relative to their factory inspection laws, and dwelt for some time upon the discussion and contest over their new Sunday law act, which will be reported elsewhere.

Quebec.—Mr. Michell, of Montreal, stated that there had been no particular changes in their laws and that they were operating very satisfactorily.

No delegates were present to answer to the call of Connecticut, Rhode Island or Maine.

Michigan.—Chief Cox then read the following report from his department relative to amended legislation and matters pertaining to child labor:

Factory inspection is rapidly becoming a most important department in our State affairs.

The necessity of some branch of government that would look out for the protection of life and limb, and regulate age of employes and the sanktary conditions of manufacturing institutions of the State was advocated for many years before it was established in Michigan.

During the session of 1893 a bill was introduced which was originally intended to create an independent bureau for "factory inspection." After considerable discussion and amending, this bill became a law August 25, 1893, but provided that factory inspections should come under the control and supervision of the commissioner of labor, who was given broad discretionary powers to conduct factory inspection, and was empowered to appoint deputy inspectors and other persons to assist him in carrying on the work of the new department, which practically became a branch of the bureau of labor and industrial statistics, and which in general terms required "at least an annual inspection of the manufacturing places of the State."

No extra compensation was added to the salary of the commissioner of labor, but an annual appropriation of $4,000 was first made for the payment of deputies' salaries and other expenses.

This department was appreciated by the laboring element of the State, and its growing popularity has resulted in much favorable legislation, since its creation,

In 1895 its annual appropriation was increased to $8,000, and the laws regulating factory inspection were materially improved and broadened. At the opening of the legislative session of 1897 Governor Pingree concluded his celebrated message with the following paragraph:

"More stringent laws should be passed to prevent the employment of children in many lines of work. Children and women are too often employed to do the work that ought to be performed by able-bodied men with families out of employment. The people have no hope except in their representatives in Legislatures and in Congress, and I trust that you will do your whole duty or at least inaugurate a system of reform which will redound to your credit and honor."

Those representing the labor interests in the Legislature, in harmony with the efforts of the labor bureau, took up the cue given them by the Governor and successfully passed the following amended section 2 of the laws governing factory inspection relating to the age of children employed, which reads as follows:

"No child under fourteen years of age shall be employed in any manufacturing establishment within this state. It shall be the duty of every person employing children to keep a register in which shall be recorded the name, birthplace, age and place of residence of every person employed by him under the age of sixteen years; and it shall be unlawful for any manufacturing establishment to hire or employ any child under the age of sixteen without there is first provided and placed on file a (sworn) statement in writing made by the parent or guardian, stating the age, date and birthplace of said child. If said child have no parent or guardian, then such statement shall be made by the child, which statement shall be kept on file by the employer, and which said register and statement shall be produced for inspection on demand made by any factory inspector appointed under this act."

To the experienced this amended section reads substantially the same as original section 2, but to the adept and those who have experienced the difficulty of enforcing such laws the full importance of the change of a single word will be appreciated.

Prior to the amendment of 1897 it was only required that the manufacturing establishments, who hire or employ children under the age of 16, should require a statement in writing, made by parents, giving the age, date and place of birth of child. This weakened the law so that it was difficult to enforce as there seemed no difficulty in securing these statements.

By the amendment of 1897 the word "sworn" was inserted before the words "statement in writing," thus compelling all who make statements to swear and make affidavit as to the age of these young employes.

We find that this has proven very effective, as very few, if any, will willingly and knowingly swear children to be older than they are, and it has enabled the factory inspectors of this State to remove several hundred children who are under 14 years of age, and who were employed upon representations of being the legal age or over.

This law is also commended very highly by the manufacturers and employers, who, we are pleased to state, as a general rule, are co-operating with the officers in eradicating the evils of child labor in Michigan. Of course there are exceptions to this rule, and those who are obstinate are the ones to prosecute.

We have discovered that a great many people suppose that the factory inspection laws were made to cover the employment of children under the age of 14 wherever they may be found. This, of course, is an error, as our jurisdiction only covers the employment of children in such institutions as can be considered manufacturing establishments within the meaning of the law.

Taking advantage of the experiences and suggestions of former commissioners, the present department is endeavoring to co-operate with the truant officers and school authorities, who are backed up by the wholesome act known as the Compulsory School Law, act 95 public acts of 1895, and it is most certain that a rigid enforcement of both these laws will do much to stop the employment of children under the age of 16 years in any of the more objectionable places, and will also serve later to increase the knowledge of the young and better them for the various pursuits of life.

Female employment is another problem which should and is receiving close attention of the Michigan labor bureau in the present canvass, especial attention being given to such matters as come under various sections in the factory inspection laws relative to the protection and employment of this sex.

To assist the regular factory inspectors, and to better the work with special reference to female child labor, we have seen fit to create a woman's and children's branch department which we have placed under the personal supervision of a lady eminently qualified to investigate and report abuses in violation of such special statutory law as was created in the interest of women and children, and some very valuable statistics are being gathered by her at the present time. Although she has but fairly commenced her work, a number of flagrant violations and abuses have been reported. In one institution alone she reports over twenty under age.

To familiarize the public with the valuable features of such laws as affect the subject in question, we have caused to be published a couple of small pamphlets containing the statutory provisions for the protection of women and children in our industrial fields.

To possess good laws, which are ignorantly or wilfully violated, with no cognizance taken on the part of those to whom the law with its enforcement is interested, is to encourage a contempt for law and is a dangerous thing to do. Hence, we have commenced a movement to encourage the general observance and enforcement of all meritorious labor laws, and we now have in press a complete compilation of all the labor and factory inspection laws of the State, with which we have compiled a large number of opinions and decisions of the Supreme Court affecting and sustaining the same.

During the session of 1897 several very valuable amendments were made to the factory inspection laws. The first one we have already mentioned regarding "sworn statements" of parents or others. The next amendment was section 5 relative to the proper guarding of hoisting shafts, well-holes and elevators, which concludes with the following language:

"The factory inspector, assistant factory inspector and deputy factory inspector shall inspect the cables, gearings or other apparatus of elevators in manufacturing establishments at least once a year, and more frequently if necessary, and require that the same be kept in safe condition."

It has been suggested by a great many that the law should be amended so as to bring the elevator apparatus of all hotels, business blocks, and wherever public elevators are used, under the inspection and regulation of State factory inspection.

It is claimed, and probably is a fact, that many of these are operated in a careless manner and fail to receive the most careful attention and repairs which they should.

Section 6 of our factory inspection laws relates to fire-escapes in manufacturing establishments, and already most of these places in the State are supplied with safety means of exit, though there are yet some to receive our especial attention.

There is another step that we find being discussed by the public, many of whom believe that the matter of proper means of escape in hotels, opera houses, and places where the public congregate or assemble, should be placed under the supervision of State inspectors, who should be backed up by a special act similar to that regulating the fire-escapes in manufacturing establishments.

There are to-day laws intended to regulate this matter, but its failure to be placed under the supervision of some State official or department has permitted them to become as dead letters.

Section 10 of the Michigan laws relating to wash and dressing rooms and water-closets was very materially strengthened by an amendment during the last session of the Legislature.

This section provides that in every factory in which five or more persons are employed, and every factory and workshop in which two or more children, young persons or women are employed, shall be supplied with proper wash room and dressing room, and kept in a cleanly state and free from effluvia arising from any drain or other nuisance, and shall be provided within reasonable access with a sufficient number of closets separate for each sex.

Section 14 was so amended that sections 1, 2 and 3 relate to the employment of females and minors, and children under the age of 14 shall be excepted in canning factories and evaporating works, but shall apply to any other place where goods, wares or products are manufactured.

repaired, cleaned or sorted in whole or in part (thus practically defining the scope of female and child labor laws of the factory act), and in conclusion states "that no other person, persons or corporations employing less than five persons or children, excepting in any of the cities of this State shall be deemed a manufacturing establishment within the meaning of this act."

Section 15 was so amended as to provide for an increase of the annual appropriation from $8,000 to $12,000 for factory inspection.

This very comprehensive section which defines the duties of the commissioner, the compensation of the deputies, amount of appropriation, reports, supplies, etc., reads as follows:

"For the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act the commissioner of labor is hereby authorized and required to cause at least an annual inspection of the manufacturing establishments or factories in this Such inspections may be made by the commissioner of labor, State. the deputy commissioner of labor, or such other persons as may be appointed by the commissioner of labor for the purpose of making such inspections. Such persons shall be under the control and direction of the commissioner of labor and are especially charged with the duties imposed, and shall receive such compensation as shall be fixed by the commissioner of labor, not to exceed three dollars a day, together with all necessary expenses. All compensation for services and expenses provided for in this act shall be paid by the state treasurer upon the warrant of the auditor-general. Provided, that not more than twelve thousand dollars shall be expended in such inspection in any one year. And provided further, that the commissioner of labor shall present to the governor on or before the first day of February, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, and annually thereafter, a report of such inspection with such recommendations as may be necessary. And provided further, that in addition to the above amount allowed for expenses, there may be printed copies of such reports for the use of the labor bureau for general distribution. And all printing, binding, blanks, stationery, supplies or map work shall be done under any contract which the state now has or shall have for similar work with any party or parties, and the expense thereof shall be audited and paid for in the same manner as other state printing."

All of these amended sections number 2, 5, 10, 14 and 15, which was the work of the last Legislature, and they take effect on September 1st of the present year.

Representatives Eikhoff and Molster and other friends of labor in the Legislature deserve special mention and credit for the results and the hearty co-operation of the representatives of the labor bureau. The assistance of the former commissioner, Col. Morse, is likewise to be remembered.

One of the most important acts of the last Legislature affecting the powers of factory inspection in the State fixes the responsibility for making permanent improvements to manufacturing establishments in Michigan where ordered by factory or deputy factory inspectors, and provides that in certain cases that the tenant can make the improvements and deduct the same from rent. This law reads as follows:

OWNER TO MAKE PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS UNLESS OTHERWISE PROVIDED.

Section 1. The people of the state of Michigan enact, That whenever fire-escapes, elevator protection or repairs, water closets and other permanent improvements to buildings are ordered by factory or deputy factory inspectors under the provisions of act one hundred and ninety-five, said improvements shall be made by the owner of the building or premises where such improvements are ordered. Provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to interfere with any contract between owner and tenant whereby the tenant agrees to make such improvements when ordered by factory or deputy inspectors.

WHEN TENANT TO MAKE SUCH IMPROVEMENTS.

§ 2. Whenever the owner of any building or premises as mentioned in section one of this act is a non-resident of this state, the tenant shall make such improvements and may deduct the cost thereof from the amount of rent for use of said premises.

This act is ordered to take immediate effect.

Approved May 7, 1897.

During the year 1896 the former chief inspector reported the inspection of 2,991 manufacturing places in Michigan. Up to August 26th, the present force have inspected over 2,500 factories, in addition to several hundred revisits made in the interest of enforcement of former orders, and to see that they had been complied with in an acceptable manner.

I believe that by the close of this year that our force will have inspected fully a thousand, if not more, manufacturing institutions than was ever inspected in a single year before.

While it will be remembered that the present incumbents did not take charge until the first of May of the present year, some inspecting had been done before. We have not said this by way of reflection on past administrations, but to show the benefits of the increased appropriation which allows us much larger force and better facilities for inspection, and the enforcement of the factory laws, and I feel very much encouraged with the present condition and the advanced state of our work for this year.

It is well to mention that the salaries of the commissioner of labor, who is chief factor inspector, and the salary of his deputy, respectively $2,000 and $1,500, does not come out of the $12,000 appropriation for factory inspection purposes, but they are paid as commissioner of labor and deputy commissioner of labor from State funds, in the same manner as the salaries of other State officials are paid.

The legitimate cost of printing, stationery and supplies are also paid from the general fund after being audited by the board of auditors, thus leaving the $12,000 annual appropriation to be disbursed within the discretion of the commissioner of labor to meet the requirements of State factory inspection.

With this last increase, and the fact that the salaries and cost of other supplies were otherwise provided for, leaves it now possible to do efficient work in this branch, though none too much has been provided and more could be advantageously used.

Only those who have thoroughly investigated the requirements and who have realized how large this State is, and how many manufacturing institutions we have to look after, can fully realize the great requirements of this bureau when it performs its rightful duty, and too few fully sense the great importance of this work in the interest of labor, which in spite of all hardships and contentions has grown rapidly since its organization and can now stand in a creditable position along with the same departments of other States.

I believe that a great oversight has been made by the Legislature of Michigan in not creating a law and a department for the thorough inspection of steam boilers and receptacles of explosives, which should be put under the supervision of a State inspector and deputies, or which might be placed in the hands of the regular factory inspection force, provided a small increase of funds were supplied to meet this additional labor and expense.

We have already had several complaints of the condition of boilers by those who presumed that their inspection came properly under our jurisdiction, which is a mistake, unless we give these complaints the broadest consideration.

That something should be done relative to this subject can not be gainsayed, and none interested can object to State supervision of such property as might be considered dangerous under certain conditions to the life and welfare of those compelled to labor or live, in close proximity to such devices.

For years the government has recognized the importance of this subject relative to steam navigation, and a number of States have taken action in relation to the inspection of steam boilers, but so far nothing has been done in Michigan.

Acting in dual capacities in the labor bureau and factory inspection department we have the following attaches, commissioner of labor and chief factory inspector, chief deputy commissioner and inspector, seven regular appointed deputy factory inspectors, two special canvassers, one lady inspector and canvasser, one chief clerk and one assistant clerk, one statistical reporter, who has charge of the newsclipping department, in which the newspapers of the State are gleaned for labor news and factory statistics, one lady stenographer and one janitor, all of which are working efficiently to bring about the desired results in the interest of labor and factory inspection.

Although but recently organized, the new appointees of our labor bureau are doing most effective work, as I promised to demonstrate in the forthcoming report, and I believe that they all realize their duties to the state and to the special branch of work in which they are employed. We are also favored by a Governor whose entire sympathies are with us in our work, which is most favorable to those situated as we are requiring at times the sympathy and aid of the highest authority of State.

We might also add as words of information that an annual appropriation of $8,000 per yer is set aside by the State for the use of the labor bureau, separate from factory inspection, which is expended in gathering vital labor statistics.

Minnesota.—E. B. Mayo referred to the bake shop laws and stated that there had been left out of them a few words that made them quite defective, when passed in 1895—amended in 1897. He also mentioned that their Child Labor Law had been so amended as to fix the limit at 14 years, except during vacation of public schools, when they may work in stores.

Massachusetts.—J. M. Dyson, expert inspector, referred to the work of that State relative to heating and ventilation, and further stated that Massachusetts was experiencing no trouble in the enforcement of the labor and factory laws, and had not for many years. He spoke of the great respect maintained for these laws by both employer and employe, and that no one thought of violating them to-day, as everyone knew that it meant sure prosecution and condemnation by all, though they were conservative in the handling of these laws.

Indiana.—D. H. McAbee, factory for the State of Indiana, who was in attendance upon the convention, reported verbally that the Legislature of his State, on March 2, 1897, enacted a law to regulate the employment of women and children in manufactories, and providing ways and means for their greater safety and better protection of their health; but as an emergency clause was inadvertently omitted, the law did not take effect until the latter part of April following. This act also makes it his duty to enforce all previously enacted laws for the benefit of labor. He stated that during his services in the few months of the existence of the law. he had found much to do that was beneficial to those in whose behalf it was created; that he had caused the cessation from work and sending to school of many childen whose age and illsteracy under the law precluded them from labor: that he had effected the construction of modern fire-escapes on a goodly number of manufactories of over two stories in height in which many persons are employed; has had elevators, stairways, etc., repaired to a condition of greater safety; has had improved and placed in sanitary order work-rooms and water-closets where ventilation and cleanliness were badly neglected; placed safety railings and other guards about unprotected pulleys, belting, saws, etc.; caused exhaust fans and hoods to be attached to dust-creating wood machines and emery wheels in many instances, and made other changes contemplated by law, which have doubtless proved of much benefit to the employes, employers and owners of buildings.

Mr. McAbee expressed gratification at the almost uniform courtesy and kindly treatment which he had received during his official visits from those with whom his duties brought him in contact. Many factory operators expressing themselves highly with, and recognizing the necessity of, the improvements ordered, acknowledging that they were timely and necessary, a protection to their workpeople and themselves. He also alluded to the discrimination against organized labor in his State, saying in several places he had found notices publicly posted on factories positively refusing to give employment to Knights of Labor or of any united labor body. He was endeavoring to have this offensive and wrongful coercion and ostracism of union labor obliterated by amicable adjustment, without recourse to existing laws on the subject, but would enforce the statutes as a last resort, contending that competent union as well as non-union workpeople are equally entitled to work anywhere. "Some of our laws," said the inspector, "are defective in more ways than they should be, but we are working zealously for the conservative enforcement of what is now perfect in our statutes, and propose to recommend at the next session of the Legislature such changes as shall bring our laws up to the standard of those of other States, when more far-reaching good can be accomplished."

Mr. James McLusky, of Syracuse, N. Y., read the following paper, which was well received by the convention:

CHILD LABOR.

Mr. President and Members of the Convention: The employment of child labor and the resulting effects, moral and physical, upon the uprising generations has within the past century assumed an importance commensurate with the vital interests involved.

Before the development of the modern factory system there was an occasion for special legislation looking toward the regulation of child labor. The change from the old conditions to the new may be stated to have occurred in the twenty years between 1770 and 1790.

Prior to 1770, factories, as we know them, did not exist. Trade was, for the most part, local; manufacturers employed a number of journeymen and as many apprentices as law and custom allowed, and apprenticeship became in a manner a family tie.

There were also large opportunities for those who remained at home, especially for females and children.

"In the year 1770," writes Wm. Ratcliff, "the great sheet anchor of all small farms and cottages was the labor attached to the hand wheel; and when it is considered that it required six or eight hands to prepare and spin yarn of any of the three materials I have mentioned (wool, linen and cotton) for the consumption of one weaver, this shows clearly the inexhaustible source there was for every person from the age of seven to eighty years, who retained their sight and could move their hands, to earn their bread." And this, be it remembered, was the main occupation of children and of young girls in particular; an occupation mainly carried on under the paternal roof.

The inventions of Hargreaves, Arkwright, Crompton and Watt revolutionized all this and forced the congregation of the operatives in large buildings, which led to such abuses and hardships on the part of the operators that by the beginning of the present century government was forced to interfere in the interests of a common humanity.

As might have been expected, children became early sufferers. The great demand created for workers and the unwillingness of many to enter the mills tempted the sending by poor overseers in other parts of England of those children who were a parish charge, to the rising manufacturing towns of the north, entering them as apprentices under bonds. Those so indentured became in effect slaves; were worked night and day at the will of their masters, so that one gang would take the place of another in bed, before the beds had time to cool.

Public attention having been compelled to the matter by resulting epidemics in 1796, a board of health was appointed to take action for the public safety, with the result that in 1802 the first factory law was prepared and passed.

As the modern factory system was developed in Great Britain so the necessity for a check upon the abuses arising was there first felt, and the long and bitter fight over the right of the State to interfere in such matters has practically been fought out on the other side of the Atlantic.

As a result, the abstract side of the question may be said to have been practically settled before conditions had arisen in the United States forcing the matter upon public attention; the question with us has been, and to-day is, rather one of methods.

As the question was a new one, a satisfactory adjustment of the many difficulties presented was not to be hoped for without much experiment. That errors would be made and mistakes committed was unavoidable.

Wisdom, in the form of Minerva, may have sprung fully formed from the head of Jove; but, however that may have been in the age of Myths, in these practical days we can only hope for knowledge from the labors of the twin educators, experiment and experience, and may even be content if by simple expedient we are able to ameliorate where we cannot eradicate.

In our efforts we should remember what Stanley Jevons tells us, and "Must rid our minds of the idea that there is any such thing in social matters as abstract rights, absolute principles, indefeasible laws, inalterable rules, or anything whatever of an eternal nature * * * that "the law in itself has nothing to do with conscience or religion, or even with moral right and wrong, as estimated by individuals * * * that it (the law) is but a series of arbitrary rules, accumulated or varied from century to century, and defining the terms on which people may best live in each other's society." The one thing in this connection, however, which should be sedulously guarded against is that a new evil may not be created in the effort to overcome an evil present.

From this brief review I feel warranted in assuming that the point has been reached at which the State is justified in passing and enforcing any act which without any perceivable ulterior evil consequence adds to the present sum total of human happiness. "Good done is sufficient justification of any act, in the absence of any evidence that equal or greater evil will subsequently follow."

With us, then, the discussion resolves itself into one of methods, and this international association has been formed, and these annual conferences have for their object such interchange of experiences as may assist us in the more perfect fulfillment of the laws with the enforcement of which we are intrusted.

Let me now briefly speak of what has been done and what we are now doing in the empire State.

Prior to last year, the law in New York State, regulating the employment of children in factories and workshops, prohibited the engagement of those under fourteen years. Persons hiring children between the ages of fourteen and sixteen were required to keep on file affidavits made by the parents or guardians of such children, stating the date and place of their birth; also to keep a register, to be produced on demand, and to post the names and ages of all under sixteen years of age, in the rooms in which they were employed.

In March, 1895, a special committee—the Reinhardt committee—was appointed by the New York State Legislature to investigate the condition of female labor in New York city. The committee found "large numbers of children employed contrary to law," and reported in part as follows: "The committee stamps the employment of children under the statutory age as one of the most extensive evils now existing in the city of New York, and an evil which is a constant and grave menace to the welfare of its people. * * Parents and mercenary and corrupt notaries alike connive at the employment of children under the statutory age."

The committee also set forth the fact that the law and the inspectors appointed to enforce the law had been unable to cope with existing evils, and made the following recommendations: "No child under the age of sixteen years shall be permitted to work in any manufacturing establishment unless it first obtains a certificate from the local board of health, stating that such board is satisfied that the child is of the age of fourteen years or upwards and physically able to perform the work in which it desires to engage. Such certificates should contain a description of the child fully adequate for identification, and should not be issued unless the child produce to the board of health a certificate from the school authorities, showing that the Compulsory Education Law of the State of New York has been substantially complied with. A monthly report should be made by local boards of health to the Factory Inspector, at his principal office, between the first and tenth days of each month, of such certificates issued. It should be unlawful for any proprietor, agent, foreman or other person in or connected with a manufacturing establishment to hire or employ any child between the age of fourteen and sixteen years to work therein without there is first provided and placed on file in the office of the employer a certificate as above described, and the employment without such a certificate should be punishable as a misdemeanor."

A law was enacted embodying the features of the foregoing recommendations. The certificate must be executed by a health officer. Before granting it the officer must have on file an affidavit made by the parent or guardian setting forth the date and place of birth of the child. The certificate sets forth the height, weight, color of eyes and hair, and any other distinguishing marks of the child. The officer must also satisfy himself that the applicant is over 14 years of age, physically fit to perform the work to be required; has regularly attended school, and is able to read and write simple sentences in the English language. No fee shall be demanded or received for administering the oath.

This law was enacted in May of last year, but did not take effect until September following.

After a year's experience we have now arrived at a point where we can look back and judge intelligently of the merits of the new law, which, at the time of its enactment, was a radical departure and purely experimental.

We have no hesitation in pronouncing it an unqualified success. When the change went into effect every health board in the State was notified of its duties under the new law; and furnished with samples of the blanks required.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in getting some of the boards, especially in the smaller towns, to effectually take hold of their new duties. In most places the health board assigned the work to the resident health officer. He being usually a physician whose time was more or less fully occupied, demurred at the extra labor entailed and desired to know whether he was to get increased remuneration; and as the boards often neglected to furnish him with the necessary blanks, children were allowed to go to work without the required permit.

But when the inspector came round and enforced the law by turning out of the factories all children who were unlawfully employed, the local boards were compelled by their constituents to conform to the law.

About eight months after the new law came into operation, we were advised that none of its provisions had been put in force in one of the largest of our third class cities. In consequence of friction between the health officer and the local employers the law had been rendered totally inoperative.

The speaker was sent to take care of the trouble and promptly ordered the dismissal of every child unlawfully employed.

The matter created considerable stir, and the leading newspaper having sifted the matter, stated in a column article that those concerned had not fully understood the law, and were awaiting the visit of an inspector, who could "elucidate its intricacies."

Labor laws should be free from perplexing phraseology, and I may state here that our law has this year undergone a thorough revision, and is now so terse and lucid that "he who runs may read." The effect of several such enforcements has been sufficient to impress upon the local boards the fact that they must in every case perform their full duties under the new law.

The thorough enforcement of the statute relating to children is rendered very difficult from the fact that our general registration laws are far from being what they shauld be, and, from the further fact that even such as we have are but indifferently enforced.

However, conditions are much improved; mercenary notaries, who, for a consideration of twenty-five or fifty cents, administered oaths which they knew amounted to perjury, have now no interest in evading the law. Health officers are usually reputable physicians, who dare not risk their reputations by even seeming to consider any unlawful proposition.

Now, just a few words as to the methods adopted in the enforcement of the law.

All orders for changes made by the inspectors are forwarded to ,and issued from the main office, Albany, and a compliance is required within thirty days.

But, where children are unlawfully employed the inspector has instructions to insist upon an immediate compliance. We formerly made the order read: "Discharge child without certificate," and made sure that the child was sent out, but we found that the children were likely to return to work, there or elsewhere, with or without certificate.

Better results are obtained from ordering the employer to "File certificate for child under 16 years of age." Explanation is given the employer, the child and the parents, should they be at hand, as to what must be done, in order to obtain the required permit, and when and where it may be obtained. The inspector sees that the child is sent out; later, he sees that the certificate is filed and if not ascertains the reason why.

If the health officer finds that the education law has not been complied with he—the inspector—turns the name and address of the child over to the school authorities, from whom it receives special attention.

Believing that "the prevention of crime is cheaper than its punishment" we try to show employer and employe that it is always safer, always better, to comply with the law than to fight it.

While the law must command respect, must be and is enforced, the inspector need not be harsh nor oppressive in the discharge of his duty.

Some manufacturers, especially in the clothing and cigar trades, are not possessed of a much larger share of this world's goods than are their employes, and only as a last resort should they be dragged into court, where for some technical violation they may suffer the loss of perhaps half their capital.

"Blessed is the man who doth the poor man's case consider." Surprise has been expressed that so much good work has been done, with so little friction. We have secured during the past year a greater number of compliances and have had a much smaller number of prosecutions. We go out prepared to explain and enforce to the letter a law which we know is right; we have no quarrel with the man who shows a desire to comply with that law. We would rather convince and convert than prosecute. The word has been passed along the line that the inspectors are out to work—to obtain beneficial results, not to make an empty show.

We have had every assistance in the execution of the law from the head of the department to which we belong; fearless and untiring in the discharge of his own duties, he requires no less of his subordinates; but they have the satisfaction of knowing that in the faithful and tactful performance of their work, they have his undeviating and unfailing support.

We have endeavored to carry out his orders, without fear or favor, and are sanguine that great benefits will ultimately result to the children, and through them to the future welfare of the State.

William Anderson, of Missouri, read the following paper:

Mr. President and Members of the Convention:

As this is the first time Missouri has been represented at the annual convention of factory inspectors, it seems to me that the most appropriate subject to touch upon at this time is the factory inspection laws of the State and the manner of their enforcement.

Prior to the year 1891, but slight attention was paid to factory inspection in the State. During that year's session of the Legislature an act was adopted, entitled "An act relating to manufacturing, mechanical, mercantile and other establishments and places, and the employment, health, safety and work hours of employes." This act contained twenty-eight sections and contains practically all the factory inspection laws on the statute books. The act relates to the following subjects:

- Section 1. Inspector of factories to be appointed in certain cities and their duties.
 - Accidents to be reported to commissioner of labor and city physician.
 - 3. Belting, shafting, etc., to be guarded or notice of danger posted.
 - 4. Women and minors not required to clean machinery in motion.
 - Hatchways, elevators, etc., to be protected by trap doors and hatches.
 - 6. Fire-escapes to be provided.
 - 7. Doors to open outwardly.
 - 8. Factory and workshops to be lime-washed or painted.
 - 9. Explosives or inflammable matter not to obstruct egress.
 - 10. Suitable facilities for washing and dressing to be provided.
 - 11. Separate water-closets to be provided for the sexes.
 - 12. Ventilation.
 - 13. Seats to be provided for females.
 - 14. Fans to be provided to prevent inhalation of dust and smoke.
 - 15. Overcrowding establishments prohibited.

- Section 16. Duty of inspector where health and safety of employes are endangered.
 - Conditions required for use of cellar or basements as a bake house.
 - 18. Sleeping apartments to be separate from bake house.
 - 19. Scaffolds, etc., to be safely supported.
 - 20. Railroad platforms, passageways, etc., to be securely arranged.
 - Occupancy of factory, workshop or mill to be made known to inspector.
 - 22. Violation of act a misdemeanor—penalty.
 - 23. Officers of corporations subject to same penalties.
 - 24. Fines to be applied to school fund.
 - 25. Duty of prosecuting attorneys.
 - 26. Act not to impair other non-conflicting acts.
 - 27. Inspector may elect as to prosecution.
 - 28. Assistant inspector shall have same power as the principal.

Under this act it was made the duty of the public authorities of each city with a population of 5,000 inhabitants or more to appoint an inspector with deputies where the same were necessary to be paid by the city such reasonable compensation as might be prescribed by ordinance. No other provision for the inspection of the factories nor the enforcement of the laws was made, except that the labor commissioner and his deputies were authorized to make inspections and compel observance of these laws, but no appropriation was ever made for carrying on the work.

With the exception of two or three of the smaller towns of the State. none of the cities paid any attention to the State law requiring the appointment of inspectors by the different municipalities of the State until the present year. Since the adoption of the above mentioned act it has been the custom of the labor commissioner to designate one of his deputies as factory inspector, but owing to the vast territory to be covered and the failure of the cities of the State to comply with the law, no systematic effort to either inspect factories or enforce the factory laws has been made up to the present year. At the inception of the present administration, however, it was determined to make a special effort to secure the appointment of inspectors in all cities to which the law applied, and I am glad to say were successful in every case except the city of St. Louis. In this city nothing has been done as yet, although a number of ordinances looking to this end have been introduced. We have high hopes, however, that an ordinance of this character will shortly be adopted by the municipal assembly.

It was originally intended that the deputy to the labor commissioner designated as factory inspector should direct the work of the inspectors appointed in the various cities of the State, but owing to the failure of the city of St. Louis to appoint inspectors, it was decided that he, in conjunction with a lady deputy, should give as much time to inspections in that city as possible. As a result my work has been limited entirely to the city of St. Louis up to the present.

Owing to the slight attention paid to the factories by the proper authorities it would naturally be presumed that here the sweater and the employer of child labor would run riot, but such is not the case. The general condition of Missouri's factories will compare favorably with those of the older commonwealths, not that there are no abuses or violations of the law, but that the infraction of the laws are no more frequent in this State than in others where the machinery of the law is better organized to cope with it. This condition is almost wholly due to the work of the labor organizations of the State. The factory hands of Missouri are fairly well organized, and while strikes are not as numerous as in other States of a like population, yet the unions are very aggressive in seeing that the laws created in their interest are lived up to.

Question blanks relating to the various sections of the factory law are now provided in book form by the department for the use of the inspectors. The questions cover every point of law contained in the act and are thirty-seven in number. So thoroughly do the questions cover the subject, that on one occasion when I had finished, a gentleman told me he felt as if he had just gotten off the witness stand.

Of the laws that are most frequently violated are those providing for the erection of fire-escapes, and prohibition of obstructions to places of egress. These, however, with most other violations are due in most instances to ignorance of the law. In a number of cases the windows of the factory were all free from obstructions except those leading to the fire-escape, which were hedged in in such a manner as to prevent anyone reaching them, making the escape absolutely useless for the purpose intended.

The section providing for separate water-closets for males and females is very generally observed but does not go far enough. In one instance a factory was found where 150 women and girls and thirty men and boys were employed and but two water-closets for their accommodation. The dressing and wash-room facilities were also entirely inadequate. While there was no law to compel them to make any changes, through the fear of publicity the changes desired were finally made.

During the session of the Legislature of 1891, a law was adopted providing for the use of exhaust fans or blowers to prevent the inhalation of dust or smoke by employes. It was mainly intended for the benefit of metal polishers, but owing to a saving clause that somehow crept in, the law was declared void, and no effort was made to enforce it. The objectionable clause contained but two words, "where practicable," but were sufficient to make the law inoperative. At the last session of the Legislature the section was amended by eliminating this clause, and the law is now being enforced.

I regret to say that Missouri is far behind some of her sister States in bake and sweat shop legislation. It is true that we have a law relating to the conduct of bakeries, but it only provides that a bake-house must be one-half its height above the level of the street and prohibits its use for a sleeping place by employes. At the last session of the Legislature two bills were introduced, one in the interest of the bakeries and the other for the clothing workers, but both failed of passage.

Up to the present year almost all of the work in the clothing trade was done in the tenement-houses. In April of this year the union of clothing workers of St. Louis, in the coat and vest-making trade, struck to change these conditions and for a restoration of prices to those in vogue two years ago. They succeeded in securing agreements with all of the large manufacturers, granting their demands. The work is all contract work and under the agreement the manufacturer was prohibited from giving work to any contractor conducting a shop in a tenement-house.

Very little heed is now paid the agreement by the manufacturers and conditions are gradually working back to the old rut.

The pants and underwear workers' condition, however, is by far the worst. A number of these poor creatures are compelled to work in dark basements and cellars for the pitiful sum of five and eight and one-quarter cents for from ten to twelve hours work. Under the law, all that this department can do for them is to prevent overcrowding and see that the walls are lime washed or painted annually.

Up to the year 1897 there was practically no law regulating child labor on the statutes of the State. At the last session of the Legislature a law was adopted which prohibits the employment of children under 14 years in all factories where power machinery is used or in other dangerous employments. It seems, however, that the manufacturers of the state have been under the impression that there was such a law, for in every case where a manufacturer has been interviewed by representatives of the department he has protested that he was living up to the law by refusing to employ children under 14 years. This statement has been borne out by the fact that up to the present the department has been unable to discover more than half a dozen children employed under this age.

I might go on indefinitely relating to you the conditions of the workers of our State, but what I have said will give you a general outline of the conditions, and as they are in no way different from those existing in other cities with which you are perfectly familiar, there can be but little to interest you in such a description. I feel that there is no need for making apologies for not continuing, so I shall retire in favor of some one who is better able to interest you and who can offer something by which we may all profit.

Mrs. F. S. Greene, of Chicago, read the following paper by Mrs. Kelley, ex-chief of Illinois:

EVOLUTION OF THE ILLINOIS CHILD LABOR LAW.

The following details concerning the present status of the Illinois Child Labor Law, and our experience in enforcing it, are submitted in the hope that they may contribute towards a renewed effort in the direction of uniformity on the plane of the most enlightened measure yet obtained in the different States. After years of ceaseless agitation of the subject, Illinois at last takes rank among the States in which the lowest limit of the legal age of work is 14 years; not for manufacture alone, but for commercial occupations as well.

As it stands to-day, after many changes and improvements, the Child Labor Law of Illinois prohibits absolutely the employment of any child under the age of 14 years for wages in any manufacturing establishment, factory or workship, mercantile institution, store, office or laundry. Inspectors are clothed with no authority to exempt any child from this absolute rule, and the poverty or orphanhood of the children can no longer be cited to cloak the exploitation of young children in department stores or in telegraph and messenger service. This was done up to July 1st of the present year, under the old Compulsory Education Law, which authorized local school authorities to issue permits to children 10 years of age and upwards. These permits were not required to be sworn statements of the parent or guardian, as are the affidavits; they were granted upon the mere assertion of the parent that the child was 10 years old or older, and the greater the apparent wretchedness of the child, the more readily the permit was obtained.

After the enactment of the Factory Law of 1893, these permits were issued by the local school boards only to children seeking work in places other than factories and workshops. But the children and employers, too, were confused by the varying requirements; and we frequently found children equipped with these permits working in garment and cigar shops under the legal age for employment in manufacture. The abolition of the permit system marks a long step forward in the care of working class children in Illinois.

Since the extension of the provision of the Factory Law to children employed in mercantile institutions, stores, offices and laundries by the passage of the new Child Labor Law, we have found in our inspections of such establishments about 20,000 children between 14 and 16 years of age who had previously been exempt. These children have been found chiefly in one ward of Chicago, and employed by less than a dozen corporations. The single errand boy or store boy in retail trade forms but a trifling total after two months' search. But the telegraph and messenger boys employed by the three great companies number several hundred boys; while in five department stores there are more children under 16 years of age than fill the largest high school in the State. There are more than 1,200 boys and girls between 14 and 16 years in these five establishments, one of them being the largest employer of children in the State, with 461 affidavits on file.

The result of the extension is far from sensational; we have been slow to prosecute, and have avoided making known in the papers the convictions which we have obtained. We have now in the office evidence upon which to convict four out of five of the managers of these stores, of whom one has already pleaded guilty in three cases. The others will doubtless follow his example, as their wish is to avoid fostering the hostility to department stores so carefully kept alive by the retail dealers, whose stock argument for legislation against the department stores is the excessive employment of young children in them.

There is reason to suppose that the persistent enforcement of the requirement that affidavits must be filed before the children are set at work, and records and registers kept daily revised will have the same gradually reductive effect in commercial establishments which has already been observed in the manufacturing industries, in which there has been a steady though slow improvement in the stature and physique of the children found at work.

No law-abiding employer now sets at work a boy or girl under the age of 16 years unless there has been first an affidavit made by the parent or guardian, an entry of the name, age and address of the child in a register kept for the purpose, and another entry in a list posted on the wall of the room in which the child works. Affidavits are furnished free of charge by notaries in the inspector's office in Chicago for all children applying there, accompanied by parent, who testifies that the child is 14 years old or older, stating the year, month and day, as well as the birthplace. Since, however, the inspectors are not required by law to furnish these free affidavits, we have made, for our office, the rule that we refuse to take affidavit of any parent for any child under the average weight of school children 14 years of age, which is 80 pounds. Also we require that children shall be able to read and write simple sentences in the English language; although the law makes neither of these requirements. We were driven to take these precautions because the office is in the midst of the poorest immigrant colonies in the city; and children were brought to us who seemed to be not more than 10 years of age, yet whose parents were ready to swear whatever might be needful in order to obtain the affidavit. We hope that, in the course of a few years, the law may require for all the children the same minimum weight and educational acquirement which we now demand for those for whom we make gratuitous affidavits. Public opinion distinctly sustains this rule.

The most marked new departure in the new law after the extension of the factory provisions to the mercantile children is the prohibition of the employment of children under 16 years of age in extra-hazardous occupations. This provision we have not yet tested in court. Wé construe the words "extra-hazardous occupation" to mean any occupation in which the insurance companies are loath to insure working men. To begin with, there are the woodworking machines, which seem all to come under this head. The employment of children in the manufacture of explosives has gone on, unchecked, until now. This we can certainly stop outright. There is no tale more hideous in the history of manufacture than that of the little lad who was turned out of a fire-works factory by Deputy Inspector Jensen because he was under the legal age for work, and, having waited for his 14th birthday to come, went to work at once, in the same place, only to blow up the work, killing his sister and himself. Such a horror need never again disgrace Illinois.

The laundries, too, now come under the law for the first time. In their case, however, only the initial step has been taken; for we are still power-less to guard the machine, or order the premises ventilated. While children under 16 years of age can no longer be legally employed at dangrous ironing machines, there remains the danger of prostration by the heat. But we cannot yet order cold rooms heated, nor hot rooms cooled, nor damp rooms dried. The long, slow hazard of consumption, the enervation from protracted overexertion—these we cannot yet deal with. We are still at the stage in which there must be a conspicuous, sensational damage, visible to the naked eye of the casual observer, before we can get further measures enacted, or existing measures sustained by our supreme court.

The restriction by the new law of the work of children under 16 years of age to 10 hours a day is the first step towards relieving the damage inflicted upon the workers when the eight hours law was pronounced unconstitutional. Although this new provision sets no limit to the night work of children, it does provide that their hours of work shall not exceed 10 in 24, nor 60 in one week. Even this is a vast gain in a city where little girls of 12 have been required at the Christmas season to work from 7.30 in the morning to midnight; and where the candy factories have habitually worked until 9 in preparation for the same festival season. The enforcement of the 10-hour day would, of course, involve extraordinary difficulties in sweat shops, but it is a step in the right direction.

The experience of this our fifth year of work confirms the conviction that a factory law is not enforced at all which is not enforced by the constant help of the court. Not because public opinion is hostile to this law, and contumacy has to be overcome. Far from it; there was never a time when the Child Labor Law was so popular with press, pulpit and people; so well regarded by the best employers as it is at present. But the vice of our American citizenship is negligence; good-natured, well-meaning negligence. In Illinois, for many years, this negligence has been fostered by a prevailing policy of enforcing nothing, except what was popular, or was thought likely to be popular; until now our negligent disregard of law and ordinance is the standing wonder of travelers from countries which have the good fortune to enjoy the benefits of good local self-government.

Since the Supreme Court of Illinois annulled the eight-hour law, there has been no real contumacy, no defiance or hostility to the child-labor provisions. But that negligence which is our characteristic quality, which means well but fails to comply, is everywhere; until the department convinces the management that millionaire and sweater, personal friend, relative, alderman, legislator and total stranger, all fare alike, and pay costs, or fine and costs, before the justice of the peace for every violation of which evidence can be obtained. Happily, the fines collected go to the county school fund; and there is, therefore, no possibility of any charge of sordid motive, or corrupt intent in the insistence upon bringing the suits to completion, even where there has been a tardy compliance before the suit reaches trial.

Public opinion sustains the literal fulfillment of that section of the statute which requires the prosecution of all violations. It was found that local justices inclined to leniency if suit was brought upon a first inspection. We have, therefore, in visiting an establishment now for the first time subject to the law, given twenty-four or forty-eight hours notice, and if all the wall records and register were not in order at the end of that time, as well as the affidavits, suit has been brought. The uniformity of this procedure depends of course upon the skill and conscientiousness of the deputy inspector, and this naturally varies somewhat. That the work of the staff, as a whole, has hitherto been efficient is shown by the fact that about 200 employers have paid costs, or fines and costs, during the first eight months of the present year, for some 350 violations of the various provisions of the statute.

A small fine, uniformly enforced, seems to be the best means of reducing the violations; and it is, perhaps, not an improvement that the lowest fine has been raised from $3 to $10. In many cases, the annoyance of arrest and giving bond under a quasi-criminal charge is far more severe punishment than the payment of the fine, though it is surprising to see how eagerly rich employers plead for the remission of fines of $3 and $10.

Desirable as is uniformity in legislation, uniformity in enforcement is even more vital. One of the greatest obstacles to the enforcement of the 14-years limit in the glass works in Illinois is the plea urged by all the corporations engaged in that branch of manufacture that their competitors in other States are allowed to employ boys of any age. This is most demoralizing of all when the corporation has branches in different States, in which the provisions are different, or differently enforced.

The Child Labor Law is supplemented by two measures of enormous importance to working children, both enacted by the last Legislature; namely, one requiring the placing of blowers upon metal polishing machines, and another requiring that fire-escapes must be provided wherever twenty-five persons are employed above the scond story of any building.

These two measures were enacted without the direct initiative of the department, which had concentrated its efforts upon the passage of the Child Labor Law. The former is due to the efforts of the Metal Polishers' Union, the latter to the underwriters, who had paid heavy premiums on losses of life by fire, and insisted upon some measures of facility for the firemen in sky-scrapers and other extra-hazardous places which had hitherto been traps for them. This law, too, comes incidentally enormously to the advantage of the children. Some of the worst catastrophes of the last three years have been in places in which young girls were employed without either fire-walls, outside escapes or any sort of fire drill.

There are still many steps which we must take before it can be claimed for Illinois that we are given to the rising generation of the working class the advantages which the wealth and intelligence of the State entitle them to. We must borrow from New York the prohibition of the work of minors at night, and the prohibition of the employment of minors. Especially must the street children, the peddlers and vendors, the newsboys and bootblacks, and all the hordes of nondescript occupations be brought under systematic supervision.

"Finally," said Mrs. Kelley, "we must have compulsory education of the school children under 16 years of age throughout the school year. No factory law is so good for the children as a law which keeps them not only negatively out of the factories, the stores, and the teeming, tempting, demoralizing streets, but positively at work acquiring industrial efficiency and value to an age past all need of child legislation.

"No one knows as we know them the needs of the children; no one sees as we see them the evils of thir work. If we do not take the initiative in this matter, who shall do so? If we leave it to the trade unions, there is danger that each may think only of the needs of its own members; then the laws will indeed be special legislation, and the precedent of annulling them will be strengthened.

"If, as in the case of the bottle-blowers, the union men employ children, or use their labor supplied by the corporation, then may we wait long and patiently but the initiative will never be taken. If we wait for the philanthropists, we may find hospitals built for newsboys to be repaired in, after being run over, but never a proposition that the unemployed men should sell the papers, and the children go to school all the year round. We may find vacations arranged for the cash children, but no urgency that the errands be done by 'phone and tube, and the children sent to get manual training.

"The medical fraternity will bemoan the increase of consumption in the great cities, but will they help us to banish the little girls from the laundries? or advise legislation for shortening hours and equalizing the temperature in the ironing rooms? No; all these things must come from such as have technical knowledge, not only of the places in which work is done, but of the law as we get it in endeavoring to obtain convictions.

"After the lapse of eight years since our first convention, we have to-day to contemplate an international hodge-podge of provisions governing the employment of children.

"I believe the following scant list to contain all the States in which the lowest age of work is 14 years for both boys and girls: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana. Yet fifteen States and two provinces have factory inspectors, all of them publishing annual reports, with recommendations.

"Surely there is room for us to show our sincerity in regard to the need of uniform legislation."

In the discussion that followed the reading of Mrs. Kelley's paper, Sarah R. Crowley, of Chicago, spoke briefly upon the question of larger fines and less frequent prosecutions which she favored, and expressed the opinion that when fined once quite severely the offender would remember it and would better observe the laws.

Mr. Charles P. Yates, of Illinois, stated, if men who violate the law were brought into court and severely fined they would have more respect for us and the laws we are trying to enforce than if allowed to escape with any petty fine. Mr. Yates recited very clearly some of his experiences in hunting up the violators of child labor laws that was quite interesting. He believes that the higher the fine and fewer the prosecutions the better. He would even favor a fine as high as $50.

Mr. Brown, of Ontario, spoke of his experiences and conservative action as to prosecutions where persons had promised not to violate the law again. Some had been placed under suspended sentence, which he reports as having good results. Mr. Brown believes in large fines in preference to small ones.

Mr. White, of Massachusetts, said he was very much interested in the subject and did not believe that $20 fines were any too much. He believed that an educated public opinion was necessary in the enforcement of laws and recited some of his past experiences.

Mr. Hanlon, of New York, favored a higher fine than even Illinois has at present. While he believes in prosecution he believes in honest procedure and conservative action.

Mr. Cox, of Michigan, spoke briefly in the interest of a conservative enforcement of the laws, bringing out the point that it was well to have the assistance of both employer and employe in the proper observance of all such special laws.

Mr. O'Leary, of New York, favored a conservative enforcement of laws and believes in educating the manufacturer as well as the laborer. He held that the manufacturer who would willfully violate the law should be shown no favor, and in such instances as they showed no respect for the law, the law should show no respect for them.

Mr. Mullin, of Pennsylvania, was agreed with all that had been said, and favored an equitable enforcement of laws. He recited some of his experiences and believes in impressing upon the employers of factories the importance of our mission and their duty to assist us. He favored a high fine. He stated that the manufacturers in his State were desirous of complying with the law, and that the feeling is quite universal in Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Greene, of Illinois, was quite favorably impressed with the laws of her State and the amount of its fines. She said that their Governor had instructed all the deputies to first visit the manufacturing institutions of the State and notify them of the laws and requirements, and then afterwards enforce them. She stated their fine was $10 and upward, and she thought it none too much.

Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, was called to the chair, and President Wade briefly addressed the convention, favoring a conservative enforcement of the industrial laws, and stated that he was more than pleased with the discussions that had been going on.

Mr. Dunn, of New Jersey, stated that he had never before heard this subject more ably or any better discussed and believed that good results must come from this day's proceedings. He stated that New Jersey finds that a conservative enforcement of the law results best with them. He reported that in the factory of the Lorillards, where 3,500 hands are employed, there are but very few employed under 15 years of age, and when under 15 years of age they must attend a night school that is provided for them by the manufacturers or they cannot work, and in each instance they are required to bring a certificate that they are attending the night school. He stated that few permits were granted to orphans, and that these children were generally turned over to some charitable association.

At this juncture a very interesting debate sprung up over the question of exempting anyone, even in extreme cases, which developed a lively little combat of opinions between many.

Mr. Dyson stated that he was very much pleased with the discussions that had been provoked by his remarks and former request, and he believed that much good would result therefrom.

Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, expressed the view that the free school system had done more to embetter the condition of children and to aid in the eradication of child labor than anything else. In this connection he said, "What we want is education, justice and right, between man and man, between woman and woman, and I believe that children at the age of 16 should be taught to work and not bring them up in idleness." He believes in shorter hours for labor, and said as a result of broader education the time will come when a work day will be eight hours.

Mrs. Cope, of Illinois, was interested in the discussion of the subject of special permits, and in compliance with her direct request Mr. Dunn, of New Jersey, explained their efforts to find places for orphan children and to assist them to charitable institutions and other legally provided means.

At this juncture Mr. Yates, of Illinois, raised the question whether the New Jersey inspectors have a statutory right to exempt anyone. He said he asked for information and was informed that there were no exemptions by law.

A lively discussion followed for a few minutes on this subject, which was amusing and interesting, as well as instructive; it being generally held that the departments should use reason and discretion in extreme cases.

Mr. Reger, of Illinois, recited an instance where the employer wanted him to favor a little girl of 13 years with a permit to work in the office, and discussed the impossibility of doing so.

Mrs. Cope, of Chicago, believed in using common sense in the enforcement of the law.

Mr. Cox, of Michigan, incidentally remarked that God Almighty had given us the right to use common sense in tempering the execution of the law which Legislatures had failed to make any proper provisions.

MRS. MASON'S PAPER ON CHILD LABOR.

Our chief has already mentioned the little pamphlet recently compiled at our office, containing the laws of Michigan relative to the employment of women and children, he believing that to educate in law, as well as to enforce it, is no small part of the work of this department.

A careful search, therefore, and a rescue from between the heavy lids of the public acts of Michigan, these statutes placing them in order systematically and separately, was one of my first duties as factory inspector for women and children. These are now in usable, readable shape, and are intended to educate not only employer and employe, but an interested public in the provisions already made, and to encourage future legislation for these classes of laborers, to whom any government should stand peculiarly related. To these we added the Compulsory Educational Law, which is an excellent one, providing that in cities children from 7 to 16 shall attend school, the limit not being confined to four months, but has been construed by a test case brought at Flint recently to mean the whole school year. Too often the rescue of children under the Factory Law is but for a short space, they soon drifting back into the same or another workshop. We are encouraged to believe that a co-operation with a report of names of such children of school age to the superintendent and truant officers, will set a new impulse afloat, which shall result in added school life and opportunities for normal growth and development. The superintendent of the city schools of Detroit has asked me to furnish him such names.

Since coming to this city three weeks ago. I have visited eight factories, two manufacturing establishments and three rag shops, have taken statistics from 469 women and children-255 women and 214 children. The lowest and the highest wages paid I have found in the tobacco factories, the lowest being 75 cents per week, the highest being $15, and that to but one woman, who assured me she was, without doubt, the only one in the city who received it. The opinion of the women who have engaged in strikes is that they do not result to their advantage, many of them going back to work after months of idleness at reduced wages. There have appeals been made to me since in the city in behalf of the clerks in department stores, who are yet obliged to work the long Saturday night hours. They have found that petitions circulated among employers asking for shorter hours bring no satisfactory conclusion or redress of their grievances, and like Sojourner Truth, find a little weasel which prevents Sojourner, whom Harriet Beecher Stowe said possessed more of that subtle thing called presence than any human being she ever met, made a fine point on the constitution the year of the destruction of large quantities of wheat by the weasel. Walking through the wheat one day and taking hold of the stalks she said in her solemn, reverent way, "God, what is de matter wid dis wheat?" And He answers, "Sojourner, there is a little weasel in it." "And den I walks up to de constitution of dese great United States, and I feels for my rights, and dey ain't dere, and I says again, God, what is de matter wid dis constitution? And he says, "Sojourner, there is a little weasel in it." I have advised the representatives of the Retail Clerks' Union to place their petitions in different hands, and at our next session of Legislature to secure the introduction of a bill, bringing the mercantile establishments under the supervision of our department. Only a Saturday night since my arrival here one of the large firms kept open until between 2 and 3 on Sunday morning to change prices for a Monday morning sale; this, with no word of extra pay. A lady clerk in one of the largest establishments of the city, said to me this week: "I wish I could get work where I would not be obliged to work Saturday nights. It is too much after working hard all day to work half of the 214 children interviewed, 46 can not read or write English, and 37 of them with difficulty, bringing us face to face with the need of a law preventing employers from hiring children who can not read and write the language of their native land. Most of these children have attended none but a Polish school, where they are taught nothing but the Polish language, thrown out in the industrial world at a nearly age, thus poorly equipped they always remain a subjective, ignorant class, never rising above that level, thus degrading and ignobling true labor. The manner and attitude of these children, the pittance paid them, and the treatment they often receive and endure at the hands of those overseeing their labor, emphasizes the sad fact that ignorance is an effective agent in cheapening and degrading labor. Let us see to it then, as those who love humanity and our country's best interest, that more stringent and uniform educational laws be enacted, and thus our work be reinforced by that which will prove the best solution of the child labor problem.

I may take no more time and conclude by saying that though but a few weeks in the work, it seems very natural to me, having been for years somewhat of a reformer in similar lines, and am glad to be one to bear the news that "God has not gone to some distant star. He's in the mills where the toilers are."

Mr. F. S. Nash, of New York, read his paper on DIFFICULTIES MET IN THE GUARDING OF MACHINERY.

There is no single function of a factory inspector more important to factory employes than the duty of seeing that all machinery in the establishment which he visits is provided with the safeguards prescribed by law. It is impossible to say how many serious accidents have been caused by machinery in manufacturing establishments during the past ten years. No authoritative record of accidents exists to my knowledge. But the tables of accidents which have been compiled show that casualties of this class were formerly, and are still very numerous. That they have been largely reduced of late years is due to the increasing stringency of legislation on this subject, and to the zeal with which conscientious inspectors do their work.

The work, however, of securing the placing of suitable guards about machinery is one that can best be accomplished by mingling a certain amount of tact with fidelity to duty. Probably there is no requirement of factory laws which inspectors find greater difficulty in enforcing than this.

It is a matter that requires careful study and thought on the inspector's part, if he is to point out practical devices for guarding the different kinds of machinery with which he comes in contact. It is especially important, in order to perform his work with as little friction as possible, that he should be capable of giving a full and intelligent explanation to employers of the reasons why the safeguards in question are necessary. My experience has been that the majority of employers are willing to provide the required guards for their machinery after I have made a careful explanation as to the danger arising from the lack of such precautions. Yet you find in some cases that it is very hard to convince employers of this fact until a serious accident occurs in their establishment.

To illustrate this I will cite a recent instance in which I was personally concerned. In this case I was called upon to investigate an accident a short time after having made an inspection in which I directed the attention of the superintendent to unguarded emery wheels. He contended that further precautions were not necessary, as they always bought the best emery wheels, and paid the highest price for same. In the course of two or three weeks an employe who had occasion to do some grinding on one of these wheels made a mistake in placing a rest on which caused pressure on the wheel and caused it to burst. One piece of it struck the man, killing him almost instantly. I cite this case to show one of the most common difficulties that we have to contend with. In all cases before resorting to further measures, it is well to try to convince the employer or the superintendent of the necessity of such guards as the conditions may require.

Another subject which gives much annoyance is the matter of exhaust fans. I wish to speak more particularly of polishing wheels, which are used for the polishing of metal, and especially of brass. I find it more difficult to enforce the law in these cases than in any others that I meet with. There are numerous small places where there are only one or two polishers, and the firms, having a very small capital to do business on, say they cannot afford a system of exhaust fans. Other larger firms, who can afford it, will make all manner of excuses to avoid compliance with the law. For instance, they will say that their place is healthy and that they have good ventilation, as there are many windows in their work-But you will find, almost invariably, a pile of dust on the floor, room. which, on examining closely, you will discover to be largely composed of brass dust, which requires the force of a strong exhaust fan to draw off from the wheel when grinding. A manufacturer will often point out the men at work on such wheels, and say, "they are healthy-looking men"an assertion which you are compelled to admit to be true, as you do not often come across a man who looks like a sickly person employed in this work. But when you ask the men if it affects them, they will almost invariably answer, "Yes, in time, if we keep at it."

I will now mention another piece of machinery, and the difficulties experienced in securing proper safeguards for the same. This is the protruding set screw on shafting, both near the floor and overhead. On looking over our yearly report, we find that many accidents are caused by these screws every year. My experience in inspecting factories convinces me that this source of casualty has been overlooked very largely in the past, especially on our overhead shafting, where I consider them nearly as dangerous as on the lower shafting. As employes in oiling or doing other work, whatever it may be, frequently become careless, or by some cause or other, as it may be, have had the misfortune to be caught, and either seriously injured or killed. To express this subject more forcibly I will cite an accident that happened the past year in a factory in the State of New York, where an inspector had recently made an inspection, and explained the necessity of guarding set screws on overhead shafting, on which one of the firm remarked that he had been in business a number of years and no accident had happened on set screws, and he could not see the necessity of guarding same. A short time after, this man had his attention attracted by a peculiar noise caused by the shafting, and in getting up to locate same was caught on set screws, and killed. which might have been avoided had he complied with the order of the factory inspector.

In most cases the manufacturers are willing to guard set screws after the inspector has explained to them the necessity of doing so, and the cheap manner in which it can be done. But in many instances they will say that their attention had never been called to this matter before. I find that many of the difficulties in this respect which have caused a great deal of extra work hitherto, are obviated by the use of the sketches of guards, which the department has introduced, and which we carry with us and leave with all manufacturers where the machinery is to be guarded.

I believe that employers on the whole are becoming much more enlightened as to the value and necessity of factory inspection. While there are still manufacturers, especially small manufacturers, who apparently resent our visits as an unwelcome intrusion, there is a large majority of employers who understand that our work is not only necessary for the cause of humanity and civilization, but that the regulations that we are required to enforce constitute an important protection for their own real interests. The necessity for careful inspection is shown by the statistics giving the accidents for the last two years in the State of New York. During 1895 there were no less than 1,305 accidents reported in manufactories and mines. Of these, 71 were fatal. In 1896 there were only 710 accidents reported, and of these only 48 were fatal. This is a decrease of 595 accidents in a single year. This gratifying decrease is largely due, without doubt, to the more efficient enforcement of the laws providing for the guarding of dangerous machinery.

Most of the casualties to which I have referred were caused by machinery of some kind. In addition to the variety I have mentioned as particularly likely to work injury, if left unguarded, gears, cogwheels, pulleys, shafting and belting have all played their part in the work of killing or disabling human beings. A majority of the accidents which have occurred would no doubt have been avoided if proper guards had been provided. Some times this has not been done, because of the carelessness or neglect of inspectors in the past to call the attention of the employers to the need of it. In many instances I have had manufacturers thank me for pointing out to them the danger of costly accidents. In our work for the past year I have found places that have never been inspected before-places in which the proprietors would ask me what the Factory Law was for, and how long it had been in existence. These, as a rule, were small establishments, managed by men who knew comparatively little of American laws and institutions. These concerns are now under the eye of the department, and their owners will not be able to plead ignorance of the law or to elude its provisions hereafter. On reviewing the past year I can truthfully say that I have noted a marked improvement in the guarding of machinery in New York State. I do not think that I will be accused of exaggeration by those who know the facts, if I say that the general work of the Factory Department in the State of New York shows constant improvement in efficiency. This has not been accomplished without constant vigilance and effort; but the result has been well worth the labor.

In presenting these views I have drawn on my own personal experience. The subject is one which invites discussion, and I should be very glad to hear the views of inspectors from other States in regard to this question.

Mr. Guyon, of Montreal, read the following paper upon the guarding

Mr. Guyon, of Montreal, read the following paper upon the guarding of belts:

OAN OUR METHOD OF HANDLING BELTS BE IMPROVED? Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

The manipulation of belts, and other flexible agents used in transmitting power, such as steel cables, ropes, endless chains, etc., is a subject well worthy of the careful study and attentive observation of those brought in daily contact with machinery.

From the master mechanic down to the humble oiler, in the colossal works as well as in the small country woolen mill, the principles governing the handling of belts should be known.

In vain will the inspector multiply preventive measures in the form of guards, no matter how effective, ignorance of these principles will produce accidents adding still to the long list of mutilated toilers, or more correctly speaking, to the large number of unfortunates killed on duty, if we take in consideration the large percentage of fatalities in accidents of this class.

Before entering into the details of my subject I would inform the members of this convention that, notwithstanding the elaborate regulations framed under our Provincial Act, and the zeal displayed in their application, I do not hesitate in saying that the clauses relating to belts have been found very inadequate. In fact, all the legislation on the continent relating to belts seems limited to general prescriptions, as to guarding and boxing. How, then, is it that after years of earnest efforts on the part of inspectors, we find our tabulated accident reports filled with harrowing accounts of people torn to pieces or maimed by belts?

In my humble opinion work people have not been instructed how to guard themselves against the power that seldom forgives; our factories are not supplied with the appliances that permit unskilled help to handle belts with security. In other words, legislation has fallen short in this respect, and the personal initiative of the manufacturer has remained passive and has not completed as it should the work of the inspector. It would be impossible in so short an essay to treat in particular of all the modes of transmission employed in our modern factories, and danger inherent to their use and supervision. I find in the ordinary plain leather belt, subject-matter sufficiently important to bring out my views and experience, which I trust may prove of some interest to my colleagues of the convention.

Ox leather stands at the head of those of all other nature for the satisfaction of all demands on belts; no other belt will stand the wear of the slipper as well. Cotton belts are weakened when wet, rubber belts are rotted when oiled, but leather will stand wet and dryness, cold and heat, and last longer.

The market is full of devices for fastening belts, yet there seems to be no diminution in the importation of patna hide, and the familiar belt lace prevails after scarfs, links, and numerous other patent devices have been discarded.

A simple way of testing the quality of the leather is to put a piece of the belt in strong vinegar; if good, it will merely darken; if bad, it will swell, and in a short time form a gelatinous mass. Belts do not stretch so much when first used as formerly, owing to improved methods of belt manufacturers, thus doing away with the great annoyance of belt slipping; excessive slip having a tendency of drying the leather, leading to a condition of minimum adhesion.

Leaving aside the economical question, we arrive at the manipulation of the belt.

The work that has to be performed by manipulation may be summarized as follows: First, passing the belt on shaft; second, lacing ends together; third, placing it on pulley; fourth, displacing belt from loose to fixed pulley, or vice versa; fifth, throwing belt off.

Now, if we take a large factory, with its hundred machines and innumerable belts, we are sure that some of the operations just mentioned are being performed all day in some part or other of the establishment, and that, too, under insecure conditions and total lack of proper appliances.

I would take for example the tumbling barrels in our ironworks as weinspectors found them in the province of Quebec, being slow running machines they were generally driven from main shafts, and none were supplied with loose pulleys, the consequence being a great number of belt accidents; the belt could have easily been started with loose pulley, but to put a belt on and set a ton of iron revolving and not be dragged around with it was quite a feat, and that is what I mean by insecure conditions.
I will speak of lack appliances further on. Assuming that the inspector has done his duty, that there are no set screws, no couplings with protruding bolt heads, no keys in the way, clearance enough between pulleys,
I will endeavor to point out some of the most common causes of accidents.

Years ago, the term unexperienced hand used in factories generally meant a helper, a person called upon in many things to lighten the burden of his more skilled mate, or an apprentice that participated in the easiest parts of the work, and gradually became a competent mechanic.

Unfortunately, in our times the conditions of labor have changed, and what we generally called learning a trade years ago, to-day in the vernacular of the factory goes by the name of breaking in hands. Employes of all ages are hurried into the works and trained for a special operation; nothing can surpass the patience and care which will be lavished upon the new hand to fit him for his duties. Once this is attained, he is left to himself.

It is therefore not surprising that inexperienced hands contribute such a high figure in belt accidents. In fact, we very seldom hear of a thorough mechanic being injured in that way, for, besides the skill he has acquired by long experience, his knowledge of the danger will most always guard him from taking any risks.

How many times have I seen, in my visits, men mounted on poor ladders and facing large, rapidly revolving pulleys, endeavoring to push a four-inch belt on, literally taking their lives in their own hands, never dreaming that if the belt is to be put on by hand, the proper position is at the back of the pulley; that the belt can be pulled on with comparative ease; that it is even better to take no risk and have powers slowed, and see that the tool that has probably caused the belt to fall, be properly backed from the work during the operation of replacing belt.

Should the belt be too slack it will have to be shortened. In doing this the belt will rest on the shaft. Invariably the green hand will grasp the the two ends in one hand, pressing them together, the rotary action of the shaft will cause one end to draw, and other to slacken; if kept in same position it will lap over, and in an instant will coil around the shaft, too often retaining in its deadly folds the unsuspicious victim who had but to keep ends separated so as to support unrolling end to be perfectly safe.

Simple as the act of throwing off a belt may be, I have often investigated serious accidents caused by operatives thrusting belt sticks between pulley and belt to have it violently torn from their hands, and very often pulling down the counter-shaft. Much might be added to show that little-attention or care is given to training unskilled operatives in the manipulation of belts on this continent, compared to the precaution and improved methods in vogue in older countries.

Yet our laws are just as stringent, our inventive genius equal, if not superior, with incomparable facilities for designing and adopting preventive appliances of all kind. The great majority of our manufacturers are apathetic if not altogether opposed to innovation of this nature.

Numerous appliances to render manipulation of belts quite safe have been invented. It was my good fortune to see a large number of them being used in France, and hear from the inspectors that these appliances had become indispensable adjuncts to the belts of all large factories. They consist first of long arms or belt stick with which workmen soon become familiar, so that most of the ordinary shifting of the belt can be accomplished without the aid of the ladder. Next in order come the belt carrier upon which the belt may rest for different operation, such as lacing, etc.

For large belts, which are so difficult and so dangerous to set in motion, particularly when they have been cut a little short, a belt mounter is used. Thus for the several phases of belt manipulation good, practical appliances exist.

I will not dwell upon the mode of handling these appliances, nor will I tax your patience by a long technical description of their construction, any of my colleagues who are not already familiar with the matter, can examine the album published by the Society for the Prevention of Accidents that I have used for this short essay, and which I hold at their disposal.

In conclusion, I say with all the emphasis possible, that our methods of handling belts can be not only improved, but completely transformed, if one or two manufacturers in every State could be induced to construct and use these appliances in order to show makers that a market could be created for them, not for belt alone, but for all machines that cause accidents in factories, conditions would improve very rapidly.

The question of how these improved appliances could be introduced in general used is an interesting one to the members of the convention, I am sure. The success attained in France and Germany, in this respect, is due more to the efforts of manufacturers who have taken the matter up in a true philanthropic spirit, than to the prescription of the law.

Should it be impossible to create this feeling on this continent, and if manufacturers will persist in a policy of Laisser faire, preferring the endowment of hospitals to the proper equipping of their factories in all that is required to prevent their fellow from being killed, then I favor the plan suggested by Mr. Evan H. Davis, of Ohio, in his splendid essay read at the eighth annual convention.

Let the firm hand of the law be used, and let the regulations that supplement our laws be made stringent enough to root out this evil.

Before closing allow me to quote a few lines of the admirable preface in Engel's Album, which says: "What would not one do to save the life of a fellow creature, and how heart-rending it is to find oneself compelled to be an impotent witness of an accident to a human being. Should we not, therefore, adopt all possible precautions to prevent these accidents, often so terrible, which pass unnoticed only on account of the very frequency of their occurrence, or because we have fallaciously assumed that factory accidents are the inevitable accompaniments, the fatal consequence of an industrialism that claims its victims?"

Mr. W. S. Mullin, of Pennsylvania, read the following document on

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Eleventh Annual International Convention of Factory Inspectors:

The subject of boiler inspection, the paper assigned to me, is one that is agitating the minds of millions of intelligent people. The alarming increase of boiler explosions, and the consequent loss of life, to say nothing of the destruction of valuable property, ought to arouse our legislative bodies to immediate action, to pass good and effective laws, whereby steam boilers might be placed under competent and thorough inspection. The last session of the general assembly of our own State, Pennsylvania, passed an amended act, relative to factory inspection in which many improvements over the former acts are incorporated, for which much praise is due our worthy chief, Mr. Campbell, for his untiring and persistent labors to bring it to a more perfect and successful framing and final passage through the Senate and House of Representatives, until when it reached the hands of our illustrious Governor, Daniel H. Hastings, who completed it with his signature. The many improvements are very commendable, but I can only speak here of the one which particularly bears upon my subject, that of boiler inspection, section 11, which reads as follows:

It shall be the duty of the owner or owners of bollers used for the generating of steam to be applied to machinery in all industrial institutions subject to factory inspection, to furnish from time to time, as required by the factory department, reports or other evidence from competent authority as to the condition of the boilers used for the generating of steam, to the State Factory Inspector. He or his deputies or other agents shall have the right, from time to time, to enter upon the premises where such boiler or boilers are kept for the purpose of inspecting the same, and determining their safety, and if any such boiler or boilers shall be found to be in a dangerous condition and liable to explode, it shall be the duty of the Factory Inspector, or one of his deputies, to notify the owner or owners thereof, his or their agent or engineer in charge of such dangerous condition, and, when so notified by the State Factory Inspector, his deputy or other agent, it shall be the duty of the owner or owners thereof to immediately cease the use of said boiler or boilers until placed in a safe condition.

The wisdom of, and the necessity for, such legislation cannot be overestimated nor fully appreciated by the people of Pennsylvania, and a similar law ought to be engrafted on the statute books of every state and .province. We do not forget the fact that brainy Massachusetts, the home of our worthy president, preceded us in this wise and important step to throw around the lives of her people and their property this much needed safeguard. Also the province of Quebec lead us in the procession. 1 respectfully but very earnestly urge every delegate present to use every honorable means at their command to convince the law-making bodies of their respective state or province of the incalculable importance of government supervision of steam boilers, and I think the law ought to go a step further, and designate and require a reasonable but safe standard of qualifications to be possessed by all who are in charge of the same. In my experience I have found men and boys in charge of steam boilers and machinery who knew no more about the power of steam, or the capacity of the boiler, than the boiler knew of them. This unfortunate condition of things mostly exists in smaller plants, and saw-mills, threshers, etc., where they want to avoid the cost of a skilled or practical man.

The major portion of explosions occurs under this class of men. Often. too, upon inquiry as to the age of the boiler the owner will say, "I do not know; I bought it second-hand." The truth possibly is, it was condemned or thought unsafe by some one who knew the danger, and passed it into the hands of a second-hand dealer, and he in turn sold it to the unsuspecting, honest, confiding, but ignorant present owner, who believed everybody to be as honest as himself, even a junk dealer. In one instance where I found a boiler bedded deep in a thick casing of brick and mortar. exposed only at the end, the water-gauge cocks almost hidden with corrosion, a man stirring up the fire with a full draught on it, 80 pounds of steam; and while I stood there with a good deal of fear, telling the man that I thought he had steam enough already, the manager came from the factory and wanted to know what was the matter with the power. I asked him how much more power he wanted, and he said 120 pounds, and hurried back to the factory. I asked the fireman when his boiler was inspected. He said he did not know, but not since he worked there, and said he had fired the boiler nearly six years. I asked him how often he washed and cleaned the boiler out, and he said, "we run water through it every two or three months."

I then hunted up the owner, and went to the factory, and he took great delight in showing me his new engine, which he said gave him good power. Said he, "the old one was only 50 horse-power, and this one is 80 horse-power."

I asked him when he was getting a new boiler, and his reply was "Oh, we can get along with this old one by carrying higher pressure." I could do nothing more than warn him of the danger, and point out to him the inconsistency of running an 80 horse-power engine with a boiler designed to run a 50 horse-power engine, and that, too, after the boiler had given many years of service, and in all probability was in a weakened condition from rust, corrosion, age, and the influence of expansion and contraction in all the years of service it had given. He appeared to become alarmed at what I told him, and asked me to go with him to the boiler house and explain further to him. I said "My dear sir, I value my life too much to go there again, but will go to your office or somewhere far enough away from that boiler to be reasonably safe, and will be glad to give you any suggestion or information I can." On the way to the office he asked me what size boiler I would suggest. I told him not less than a hundred horse-power, and suggested the improved safety valve and other appliances, and when we got to the office he sat down at his desk and wrote Messrs. —— & Co.: "Dear Sirs.—Please ship me at once one of your best 100 horse-power tubular boilers, with improved safety valves and all modern appliances. Truly your, etc." Said I, "You have done a wise thing; will you kindly take one more suggestion?" "What more?" said he. "Try to get along with 100 pounds of steam until you get the new boller." He said he would do that. The next time I visited that plant, four months later, he took my hand and said, "Thanks to the Factory Laws of our beloved State; come with me and see the new and old boilers; but the old one first." We went down to where the old servant lay, just outside where it had done many years of good service, and he pointed out to me a dozen places where the point of a hammer had pierced its shell. Many of its braces and stay bolts were broken. "Oh," said this good, honest man, "I feel grateful to the State for our Factory Laws. The Factory Department has saved the lives of many of us and much damage in dollars and cents." We then went in to see the new boiler, which lay in a new bed, and to all appearance as stately and firm as the rocks of Gibraltar, insured and under the supervision of a competent inspector.

I have related this one instance in detail, because it so fairly represents the true condition of thousands of other cases, not in Pennsylvania alone, but everywhere in communities where steam plants are operated. nearly every state and municipality there is legislation as to the handling and locating explosives, and the distance from cities, towns and villages at which magazines and powder houses for the storage of explosives shall be located. This is prudent and wise, but we should not forget or overlook the fact that in all industrial centers, where steam boilers are in use they are often located in such close proximity to the homes, churches, school houses, etc., that should an explosion occur, the disaster in the loss of life and property would be as great as the explosion of a magazine or powder house filled with dynamite or powder. I would not recommend legislation to remove steam boilers, or specify the distance from cities, towns or thickly populated communities at which they should be located, because that would entail great expense and inconvenience, and would be unwise for many reasons, but I make this comparison to show as forcibly as I can the great importance of careful, thorough and competent inspection of all boilers, and to show too that it is not only the right, but the duty of governments to do this, because to neglect it is to jeopardize and neglect the lives and property of its people, which is, and should be its first, highest and most sacred duty to protect. I quote the following from Philadelphia Press of June 8th, last, which will serve to illustrate the awful results of a boiler explosion, and the danger to whole blocks where dangerous or neglected boilers may be located:

"City of Mexico, June 7.—La Carolina calico printing factory, at Pueblo, was destroyed this morning by a boiler explosion, which killed at least twenty men, and damaged surrounding property. The factory, the property of Noreiga Bros., merchants, of Mexico City, was situated in the heart of the city. People were killed in adjoining houses and many fronts of adjoining dwellings were blown out. Experts say a ton of dynamite could hardly have been more destructive. Part of the boiler was carried high in the air and precipitated upon the roof of a house in the neighborhood, killing an old man and three children. An iron beam from the works was hurled through the roof of another house, carrying away part of the front and balcony and literally burying it. A fireman three blocks from the scene of the explosion had his head completely torn off.

"The scene of the accident presented a scene of indescribable confusion. crowded with people in search of the unfortunate victims. Fragments of human bodies, mixed with pieces of machinery and building material, strew the ground upon every side.

"The destruction done to buildings, to machinery and to stock on hand, will amount to $150,000. Soldiers are now clearing away the debris."

Many instances like this one might be related and many even more terrible in their results, but to say the least, it is claimed by statisticians of recognized authority, that more lives have been destroyed by accidental explosions of steam boilers since steam has come into general use as a machinery driving power, than by all other explosives used in the arts and sciences, barring war, gases in mines, and experiments in chemistry, etc. The old traditionary story of the discovery of steam by its force throwing off the lid of a teakettle may antedate the first account we have of it as a real power, which is in that of the apparatus constructed by Hero, of Alexander, 130 years before Christ; but, strange to say, history records no progress for fifteen centuries, until Della Porta, in 1601, made a slight improvement over Hero's apparatus, but like Hero's was of no commercial value, and not until 1698, A. D., was steam known as a force of commercial value, when Thomas Savery constructed an apparatus and used it for raising water, and he used the first boiler separate from the engine to which it was applied. Mr. Savery complained though and became discouraged, because, said he, the heat melts out the solder from all the joints, and he gave it up. Though all this time there were ambitious men who tried to bridle and experiment with steam, but were blown into eternity. In 1690 Denis Papin, so much for the Irish, invented the safety or escape valve, as Denis was not ready to go up with the angels yet. Mr. Newcomen, in 1709, constructed a steam apparatus for pumping water to which he attached Papin's escape valve, and his pumping engines became of some commercial service, but for eleven years in the use of his engines the valves had to be worked by hand to convey the steam to and discharge it from the cylinder, when an ingenious boy named Humphrey Potter, thought to lighten his work, and be in position to leave his post of duty to see a passing hippodrome the next day, went to work with ropes and catches on the main shaft and succeeded in getting a self-acting device.

In 1773 James Watt, of Glasgow, took the laurels from all his predecessors, and made the greatest stride in the use of steam as a power, and invented the throttle valve—the governor to regulate the speed and many other devices of great and lasting value. New and improved methods in the use of steam were made by Cugnot in 1769, Hornblower in 1781, Woolf in 1804, and used what is called the first high pressure boiler. The adaptation of steam engines to railways began by Trevithick in 1800, became a success in 1829, when the Rocket, in the hands of George Stephenson, outdistanced all competitors, and was the real beginning of steam railroads. To-day steam is the recognized foremost power that carries our trains of human freight, and the almost innumerable tons of merchandise over the continents, drives our ships over the high seas, and keeps in motion the machinery of the world.

All this vast power and incalculable force caged and constrained in boilers will suggest to any intelligent mind the necessity for close, careful, competent and thorough supervision over them. How shall this be done? In the opinion of the writer, all governments should pass proper legislation designating proper authority to supervise the inspection, which should be the factory department, giving this department the right to require, first that all men before being placed in charge of steam boilers, should possess a reasonable but safe standard of qualifications, and a knowledge of the power of steam, capacity of the boiler, and the danger of carelessness, neglect or ignorance, etc. Second, that all boilers should be equipped with modern automatic safety valves and good, safe, sure working appliances for injecting water in the boiler when under pressure. Third, that all boilers should be inspected by a competent inspector at least twice a year internally, testing every part of the shell, dome or drum, with a sharp blow of a pointed hammer, and sounding all braces, stay bolts, crown and flue sheets and observing carefully whether any part of the boiler is being seriously affected by rust, corrosion, scales or other influence which would tend to weaken or destroy the elasticity or life of the iron or steel. External inspection should be also carefully and rigidly made at least once every three months. Testing thoroughly the safety valves, gauge cocks. steam gauges, injectors, inspirators, pumps or other appliances for feeding the boilers with water while under pressure. The hammer test, in external inspection, can only be used where the shell of the boiler is exposed.

Fourth, all boilers of doubtful strength should be at once subjected to a hydraulic or hydrodynamic test up to twice the amount of steam pressure desired to be carried for working purposes. It is the writer's opinion, that governments should bear none of the expenses of boiler inspections outside of supervising and requiring the same to be done.

Inspectors of boilers should be also required by law to file a certificate of competency, with the factory department, setting forth that he has a practical knowledge of the power of steam, etc., and also of the capacity of boilers and their appliances, etc.

This should be required of all who inspect boilers, whether they be employed by boiler insurance companies or by owners or operators of the same.

A quarter of a century ago, the number of railroad locomotive boilers in use was but a small percentage of those in use now. Yet at that time explosions were quite frequent, while for the last decade they are few and far between. The reason of this is, not so much on account of the improved designs or strength of the boilers, but because all railroad corporations have a thorough and practical system of inspection, which is made monthly, or at least frequently, by practical and competent men of all their locomotive and stationary boilers. It is but fair to add, that many users of steam boilers take the same precaution, but it is a fact patent, that many do not. Some neglect it through ignorance, while others penuriously inclined, would sooner take the risk than incur the small expense of inspection. For this class of people a compulsory law is necessary, and will receive the approval of all the former class, together with all intelligent people.

Joseph A. Moore, of Massachusetts, read the following paper upon ventilation in SCHOOL-HOUSES IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Mr. President and Members of the Convention:

The last few years have marked a period of extensive change and improvements in the manner of constructing school buildings in Massachusetts. Many of us can remember the little low-studded one or two-room school-house, with small windows and one door, heated by a large wood-burning stove near the front of the room and the old-fashioned wooden desks, with the seat of one built on the front of the other, the desks rising from the front, where the small pupils were seated, to the rear where "the large boys and girls" were located.

In very cold weather, with the stove crowded full of wood, the children in the front seats near the stove would be suffering from the heat, while those in the rear would frequently raise a hand and say, "Please can I go to the stove and get warm." When the air had become so vitiated that the teacher could no longer endure it, the windows or door, and perhaps both, were thrown open, the room filled with cold air and the pupils suddenly cooled to a point of shivering.

The one water bucket and tin dipper would serve to supply water for the whole school.

The outside, uncomfortable and often filthy sanitary building would be shunned by the pupils. These are now things of the past, and we look with feelings of just pride to the more modern buildings, well lighted, heated, ventilated and with latest and most improved sanitary appliances. Instead of some of the pupils being nearly roasted while others in the same room are shivering with cold, we find rooms where not a degree of difference of temperature will be shown by the thermometers placed at the same time on the desks in the several parts of the room. Instead of cold and uncomfortable drafts from open windows and doors and air so vitiated that it was almost unbearable, we have a uniform supply of fresh warm air, without drafts, and where each pupil is receiving an amount of from thirty to fifty cubic feet per minute, and where a chemical test of its purity will show but a little more vitiation than in the outside air. These changes have not taken place suddenly or by adopting any special patented devices or apparatus. They have been gradually developed by experience derived from numerous failures and partial successes.

By rejecting schemes that have been found to be defective upon trial and gathering together the good points in the most successful work, the matter of heating, ventilation and sanitation in our school-houses has been brought to a stage where it does not depend upon guess work or erroneous theories and it is now simply a question of using methods and apparatus that have been thoroughly tested by actual use. The inspection department of the Massachusetts district police has contributed much towards improving the condition of the pupils in the public schools. When the laws providing for proper ventilation of school and public buildings were first placed on the statute books and Chief Wade caused their enforcement, more or less opposition was met from committees and architects, caused more by want of information as to proper means and a dislike to break away from old methods and perhaps partly by failures of patented schemes which promised much more than could be realized by such methods, but as time passed the objections grew less and the public realized that good work could be done by proper methods.

Some cities and towns, in which the committees were opposed to the law and talked loudly about having it repealed, are now foremost in requiring the laws and the regulations of the inspection department to be complied with, especially in the construction of new school-houses, and architects and contractors are required to obtain the approval of the department before their plans will be accepted. The opposition to the law is now mostly confined to a few who desire to be recognized as experts, but whose work has been criticised and its defects shown to the public. Naturally such persons wish for a change in the law.

The old saying, "You may fool all of the people some of the time, some of the people all the time, but you can not fool all the people all the time," contains much truth.

As the public became educated to the necessity of providing good, fresh and properly warmed air for the pupils in the public schools and saw by object lessons how it could be done, the opposition nearly ceased and now it is but seldom that inspectors are required to resort to the courts to enforce a compliance with the law.

In planning a school building the means of egress in case of fire, ventilation, sanitation and light are important things to be considered and the plans should include them all before any contracts are made or work begun on the building. It is far easier to make changes on paper plans than in brick or woodwork, much expense is saved and better results obtained, when the details are carefully studied and embodied into the original plans.

The location and size of the heat and vent flues, the size of furnaces, boilers and pipes, of fans and engines should all be worked out in detail. It is attention to details that often secure the best results.

Each building should be planned with reference to its size, use and location. Whether a mechanical or a gravity system, or a combination of the two, or whether furnaces or indirect steam are to be used, will depend considerably upon the size and class of building and the amount of money available for construction. In the larger buildings where rooms are located in a manner that will require air to be moved a considerable distance from the source of supply or to reach the main vent ducts, a mechanical system will be better than a gravity. In others, where the ducts can go straight to the rooms a combination of the mechanical and gravity, or a gravity system, can be used to good advantage. If a fan is used to force air into a room, means for causing an outflow of vitiated air through the vent ducts should always be provided. This may be accomplished either by a fan, or by steam pipes in the vent ducts.

If neither heat or mechanical means for causing an outflow of vitiated air is provided, the circulation of air in the room will not be good and when the supply fan is stopped the ventilation will practically cease. It is noticed that in buildings where the exhaust is a little in excess of the supply, better and more uniform results are obtained.

The practice of forcing air into a room and allowing it to escape where it can, often having the vent openings obstructed by useless devices to prevent back drafts, is not a good one. The walls, ceilings, etc., being porous, a large amount of the warm fresh air, which should enter near the upper part of the room, escapes without properly circulating and doing its work. The leakage through walls, ceilings and floor, and also around doors and windows is a matter that usually does not receive sufficient attention from heating and ventilating engineers. The location of supply and exhaust ducts is a matter that should receive careful attention in designing a building.

These should be as short and straight as possible and sharp angles should be avoided. The best results are obtained in a room having two cold or exposed walls, when the inlet is placed about eight feet above the floor and about half way between the center and outer edge of a warm or protected wall. When placed close to the outer edge of a warm or protected wall or near the inner or warm angle, the circulation is not as good as when placed about six feet from the cold wall. In a room with three exposed sides two inlets, placed relatively about as in the former case, give the best results, but if it is desirable to have out one inlet it should be placed about midway of the warm side. When the inlet is placed near the inner or warm angle and the outlet near the cold or exposed wall, the circulation is not good and some of the purest air is taken out instead of the foul air. In a room with two cold or exposed walls, the outlet should be placed at the floor level at the inner or warm angle; but with three exposed sides it should be placed at the floor level near the center of the inner or warm side, no matter whether one or two inlets are provided. The size of the ducts is also a matter deserving special attention. In the best work now done in Massachusetts, the size of inlets and outlets has been considerably increased, and for a 50-seat room the best results are -obtained when the supply ducts are 24 by 36 inches (6 sq. ft.) and the exhaust ducts are 24 by 30 inches (5 sq. ft.). This is a change from the early practice, when the outlets were larger than the inlets; but better results are now obtained. The air in ample quantity is brought into the room at a lower velocity and uncomfortable drafts are avoided and in moderate weather, especially when using the gravity system, a sufficient supply can be obtained without overheating the room, as was frequently the case when small ducts were used. The velocity in the outlet ducts can easily be increased to 500 feet a minute by means of fan or steam pipes in the ducts, without causing uncomfortable drafts, and at this velocity an anemometer wheel placed four to five feet in front of the opening will hardly turn. When steam coils are used in the vent ducts, they should be placed about one foot above the top of the opening from the room and be inclined up and towards the back of the duct at about an angle of 60 degrees. When placed, as was formerly the case, near the top of the vent shaft, the results were not as satisfactory.

In the former case there is the lifting power of a column of warm air, of the height from the vent to the top of the duct, while in the latter case it was but the distance from the top of the duct to the coils or pipes a few feet below, or perhaps the relative efficiency may be compared to the draft power of a tall and a short chimney. About 20 square feet of steam pipe surface gives excellent results when the vent ducts are comparatively straight. Where several ducts enter one chamber, or where branches are taken from the main supply ducts, equalizing or adjusting dampers should in all cases be provided. Dampers to regulate or shut off the vent ducts should be provided at each room outlet.

When a building is so planned that a gravity system can be used to good advantage, a combination made with a mechanical system by using a fan, gives most excellent results. The gravity system being used in cold weather, when the difference in temperature outside and inside is sufficient to give an ample supply of fresh air. When the weather is warmer, the fan can be used and a good supply furnished at all times. This is more economical than using the fan all the time.

The location of the indirect radiators should be carefully planned. They should be placed in a cold air chamber in the basement and so arranged that the warm air will pass up the front side of the duct, while the cold air passes up the rear side.

By this arrangement, the air admitted for cooling the room will be prevented from falling on the pupils and causing uncomfortable drafts. Each warm air duct should be provided with a mixing valve by which the temperature of the incoming air can be regulated without cutting off the supply.

It is also advisable, when warm air ducts leading to different stories are taken from the same fresh air chamber, to provide adjusters to regulate the supply to the upper rooms and cause an even distribution of air and prevent the upper rooms from taking more than their proportion of the supply. Adjustable windows or shutters should be provided to regulate the supply to the cold air rooms. Long horizontal ducts should be avoided whenever practicable.

If it is desired to use a combination of fan and gravity systems, it can be done by constructing a separate cold air chamber with radiation sufficient to partly warm the air (say to 60 degrees), forcing the air by means of the fan to the fresh air chamber at the base of the warm air ducts and through the radiators placed there—the windows or outside openings in these chambers being closed when the fan is used. The exhaust steam from the fan engine can be used to good advantage in a portion of the radiators in the fan room. When it is desired to use the gravity system, the inlets to the fan room and the ducts leading from there to the gravity chamber can be closed and the outside openings into the gravity chamber opened. In the best work now being done, 400 square feet of extended surface indirect radiation is provided for each 50-seat room. Rooms being generally 28 by 32 by 12 feet high. Very good results can be obtained by 380 square feet. It is advisable to provide indirect radiators under the floor of the first story corridor and to cover them by a register in the floor, to be used by the pupils as foot warmers and to dry clothing. pipes placed below the clothing racks are serviceable in wet weather for drying the garments.

Corridors should be provided with suitable vent ducts. A register in the floor of the lower rooms and leading to the cold air chamber below is serviceable for rotating the air when the rooms are not in use. This is done by opening the register and closing the fresh air inlet in the cold air chamber and closing the outlet vents from the school rooms. The air is then rotated and a considerable saving of fuel effected. It is advisable to provide a supplementary boiler of sufficient size to heat the steam pipes in the vent ducts when the main boilers are not in use.

In warm weather more heat is required in the vent ducts than in cold weather and the boilers should be piped so either boiler can be used independently of the other on the vent heaters. If a fan is used this supplementary boiler should be of sufficient size to run the fan and also heat the vent ducts. The steam mains should be of ample size and not too much radiation put on one small pipe. Where 400 feet of radiating surface is used for one room, it is advisable to divide it into three sections, say one of 140 and two of 130 feet. This will allow free circulation of the steam, and the use of enough radiation to properly heat the air under the different conditions of the outside temperature.

In many school buildings, the doors leading from the school rooms to the corridors are provided with a center panel of heavy glass, which enables the teachers to see what is passing in the corridors.

The sanitaries should be placed in either a detached annex or well ventilated rooms and ample means provided for flushing. The ventilation should be an exhaust from the room, through the fixtures to a separate vent duct provided with a fan or heat. The air should be drawn into the sanitary room from the outside or from other parts of the building and there should be a strong exhaust in the vent duct.

The practice of forcing air into a sanitary room by the plenum method is open to serious objections, as under certain conditions the air from this room is driven out into other parts of the building, but with the exhaust method this will not happen.

Heating of these rooms should be by direct rather than indirect steam.

When furnaces are used for heating the school rooms, a small boiler is often provided to heat the vent ducts and excellent results are obtained.

The stairways should be of ample width, and winding stairs carefully avoided. When change of direction is required, it should be by means of platform landings.

At least two separate stairways should be provided and located as far apart as practicable. The main door should open out, or both ways, and where vestibules can be provided they prevent rapid cooling in severe weather. Double windows are of great service in cold weather and will more than repay their cost in economy of fuel and comfort of the pupils.

The windows should be of generous proportions and the desks so placed that the pupils will receive the light from the left and rear. The modern patterns of adjustable desks and seats are used, and allow the adjustment of seat and desk to the height of the pupil.

The old-fashioned teacher's platforms are generally omitted and the teacher is provided with a table desk, which may be moved to the most convenient place.

Special attention should be given to the means for preventing the spread of fire and fire stops in the walls, partitions, floors and stairways should always be provided.

Where a water supply is available, a stand-pipe and hose should be provided, and where this can not be done, some chemical apparatus can be used.

The practice of erecting very tall buildings for school purposes is not now considered as good, and most of the new ones are but two stories, with sometimes a hall above for use on special occasions.

In chemical laboratories, special attention should be given to the means of removing gases and odors. A liberal supply of water, illuminating gas, and, where practicable, electric power should be furnished.

In many of the larger buildings, especially in high schools, where one long session is held, a lunch-room is provided, where for a small sum a light lunch can be obtained during recess. The kind, quantity and quality of the articles furnished being subject to the inspection and approval of the school committee.

In some buildings means are furnished by which pupils bringing their own lunches have an opportunity for warming their food, in cold weather, in sheet iron closets provided with steam pipes.

Since bicycles have come into such general use, places have been provided in the basement where the wheels can be kept in safety.

In many new buildings, chemical, physical and biological laboratories, provided with the latest and best kinds of apparatus, rooms for instruction in drawing, typewriting and cooking are to be found. Manual training rooms, where lathes, benches and tools are furnished for the pupils, who are instructed in their use, are frequently found in the basement. Some of the work done in these rooms is of a high grade and shows the advantage the pupils have derived from this source.

Much of the former ornamental work, such as towers and projections, is omitted in modern buildings and the money used for that purpose is now devoted to giving better means of heating, ventilation and sanitation.

Hon, Henry Eikhoff, of Detroit, then read the following paper upon blowers:

BLOWERS AND EXHAUST FANS.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention of Factory Inspectors:

The question of blowers or exhaust fans in connection with polishing or buffing wheels or belts in factories has become so essential that this question can not be overlooked, as it deals with not only the health, but the very lives of the persons that are engaged at this work. As to legislation along these lines, it has varied, as there are no two States or Provinces that have a law alike. The laws, as a rule, give the inspectors the power of ordering a blower or exhaust fan to be erected. But in many cases after the blower or exhaust fan has been set in motion it is discovered that it does not do the work that was expected of it, and as a result it is a disappointment not only to the owner of the factory, but to the employes as well. The evil lies in the method of construction, and there are a very few millwrights that understand the erection of a blower system. I would recommend the following as a uniform law of the different States and Provinces of Canada:

That all persons, companies or corporations operating any factory or workshops where wheels or belts of any description are used, either leather, leather covered, felt, canvas, paper, cotton or wheels or belts rolled or coated with emery or corundum or cotton wheels used as buffs, shall provide the same with exhaust fan or blowers, or similar apparatus, which shall be placed in such a position or manner as to protect the person or persons using the same from the particles of dust produced and caused thereby, and to carry away the dust arising from or thrown off by such wheels or belts while in operation directly to the outside of the building, or to some other receptacle, placed so as to receive and confine such dust, and the same shall be placed in such factory or workshop within three months after this act shall take effect, in the manner and acording to the directions and specifications as herein in this act set forth. It-shall be the duty of any person, company or corporation operating any such factory or workshop, to provide or construct such appliances, apparatus, machinery or other things necessary to carry out the purpose of this act as set forth in the preceding section, as follows:

Each and every wheel shall be fitted with a sheet or cast iron hood or hopper of such form and so applied to such wheel or wheels that the dust or refuse therefrom will fall from such wheels or will be thrown into such hood or hopper by centrifugal force and be carried off by the current of air into a suction pipe attached to the same hood or hopper. Each and every wheel 6 inches or less in diameter shall be provided with a 3-inch suction pipe. Wheels 6 inches to 24 inches in diameter with 4-inch suction pipe. Wheels from 24 inches to 36 inches in diameter with a 5-inch suction pipe, and all wheels larger in diameter than those stated above shall be provided each with a suction pipe not less than 6 inches in diameter. The suction pipe from each wheel so specified must be full size to the main trunk suction pipe, and the said main suction pipe to which the smaller pipes are attached shall in its diameter and capacity be equal to the combined area of such smaller pipes attached to the same and the discharge pipe from the exhaust fan connected with such suction pipe or pipes shall be as large or larger than the suction pipe. It shall be the duty of any person company or corporation operating any such factory or workshop to provide the necessary fans or blowers to be connected with such pipe or pipes, as above set forth, which shall be run at such a rate of speed as will produce a velocity of air in such suction or discharge pipes of at least 9,000 feet per minute, or an equivalent suction or pressure of air equal to raising a column of water not less than 5 inches high in a U-shaped tube. All branch pipes must enter the main trunk pipe at an angle of 45 degrees or less, the main suction or trunk pipes shall be below the polishing or buffing wheels, and as close to the same as possible, and to be either upon the floor or beneath the floor on which the machines are placed to which such wheels are attached. turns or elbows in such pipes must be made with easy, smooth surfaces, having a radius in the throat of not less than two diameters of the pipe on which they are connected.

It shall be the duty of any factory inspector, sheriff, constable, or prosecuting attorney in which any factory or workshop is situated, upon receiving notice in writing signed by any person or persons having knowledge of such facts, accompanied by the sum of $100 as compensation for his

The Factory Law in Pennsylvania is the outcome of the more judicious forms of labor agitation and its outcome will be, not only the temporary comfort, health and safety of the employed, but the education of employers and employes in lines heretofore neglected and so practical that all will be benefited.

In short, there are no laws regulating trade which can be compared in beneficence with those commonly known as the Factory Laws, now sowisely enforced in the great industrial states of the union.

Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, next read the following paper:

Mr. President. Ladies and Gentlemen:

We are approaching the close of a century, the most remarkable in human history; a century characterized by the greatest development in those things that are made for human comfort and the development of the earth's natural resources.

The application of steam for power uses has been perhaps the most stupendous factor in multiplying human comforts, while at the same time, out of the influences which have been called into activity as a result of the use of steam power, we have been brought face to face with some of the perplexing social problems that concern civilization and the happiness of the human family.

Machinery, which has become so important a factor in production, was made possible by steam power. Other forces, such as electricity, compressed air, etc., may supplant steam as steam supplanted water power, but the fact remains that to steam belongs the honor of the great developing power. Since the adoption of the factory system, a direct child of steam power, progress has been most marked. With this development, we have seen some of the social problems multiply and grow more complicated as competition has grown keener in the manufacture of articles of human necessity—comfort and luxury. The inventive genius which has so preeminently distinguished the wonderful century, and our equally wonderful country has played no small part in magnifying the acuteness of the social, industrial problems, the study of which is forced upon us by the nature of our official duties.

Daily, men who have acquired high skill as mechanics, are displaced by machinery, and their earning power diminished, if not totally destroyed, and by reason of their incapacity to adapt themselves to changed condition and new employment, have been forced to join the ranks of common laborers, a field already overcrowded through immigration. Frequently it occurs that the great disparity between the wages formerly obtained and the pittance that he can earn in a new line of employment is so great that he cannot bring himself to accept common labor; the result in such cases is deplorable and ominous, not alone from the new point of social welfare, but politically as well. Having been able to maintain himself and dependents in comfort and earn with a modicum of luxury, the cutting off of income engenders despondency, the mental and in time the physical nature degenerates. The man becomes soured.

morose, embittered with his surroundings and, unconsciously, perhaps, but not the less certainly, he arrays himself against his fellow men, society and the government under which he lives. If he has a little home which is not entirely his own, which represents years of industry and self sacrifice, and which he had hoped would shield him and his from the vicissitudes of age, and it is endangered, perhaps lost, the embitterment is the most intense. In my experience, such a change of condition in the individual man is the most frequent, as it is the most potent influence which breeds sentiments of social degeneration and the adoption of the doctrines of anarchy. Another factor which has become momentous to the perpetuity of our institutions, social stability and moral health is the displacement of adult male labor by child and female labor. Pennsylvania is a manufacturing and mining State, and from the long years the State has been developing its great material wealth, we perhaps find the result of these social and industrial evolutions more fully developed than most others.

Boys of 12 years of age by law are permitted to work in our mines. Boys and girls of 13 are permitted to work in the great commercial marts and factories as our industries combine textile manufacture as well as tron and steel and its allied branches.

Pennsylvania is perhaps one of the best states in which to observe and to estimate the results of these social, economic developments. Competition in business and the tremendous rivalry of competitors has been a potential factor in the displacement of male by female and child labor. It frequently happens that daughters, sisters, and in many cases, wives, are employed at a pittance paid the father or husband, and he who was the willing support of the household is forced to tramp the streets in idleness. The competition of females in employment formerly, entirely and indisputably allotted to males has been most remarkable, and the effects, while difficult to estimate, so far as my observation goes, are far from what can be desired. I find from the report of the census of 1890, of the total number employed in gainful occupation, the increase of females was large. In 1870, the first census year, sex divisions were noted; the number of females, 16 years of age and over, employed, was 14.68 per cent.; this had increased to 15.96 per cent. in 1880, and 18.94 per cent. in 1890. In 1870 the number of children between 10 and 15 years employed in industrial pursuits was 13.19 per cent. In 1880, 16.82 per cent., and in 1890 the whole number of children from 10 to 14 years was 7,033,509, of which total number in the population, 603,013, or 8.57 per cent. of the whole number of that age, were employed. Of those 15 years old, Hon. Carl D. Wright estimates 257,773 were employed, making a total of juvenile workers under 16 years of age, 860,786, or 10.34 per cent. of the entire population of the country between the ages noted. Singularly, too, the census figures show that the number of male juvenile workers decreased and the females increased. The eleventh annual report of the commissioner of labor for 1895 and 1896 of work and wages for men, women and children, the reason given by employers for the employment of women and girls in preference to men and boys by states and industries, very clearly demonstrates why this change has taken place—cheaper labor. What effect the influence of factory or store life has or may have on these girls is a question which belongs more properly to the physiologist, but I cannot refrain from making a few observations. We all know that the years from 10 to 14 are the most critical from a physical standpoint in the life of woman. The effect of standing on the feet for hours and the exhaustion from the heated, often vitiated atmosphere, and frequently a nervous strain, due to the whirl and buzz of machinery, cannot but bring about an effect which must tell with power on future generations. Every person, at least every delegate, will agree with the statement that the laws enacted by the several states to protect men, women and children in manufacturing and mercantile industries, and inspectors to enforce the same, has resulted in bringing about many needed reforms, and with the trend of public sentiment in favor of a shorter work day and a higher standard of education, the social and economic questions will no doubt be better understood and the remedy properly applied. It is marvelous to contemplate the progress made in Pennsylvania since 1824, when Mr. O'Neil, from Philadelphia, member of the House of Representatives, made the following motion: "That a committee be appointed to inquire into the expediency of requiring the proprietors of manufacturing establishments who employ children under the age of 12 years, to provide for them the means of instruction at least two hours each day in the rudiments of an English education."

The committee was appointed, and on March 6th reported a bill entitled "An act providing for the education of children employed in manufacturing establishments," but was never acted upon by the House of Represen-The subject of education for factory children was again taken up in 1827, on the 11th day of December. Mr. Richards, of Philadelphia, chairman of committee of domestic manufactures, offered the following: "That the committee on domestic manufactures be instructed to inquire into the expediency of providing by law for the education of children employed in cotton, woolen and other manufactures." The resolution was adopted, and the following bill was reported by Mr. Richards: "An act providing for the education of children employed in manufactories, and also to ascertain the extent and increase of said manufactures of the commonwealth." The provisions of this bill were that from and after January 1, 1830, "It shall not be lawful for any cotton or woolen manufacturer to employ in his factory any minor between the age of 12 and 18 years, unless said minor or his, her or their parent or guardian shall produce a certificate signed by a respectable schoolmaster or two respectable citizens of the county, that the said minor can read and write the English, German or some other modern language, or unless said manufacturer would provide for the instruction of said minor until the provisions of this act are complied with." The enforcement of this law was left with the assessors who were to inspect the factories of their district and report all violations. The assessors were also to send in each year to the county commissioner a list of the cotton and woolen factories in his district with the number of spindles and looms. If this bill could have been passed, Pennsylvania would have had the honor of ante-dating England by five years in the matter of factory inspection. For a number of years past, the general assembly of Pennsylvania never meets but what new laws are enacted and old ones amended, protecting those who work in the mines, mills, shops and manufacturing establishments of the State. The session of the Legislature which adjourned July 1st, considered and passed a number of laws in the interest of the working men, women and children. Three bills, extending the scope and work of the factory department, requiring children under 16 years of age to read and write the English language before they can be employed, creating a mining department, limiting the hours of labor to eight per day on State and municipal work, by contract or A number of other laws were on the same line. With the development of education, men become more liberal in their views, and so goes public opinion, and wholesome legislation is the result. To the free school system, adopted in Pennsylvania in 1834, is largely due the efforts and success of factory legislation. The amount of money appropriated by the State in support of the public schools, since its adoption, is almost $65,-000,000. The amount has grown from $75,000 the first year, to $5,500,000 for the year 1897, and the amount expended last year for the support of public schools in our State was about $20,000,000. It requires the service of 138 superintendents, 26,902 teachers (17,968 of these being females). With that vast army of public instructors, the Compulsory Education Law, the laws prohibiting the employment of children under the age of 16 years who can not read and write the English language, the facilities for educating the children, not only in Pennsylvania, but every other State and Territory in the Union, are so well provided for that no child, rich or poor, needs to be raised in ignorance, or without at least the rudiments of a common school education. With a higher standard of education, intelligence will predominate in solving the social and economic questions in advancing a nobler and better civilization, not only in America, but throughout the entire world.

Mr. John E. Griffin, of Boston, read the following paper on

THE MASSACHUSETTS LAW REGULATING THE SWEATING SYSTEM.

The justice of the principles embodied in the existing laws of the several States passed for the purpose of regulating the evils of the sweating system is everywhere conceded, and abundant evidence of the usefulness and importance of these laws has been supplied from the many papers on this subject that have from year to year been read at these conventions and discussed. I have used the word regulation, because as yet none of these laws have or can eradicate the system. When the statute in Massachusetts was first enacted it was more or less experimental, and it was hardly expected to supply a complete and adequate system for its suppression, and now, after six years of its enforcement, while there is no question but what this law has a permanent place in our legislation, and its wholesome effects are manifest and have justified its enactment, yet it is apparent that all the desired reforms have not been accomplished. Also, in view of the judicial interpretation which some provisions of this law have received and the defects disclosed by the efforts made for its enforcement, its revision and amendment appearant of necessary, to the end that it may more effectually reach the evils in thisms to be corrected. As some of these defects exist in the laws of States other than Massachusetts a brief reference to them may be important to the inspectors who are called upon to enforce them. A portion of the Massachusetts statute reads: "Whenever any house, room or place used as a dwelling, is also used for the purpose of carrying on any process of making, altering, repairing or finishing (for sale) any ready made coats, vests, trousers, overcoats or any wearing apparel of any description wnatsoever (intended for sale), it shall within the meaning of this act be deemed a workshop." The words, for sale and intended for sale, both used in this section are the main point While not a probable nor plausible contention, still it could be claimed that the goods were made up to be given away or otherwise disposed of without bartering, and it would be a most difficult thing for an inspector to prove any intention upon the part of the maker or merchant for whom they were made of selling them. However ridiculous this must seem, it has been used against the government, by counsel for the defense who refused to submit evidence of any kind involving the introduction of testimony, except to stand upon this point as a question of common law. His point was sustained by the court, who finished his remarks by stating, that should the government prove its case beyond preadventure the law leaves us in doubt, as we have no means of knowing that the goods are intended for sale. I believe, with the exception of Pennsylvania, you will find those words in one form or another, in the statutes of the other states. A better remedy for this defect cannot be supplied than that of Chief Wade's, embodied in his annual report as follows: In what is known as the Liquor Law, in the earliest prosecutions there were considerable successful evasions of the statute as respected sales of liquor. Unless money was actually seen to be passed upon the delivery of liquor, and all evidence of a complete sale and delivery was presented at the trial, the defense that the transaction was not a sale of liquor within the meaning of the law, but that it was quite as probable that it was a gift, prevailed in many cases. The law was rapidly being brought into disrepute, and the ends of justice defeated. After considerable experience of that sort in our courts the Legislature amended the law so that delivery of the liquor in such cases was "prima facie" evidence of a sale, and that placed the burden of proof where it belonged. The defendant may show, if he can, that the delivery of the liquor was a gift, and the prosecution is therefore no longer required to prove that it was a sale; except, of course, that it may offer testimony tending to show a sale, in rebuttal of that given by the defense. Now, why should the prosecution in these so-called tenement-house clothing cases be required to prove that the garments in question are "intended for sale?" 'Why should it not be "prima facie" evidence of such, if these articles of waring apparel so found are proven to be the property of the individual, firm or contractor delivering them to the occupants of the inspected place. I lat violation of private rights would there be, what hardships imposed upon any party, if the words "intended for sale" were stricken from the law? Another feature of this section is the word "ready made." While it no doubt may be properly used as a trade expression, as a distinction from "custom made," it is very faulty in its literary construction, as ready-made clothing cannot be made, and the use of the word will not hold in law. Another part of this section reads: "And every person so occupying or having control of any such workshop shall, within fourteen days from the time of beginning work in such workshop, notify the chief of the district police, or the special inspector appointed for that purpose, of the location of such workshop, the nature of the work carried on, and the number of persons therein employed. Now, to prove a violation of this part of the section it must be clearly shown that work has been performed there for fourteen consecutive days. If a party controlling such a workshop should work ten days, for instance, and discontinue for one day, and then recommence work, he could not be convicted of a violation of the statute, and might, under that method, continue for an indefinite time without sending any notice. It also apparently allows the continuance of such a tenementhouse workshop (which was never the intent of the law), provided that all goods made therein are tagged tenement-made. While the necessity of tagging the goods has been sufficient to abolish such workshops where the goods of any large or honorable clothing firm was being made, it might not deter many of the smaller and unscrupulous ones, who cater to a class of trade that cares not how or where the clothing is made, provided it is only sold cheap enough. This part of the law could be entirely dispensed with, without any friction to any but the tenement-house sweater. No doubt the intention of the Legislature and the friends of the law in framing it, was to abolish all tenement-house work except that done by private families, and therefore it would be more explicit if, instead of saying, "Whenever any house, room or place used as a dwelling is also used for the purpose of making," etc., it said positively, "That no house, room or place used as a dwelling," etc., shall be used to make clothing except by private families or members thereof. In pointing out these defects in the Massachusetts law, do not for a moment think that it is inferior to the laws of other States. With all the faults that it may contain it stands superior to all in this one respect: It effectually deals with the most dangerous, degrading and menacing evil of the sweating system, while as yet no other State law does, viz., private families making wearing apparel in their homes without any restriction. The danger to the public from this source is tenfold as compared to the danger from workshops. It will not be necessary for me to repeat the frightful and disgusting details, so oft exposed at these conventions and spread over the country by the press, pulpit and organizations of labor directly affected, where mothers, living in apartments not fit to house animals, keep vigil at the sick bed of their beloved child or children, suffering with diphtheria, scarlet fever or other contagious and infectious diseases, meanwhile stitching away on clothing to be worn by the public, in order that the miserable pittance that they receive for their labor may partly supply nourishment and medicine so necessary to them, and all the time perfectly ignorant of the fact that they are endangering the lives and health of others. Through the license section of the law, while we do not claim perfection and entire protection against this evil (for any law can be violated), yet we do claim that we have reduced this danger to a minimum. You inspectors of the various States whose duties pertain to this question must realize and experience this great deficiency in your law, and while it may be said that the inspector is appointed not to make laws, but only to enforce them, yet it must be conceded that he, by the very nature of his business, can best discover the weakness of the law. Therefore, any recommendations that he submits should at least be carefully considered. and when any law proves ineffective, not because of any lack of disposition or attempt to enforce it, but simply because the law itself, as interpreted by the courts, not reach the difficulty, then, if its insufficiencies can be remedied by further legislation, it should be done. My experience attending these conventions has taught me to believe that their primary object is to educate each other, by comparison of the methods respectively employed in enforcing the various laws under our control, introducing all improvements which may have been called to our attention, showing defects wherever they exist, thereby enabling us to more intelligently study and discharge the duties imposed upon us. We have here from year to year new methods of ventilation, improved devices for guarding machinery, better protection to human life in cases of fire, etc., why then should not the same principle apply to the sweating system. Instead of confining ourselves entirely to the disgusting details connected with it, we should endeavor by a careful analysis of the various enactments to bring out their weak points and strengthen them. Again, the burden of assuring to the public protection from disease in wearing apparel that they purchase and wear, should not solely rest upon the State, but should be shared by the merchants and manufacturers dealing therein. This can be only accomplished by stringent and just laws, dividing the responsibility.

If all clothing dealers and manufacturers were prohibited from giving clothing to be made in any place, either shop or tenement, unless the persons controlling such shops first secured a certificate from the State clearly stating that it was a proper and sanitary place to manufacture such clothing, they would be forced to interest themselves in such shops. a law could not find opposition or impose any hardship upon any honest dealer or manufacturer, instead, it would be a protection to him from unscrupulous contractors and a guarantee that his clothing was made under healthful and sanitary conditions. Such a certificate could be so framed as to positively prevent any and all violations of the factory laws, and would more surely and easily reach the evils now aimed at by the present laws. There is another distressing incident that has forcibly manifested itself during the past two years, to which I shall as briefly as possi-One is the increasing decampment of contractors with the wages of their employes. The clothing dealer makes the best contract that he can with the one who engages to do his work, and, as the manner in which this contract is fulfilled is something which does not pass under his eye, he does not have, as he otherwise might, appeals made to his sense of humanity, that would lead him to check the dishonesty which is practised upon the poor unfortunate victims who make his clothing. It is a very easy matter for a dishonest contractor to divert the work of another to himself by underbidding him, and when he finds, after exacting an amount of work from his help that reaches the limit of human endurance, that he can not make a profit, he will, by one excuse or another, hold back from week to week a large part of the wages due them until it reaches a considerable amount. Then, on securing payment from the clothing merchant, for several lots of work returned, he receives another lot and leaves for parts unknown. His help, whose wages, if received in full, would no more than barely sustain life, are left in want and suffering, without any redress. This could be obviated by the dealers requiring a sufficient bond from their contractors to provide against such cases, or a law might be enacted allowing labor to place a lien on the clothing left in their possession, as is now done in the erection of buildings. Public attention should be called to this feature through the agency of the press and organizations directly affected.

In closing I desire to bring your attention to the importations from one State to another of clothing that has been made in States where no law exists regulating its manufacture. The attention of Congress has been frequently drawn to this fact, and the danger of its continued toleration pointed out. Without now repeating these details I can not refrain from again earnestly presenting the necessity of some national law to oppose a system shown by experience to be fraught with the gravest peril and opposed to every rule of justice or humanity.

Mr. W. J. Neely, of New York, then read the following paper on SWEAT SHOPS.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

The topic I am to ask your attention to for a few minutes is one which is almost threadbare. Scarcely a single new idea would seem possible, so thoroughly hackneyed has it become, both from the theoretical and the sanitary point of view. "Sweating and sweaters," however, from the practical point of view of a factory inspector, presents so many new difficulties and aspects that one may forget, overlook, and learn much from every day's experience. Making no attempt, therefore, at statistical or merely personal details, but speaking as a practical man to practical people, I will take the liberty of making some general observations on this question.

In that magnificent wave of sentiment for justice and brotherhood—the new labor movement that swept over America from 1882 to 1886, which has scarcely been equalled in any other country or any other epoch, and has not been, we regret to say, equaled among ourselves since—three great features stand out boldly, which are useful and interesting to keep in mind.

The (so called) "unskilled" worker had the "gospel preached to him" as he never had before, and he was organized by the thousands, and so swiftly that defeat and disappointment followed the glow and flush of easy victory.

Never before (and this at least remains with us, and can not be lost again, let us hope) were the helpless women and children, toilers of our congested cities, played before society as claimants for its justice and generosity so prominently, and "equal pay for equal work" reiterated so constantly that it rings in our ears even now.

The rights of the young for protection from the worst evils of our competitive system, at the early years of character and body-building, was brought home to the conscience of the public with such force that, added to the demands for protection to the home and womanhood of our country from industrial oppression, the great masses of the newly awakened labor forces were able to turn, with some hope, from the many defeats they had suffered to the remedies they might obtain by securing better laws in their interests.

Thus the fact of the dominance of the (so called) unskilled worker, the most helpless worker from an economic point of view, is the first that stands out in that interesting epoch; and the second fact is the appeal to the law; while the third is the cosmopolitan harmony and sympathy of the labor movement.

And if we mention the marvelous work of labor organizations it is not for the purpose of invidious distinction, but simply to indicate the decisive factors in the birth of over 24 bureaus of labor statistics, and a dozen factory inspection departments, in as many States, all of which followed in the 10 years succeeding the movement of 1882. Before that date there were only one factory department (Massachusetts) and seven bureaus of labor statistics in the United States, while there are now 29 States having factory departments, 31 States having bureaus of labor statistics and 36 States prohibiting child labor. There is no escape from the significance of these facts, nor from this other fact, that over 600 distinct legislative acts in the interests of labor have been passed since 1882.

Naturally enough, New York (and especially the city) was the "storm center" of the East, because of the fact that it is the first and most attractive "dumping ground" for the hordes of European surplus labor, and the Mecca of the rural youth of the entire East and Middle States, and many of the West, who have ambitions larger than the plain old homestead. According to statistics, New York city has over 20 times the number of immigrants recorded annually there than at any other port of entry in the United States. But, notwithstanding that fact, and the still more unfortunate fact that the geographical situation of the city alone compels overcrowding and congestion of population, for we are worse than China, or the much-talked-of "slums" in the east end of London, still we have reduced our evil of child labor to merely 1 1-2 per cent. of the working population, placing us ahead of 40 States and only behind half a dozen agricultural States in the West and Northwest.

Public opinion has been so thoroughly settled into conviction on several aspects of these social problems that good citizens of all classes have taken up the work that had its birth in the great labor movement of the last decade. The Reinhard investigation committee of March, 1895, preceded by the report of the tenement-house commission, was one of the great advance steps. Its recommendations were embodied in amendments to the Factory Law, and have given us two new weapons against this evil of "sweating."

The Factory.—Our department now acts in close co-operation with the board of education, or the principal of the public school, nearest to the case of violation of the law as affecting the age of young victims of the sweating system, and consequently employers now find it much cheaper to obey than to fight the law as at present administered.

Our new power in being able to attack the landlord is a most powerful agent in preventing bad sanitary conditions. As a matter of fact, there is a vast improvement in this respect, as was proved by investigating the complaints made during the recent tailors' strike in New York city. Mighty per cent. of these complaints were found groundless. If in times of ordinary occupation the workers of these trades were as willing to expose the violations of the law as they are during a strike, the inspector's duties would be less onerous and more effective. But it will be easily seen that when we can bring our pressure to bear upon the man who provides the roof for the sweating, that he can most effectually compel the sweaters under his roof to keep the law. This is more humane, as well as effective, and does not tempt so many to screen the violators of the law from motives of pity, as was so often the case when only the immediate contractor, who employed the wretched workers, would be singled out for punishment.

But the right to "tag" the goods, when clothing is made under improper, illegal or suspected conditions, is a most potent power. This, joined to the responsibility of the landlord, has worked almost a revolution in the handling of this problem in our State. Both these methods strike at the strongest, not the weakest parties, to the conspiracy to violate the law, or evade it. This "tag" enables us to meet a great evil, which increased the difficulties of our department in this State after Massachusetts adopted a similar method. It was so effective in Massachusetts that the big Boston sweaters immediately changed the base of their operations to the State of New York, and our department found an enormous business taking root in our State, so as to defeat the improvement of the law in Massachusetts. Nothing could illustrate better how necessary it is to have close communication between the factory departments of the various States.

By recent provisions in the law, dressmaking and places for making all kinds of female apparel, have been brought under the regulation of our department. The close connection of sham "dressmaking" establishments with the vice of prostitution among the dwellings of the poor, the last and worst feature of that social evil, will be at once clearly seen. The importance of this new power can not be overestimated. The law was constantly violated in the most disgraceful and flagrant manner, one instance coming to our notice where 105 human beings were huddled together in a space which, according to the Factory Law, no more than forty people could be employed therein, while the sanitary conditions were far below the standard of the average sweatshop. But now, even the private homes are constantly inspected, for it is the "home work" which furnishes the best opportunity to evade the law and the inspector. But a most striking improvement, both from a moral as well as a sanitary point of view can be reported in this respect.

Perhaps one of the simplest improvements in the law may yet produce greater moral good than more drastic and direct provisions could have obtained, namely: the compulsory lighting of stairways and hallways leading to workrooms and sweatshops and buildings in which any such places exist. Women and young girls have been outraged, so far as modesty is concerned, if we may not go further and take stronger ground, by the presence of this unnecessary darkness in these approaches to sweatshops; and it needs no remarks here to explain how easy the barriers to the modesty of young girls may be steadily broken down by neglect of this kind, which has so long prevailed. One of the greatest municipal improvements boasted of by the city of Glasgow, was the compulsory lighting of dark hallways, stairs and "closes," as they call them in Scotland. They were lighted at the expenses of the landlords, and almost reduced the necessity of the police force by 50 per cent. We may fairly hope for good results from the more general application of the same principle.

But it can be seen how much like "rat-catching" the functions of a factory inspector in a city like New York must be. No sooner do you plug up one hole than you find another hole which permits escape. And our work so much depends upon the effectiveness of the health department and the bureau of 'mmigration that more power is still necessary for the effective regulation of the evils of "sweating."

The Legislature of 1896, in passing the "Mercantile Bill," a measure protecting women workers in stores, under the care of the health board, did a magnificent piece of work, resulting from the Reinhard investigation, but it took over five years to get the main provisions of that bill accepted. Public agitation year after year was deteated when it approached the Legislature, so powerful was the interest that supposed themselves threatened in that case; and so it is with every law that curbs cupidity or clogs the wheels of money-making.

And so with the new problem in "sweating." The cupidity of greedy Italians, who make more money than ever the "padrones" did out of their ignorant imported fetlow-countrymen, is responsible for worse evils than ever existed under the Jewish phase of that problem. Comparatively speaking, the Jewish sweating is humane, and that is saying a good deal; but we have to thank our insane ideas about immigration for a worse phase now growing up. To be sure, the Italian sweaters are not so filthy, and there are few or no padrones-but, all the same, those Italians already in the clothing business as sweaters, have graduated from the garbage heaps, the ash barrel and the rag cellar, and, having constitutions of iron, work harder than Jews, eat less, or more cheaply, for they certainly beat the Jews at cheap living, and when presenting themselves to claim their unfortunate relatives, or pretended relatives, and promising they will keep them from being a charge upon the public, seem to be able to blind the officials of the immigration department. Beyond question, the Italian sweater is a much greater industrial enemy to the growth of a proper American standard of living among the unskilled workers than ever the Jew was, and the end is not yet. Are we sure that in the Italian labor even we have reached bottom? Are there not vast fields of foreign labor to be yet exploited, and if our present policy is sound, we have before us an everlasting problem of sweeping back new social evils which follow the ever-coming tides of lower and lower classes of labor every generation.

Diphtheria and death are found lurking every day, as they always must, and as they always have been, in the slums of such a city as New York. To say that Italian sweaters are cleaner than Jews is only a relative and comparative statement. Danger to health and life are not, therefore, prevented. We find cases every day which, if not checked, would lead to outbreaks of pestilence. We must insist again, therefore, that New York city is worse, in its almost necessary conditions, than any city in our own State, as well as any other State, and for that reason, more power and stricter legal protection must be placed within the reach of the factory department than has been granted even by our last Legislature, great as that was. It is not intended by this statement to convey the idea that there is no sweating so bad anywhere as in New York, but that our physical problem of dwellings for the poor and the workers, the narrow strip of land which limits our expansion geographically, and the awful centralization of competition of which we are the victims, added, as already urged, to the laxity in our immigration laws, make New York city the scape-goat 6.e United States, so far as bad conditions leading to sweating in its worst forms is concerned. It is only in justice to ourselves that we must keep these latter points in mind during any discussion of this question.

'We are apt to forget that nowhere in the world is there known such a monstrosity in the way of human habitation as the New York "doubledecker," five or six stories high, six rooms through from front to back, only the front having light and air, a pitch-dark stairway (naturally filthy) running up the center from basement to roof, having behind it a rear tenement of similar character blocking out the light, with an air space between of ten feet. Fancy, as I found the other day, eight sweat shops on four floors of such a monument of unsanitary ingenuity, and then place in charge a janitor paid to lie and deceive by the sweaters, so as to fool the inspectors both of the health board and the factory department, giving warning from front house to back, and floor to floor, to clear out the children and cover up the law-breaking, and then you may understand why a New York Factory Inspector must have the abilities of the fabled French detectives in the popular novels. Mere physical space is so valuable in New York city that it pays in a commercial sense to bribe house agents and janitors and the notary public to make out false certificates for children below legal age, many of whom were convicted and removed according to law, as the result of the Reinhard investigation; and not only so, but in such places there seems such a network of conspiracy between the ignorant victims even and the wretched neighbors, that the ingenuity of the inspector is taxed to the utmost. You have to place guards on each roof of front and back houses, while others watch in front and back doorways on two streets and the small yard between. It is the nearest thing to storming a mediaeval castle that I know of. Many a time we find out from the windows of the elevated railroad cars swiftly passing by the windows in these crowded quarters, dens of law-breaking which have escaped every other mode of detection. We have been forced to handle the child problem in these sweat shops promptly and severely. Our new system of working does not permit any time being wasted hunting for a certificate when we find a child working without one. We pack him right off home, and allow no delay. The result is that the employer becomes more careful, and takes all the trouble in these preliminaries instead of shifting it off on the inspector. More often he gets tired fooling with children and taking chances with the law, which leads to employing adult labor. No delay in any respect can be allowed, so that not only honesty but shrewdness and tact and tireless energy must characterize the successful factory inspector in this line of work.

In order to battle with these conditions with our limited powers we are compelled to employ all sorts of absurd and undignified methods of detection, and our work is frustrated, and even when successful, must be repeated time and time again. There are, therefore, a few recommendations which seem absolutely necessary to be enacted into law to meet/the phases of this great evil which experience shows every day to be capable of changing its form and color like the chameleon.

A minor point in appearance, but of vital sanitary importance, would be the prohibition of Jewish schools in any building where sweat shop work is carried on. This is a vast source of danger—first to clothing and workers in the contractors' shops, from any infection brought by the children from their homes; second, from the sweat shop clothing to the children, back to their crowded homes; and third, to prevent the too easy graduation of the children as early victims of the sweat shop labor world. But fourth, hallways, closets and stairways can not be kept clean where these schools are permitted.

And now perhaps the most drastic of all propositions must be made, viz.: the prohibition of all manufacturing whatever in tenement houses. There will be objections, of course, but there always have been and will be; but the "police power," under which the whole line of factory and industrial and sanitary legislation has been enacted, is quite broad enough for this further extension of authority in the name of public health and social safety. There can be no real genuine enforcement of the law, as now admitted to be necessary, while any such work is permitted in the crowded dwellings of the poor. But in the meantime, a great improvement could be made by following the policy of "prevention" instead of cure, by making an amendment to the factory act compelling firms giving out stock to be made up, to first have a certificate from the factory department that the place of manufacture designated is all safe and sound, empowering the inspector, upon discovery of any goods made in violation of the law, to confiscate all such, the proceeds from the sale of which to be used for the purpose of more effectively enforcing the Factory Law. This would reduce the whole problem of detection to a minimum and save these firms and landlords more than they fear they would lose, simply by taking the whole matter in time.

And last, but not least, the time has come to give effect to the growing conviction in the national mind, that we must meet this and some other serious problems, right at the gates of entry to this great republic. Vigorous restriction of immigration, in some way, must be tried, for it is folly to say that, by adding hundreds of skilled mechanics to our population by every steamer that crosses the ocean, while thousands of men, already starving and scrambling for inadequate employment in these same crafts, are hungry and destitute, we are not making them liable to be a "public charge." They must be, and are being, crushed into the ranks of unskilled and over-crowded occupations. Just as truly as the poor wretch, without a cent, or a friend to pretend that he will "see that he does not become a public charge," and who is sent back to whence he came, is a menace to our interests, so are these armies of surplus labor. It is, of course. impossible to argue this point fully, but the simple statement of the idea is necessary and must be made, being profoundly true, when viewed from the point of view of a factory inspector standing at this, the greatest of all gates of immigration.

D. J. Hanlon, of New York, read the following paper on BAKESHOPS.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

The benefits of the official inspection of bakeshops are now generally acknowledged. When, over two years ago, the State of New York enacted the first law in this direction, there was the usual outcry against paternalism, interference with vested rights, and the dangers of extreme governmentalism. This cry naturally came from those who had reason to fear the new departure, who defied public rights, comfort, health and decency, and insisted upon continuing their ill and health endangering methods in baking the peoples' food. The exposures of statisticians and inspectors were denounced as exaggerations, and in many quarters people refused to believe the awful facts that the investigators had established, and filthy and unsanitary bakeshops were not without their sympathizers.

The first paper read before the convention two years ago, of necessity, was in the nature of a defense and justification of the new departure in the legislation of the State of New York, and dealt principally with the effects of these bad conditions on the journeymen bakers, the general public, and the objects sought through the law to afford relief. The picture then painted was so repulsive that a number of our delegates were loth to believe that anything like it existed in their respective States. New York city, of whose bakeshops the aforesaid paper dealt with almost exclusively, was thought to be in an exceptionable condition conducive to the growth of filthy bakeries, and poor downtrodden bakers to be found no place but in New York. Few were ready to accept the conditions in New York as an indicator of those of the entire country. These doubts and criticisms have since been answered more eloquently than I could have done in Providence. In New Jersey, Ohio, Massachusetts, Maryland, Minnesota, Ontario, Can., Pennsylvania and Connecticut the matter was vented and investigated, resulting in the passage of bakery inspection laws in every one of these States, and this in some of them in spite of the greatest efforts of interested parties to defeat the people who wanted clean and wholesome bakeshops, a better grade of bakers and a higher class of bread. The daily press in every one of these States, after being satisfied that the claims of bakeshop sanitation workers were true, without a single exception, supported the bills. Under the circumstances, it was not to be wondered at, that while many employing bakers bore a deep grudge against this interference with their so-called freedom of running their shops and treating their employes as they pleased, they generally complied with the law without serious opposition, "for there is no voice so strong as the voice of the people," therefore the conditions that have existed have changed, and where the provisions of the law are once complied with, and the first expense of renovation is overcome, it has been found that the boss baker is the very best friend and advocate of the law, whose only anxiety is that his colleague (the other fellow having a bakery near his) be also brought in line, so that the public may soon become convinced that the bakery business has underwent a change, that filth and inhumanity in bakeshops has disappeared, and has made room for modern methods and requirements.

In 1896 the Bakery Law of the State of New York was amended in some important particulars, all looking to the better ventilation of the shops: this was the result of the difficulties encountered in the work of the previous year, to keep a low cellinged basement bakeshop (without sufficient airspace, windows, or ventilating pipes) in a proper, clean and wholesome condition. These new amendments remedied those evils by provisions for additional windows and ventilating pipes and a minimum heigth of eight feet for all bakeshops. These provisions have been enforced with great rigor, and have afforded a much long needed relief to the men, while the atmosphere in the shops has become sufficiently clear to warrant their use for the production of bread. So far, over 900 shops alone in the city of New York have been equipped with ventilating pipes and hoods above the oven doors, to carry off the health-endangering coal gas which escapes from the oven; also ventilating pipes and windows to afford a better circulation of fresh air. Over 400 shops, formerly from but five and a half to seven feet in height (veritable hotbeds of diseased · men and bread), have increased their height to the required eight feet or more, and this in spite of difficulties which at first seemed unsurmountable: in many places solid rock was struck as soon as the spade entered the ground; in others the foundation walls were not deep enough to permit the diggers to reach a sufficient depth to make the shop eight feet; and in others the tide water from the East and North rivers would force itself to the surface, a very formidable injunction to further progress in the work of deepening the basements. Where these obstacles arose, ventilation was sought through the use of airshafts, additional windows or ventilating pipes, and in most instances they served as a sufficient substitute for the full eight-feet height of the basement. Taking all in all, the eight-foot height clause in the law has proven a most radical measure, compliance with which always entails a heavy expense and hardship to the boss baker who, during the days when the work of deepening the shop is going on, is greatly hampered if not prevented to properly conduct his business. As a result, bakers who are building, leasing or buying a bakeshop now make it their business to ascertain the exact provisions of the law, and insist upon a compliance with every one of them, and particularly the eight-foot height section, before closing the bargain with the owner, agent or lessee, as the case may be. The opening or reopening of the filthy and unsanitary bakeshops of old is now a matter of the past. Every new shop and every old one, when reopened for business, is now equipped with the means of ventilation to secure cleanliness and wholesomeness in the production of the bread of the people. In former years a baker, when purchasing or leasing a bakery, paid no attention to the shop as long as the store was satisfactory; to-day his first thought is of the shop, the law and the inspection; and in running over the advertising columns of our great dailies, we invariably notice that the offer of bakeries for sale is accompanied with a statement that the shop is in a lawful condition, ventilated and of the legal height. Another of the notable achievements of the law is the abolition of boy labor in bakeries operated at night. The law prohibits the employment of boys under 18 years of age between the hours of 9 p. m. and 6. a. m. This provision is enforced rigorously, and as a result the child in the night shops has become a rare article. A number of prosecutions had to be instituted to enforce this rule, but we are glad to state that the courts have been prompt in their favorable disposal of such cases. In glancing over the want columns of the World, Journal and the Staats Zeitung, where formerly an average of fifty boys for bakeries were wanted almost daily, we find a total absence of these advertisements. The bakers know that the old time system of filling their shops with cheap working boys is condemned, and where help is wanted men must be employed in their places. Another noteworthy effect of the law is the fast disappearance of the system of boarding and lodging with the employers. The prohibition of sleeping in the basements or in rooms directly connected with the shop, or in rooms not up to the sanitary standard, if on the same floor with the bakery, has forced many to abolish this system, and to pay their help wages sufficient to board and lodge wherever they please. Thus one of the strongest pillars of what is commonly known as the old-time bakeshop slavery, when the baker was on the same level with the employer's domestic animals, and practically nothing more than a menial servant, is fast crumbling away, and with the co-operation of the organized journeymen bakers, the time may not be distant when this relic of the old family relations between the boss and the journeyman baker will be no more. This change, like every one secured through the law, will be profitable to both the baker and consumer, for an unkempt, unwashed, and drowsy baker arising from his lair to plunge into the dough without further preliminaries such as dressing decently and cleaning his person (which he would have to do were he to walk to his shop from his residence or hotel) being hardly a proper person to knead, mould and bake our daily bread.

The frequent lime washing or painting of the bakeshops is secured without much difficulty, and as a consequence there is a notable absence of the numerous families of cockroaches, water bugs, and other insects in places where they formerly abounded in myriads. It is gratifying to be able to state that all of these desirable changes, thanks to the popularity of the inspection, have been effected without much friction with landlords and boss bakers, the former in most instances being willing or obliged by covenant of their lease to shoulder the greater part of the expense. As to the boss bakers, a two years' trial has proven conclusively that their one-time fear that the law would operate solely in the interest of the big to the detriment of the small baker was ungrounded. But few bakeries have gone out of existence, and those few must attribute their demise to reasons other than the Bakeshop Law. In view of this fact, it is not to be wondered that the attitude of many employers has changed, and where a boss baker now has a clean and wholesome shop, he is (as before mentioned) anxious that his colleagues in the neighborhood shall be obliged to do the same, and thus remove the impression still more or less prevalent that the baking business is not conducted in conformity with the laws of health and cleanliness. This attitude is laudable indeed, and it is to be hoped that soon it will become general among the master bakers, so that the agitation for sanitary bakeshops which is still in the public mind, may make room for a feeling of security that the product of the bakery is made under fair conditions, and that it may grace the table of the most fastidious as well as the poor and lowly. The sanitary certificate now issued by the department will then be sought even more eagerly than now, and indeed there can be no good reason advanced why it should not ornament the window of every bakery as a permanent inducement to the public to consume bakeshop-made goods rather than go through the unprofitable trouble of home baking. Thus, while the employers as fairly alive to the requirements and the objects of the law, the journeymen on the other hand are quite frequently found indifferent and careless. It is the journeymen in whose interest, almost exclusively, some of the provisions have been enacted, provisions such as the ten-hour workday, and yet he will not arouse from his apathy and co-operate with the department to have them enforced. Many have been found who even aid the employers in evading that provision of the law. They will make false statements deliberately, and will refuse to file affidavits as to the hours they are employed in excess of the legal limit. Under these circumstances the enforcement of the Ten-hour Law has become very difficult, if not impossible. Therefore it will rest with the journeymen bakers themselves to overcome this difficulty by a more efficient organization, and the guarantee to employes of the protection of the organization in the event of their persecution by employers for aiding the enforcement of the Ten-hour Law. This indifference, if not cowardly, attitude of the operative is easily explained when we take into consideration the drudgery and system of work in these bakeshops, which from time immemorial has crushed the manhood and self-respect out of the average bakeshop worker.

The operative bakers have in all ages and in all countries been regarded as the helots among the helots. As far as there is a history of that trade, it shows that their daily hours of labor were always excessive, their treatment on the part of the average employers always bad, and their compensation comparatively lower than that of other workmen.

They were, and are still, in the majority of bakeshops, looked upon as the slaves of the household rather than as workingmen, with rights equal to that of the employers. Their scarce time, if, indeed, leisure they enjoy any at all, is very frequently occupied with all manner of menial services for the employer and his family, and as a result of this almost incessant drudgery their intellectual status naturally remained below the standard of other wageworkers, presenting further cause for continuance of their inferior and almost slavish condition.

The United States in this differs not in the least from European countries. There are many thousands of bakers in the leading cities of this country to-day, whose condition is as bad, if not in many respects worse, than that of the slaves of the South.

Many of them, in spite of reforms of the past, effected by the unions, still work seven days in the week, and their hours of continuous toil amount daily to 14, 18 and even 20 and 22 hours. Therefore, the only salvation of the journeymen bakers lies with legislation in the direction of these laws, better organization of his craft, and the mutual co-operation of the two forces. The success of this alliance, supported by the progressive employing baker, and backed by popular good will, will be productive of lasting good for the entire community.

BAKESHOP INSPECTION IN OHIO.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Up to within the last few years it has been the almost universal belief, especially so in this country, that bread, after leaving the oven (that means to say after having undergone the process of baking) was in a sterilized condition, and consequently a perfectly healthy article of food. Chemical analysis, however, has shown, and conclusively proven, that such is not the case. It is now an acknowledged and indisputable fact, that the first requisite to produce a healthy article of food is not only good ingredients, but clean workmen, and first, last and forever a bakeshop clean in every respect, roomy, well ventilated and above ground.

While in Europe, first of all in England, proper sanitary bakeshop laws were passed many years ago, but it was not until the year 1894 that agitation for the same purpose was taken up in this country, and then by the Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners' International Union of America; the main object of that organization being the betterment of the physical and moral condition of the men employed in the trade by providing clean, healthy workshops in which to labor in place of dirty, filthy, underground holes, where the atmosphere in most cases was completely poisoned by the gasses continually escaping from sewer, gas and other pipes, destroying the life of the employe by inches, no means of ventilation, with damp walls and often infested by vermin of all kinds. The statistics of the health offices in some of the large cities of the country prove that the mortality among the journeymen bakers was greater than that of any other class of workmen. No one can longer be in doubt that such places are unfit for the manufacture and storage of the most needed article of food.

Thanks to the liberal support given to the cause by the press and some well-meaning men and women, the agitation for remedying these evils soon began in earnest, and the first Bakeshop Law in the United States was passed in the year 1895, in the State of New York, the States Minnesota, Maryland, Massachusetts, Ohio, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and the province of Ontario, Canada, soon taking steps in the same direction. The Pennsylvania law even abolishing Sunday work and prohibiting the employment of children under 14 years of age.

The Ohio Bakeshop Law was passed April 27, 1896, and two inspectors appointed, one for the southern district, comprising forty counties, with Cincinnati as its headquarters, and one for the northern district, comprising forty-eight counties, with Cleveland as headquarters, subject to orders of the Chief Inspector. Your humble servant being one of the two inspectors, was requested to give a short resume of his experience during the few months of bakeshop inspecting. I entered upon my official duties in December, 1896, and have so far inspected and reinspected about 400 places where meal food products are manufactured—at Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo, Sandusky, Akron, Canton, Massillon, Norwalk and other places in the northern district, the inspector for the southern district having, so far as I have learned, visited about the same number of places, making a little over 800 inspections. This number will be vastly increased when a thorough inspection of the State has been completed. Contrary to my expectation, however, I found from the beginning most of the shops in a much better general condition that I had anticipated, many of the bosses having prepared for the visit, as ample time had intervened between the passage of the act and the appointment of the inspectors to allow them to do so, and the daily papers had for weeks previous heralded the coming inspection.

The provisions of the law to be carried out were very conservative, but still, in spite of the preparation, orders for changes to be made in almost every place were issued, which consisted chiefly in cleaning, whitewashing, repairing floors, putting in drainage pipes, erecting and changing water-closets and sinks, providing for proper ventilation and better protection against accident from machinery, wheels, belts, etc., and in and outlets, which orders were found on reinspection thirty days later to be, in almost every instance, readily complied with. Five cellar bakeries were entirely closed, the owners finding it unprofitable to make the ordered alterations.

For the more strict enforcement of the law, which, in spite of the supervision, is violated by some enterprising, though unscrupulous landlords, compelling their tenants to either submit to their dictations or to move from one place to another, there should be appointed at least two additional bakeshop inspectors for the State of Ohio, the territory to be inspected and reinspected being a large one indeed, it is utterly impossible for two inspectors to do the work faithfully and conscientiously. Constant supervision is absolutely needed to keep many of the smaller bosses who are under the thumb of their landlords and suffering from their greed, from falling back, for the sake of economy, into their old habits.

One thing I desire to especially emphasize is the abolition, as soon as possible, of all underground bakeshops or storage rooms for food products, in either raw or manufactured state, as they can not, even with the greatest care, be kept in such condition as would warrant the manufactured or raw article from contamination with the impurities of such underground places. I also suggest that the inspector be clothed with authority to not only inspect premises, shelves, utensils used, etc., but also the ingredients out of which the staff of life is produced; in short, everything that is required to furnish the community with a healthy product. This would insure the use of pure and unadulterated materials, clean workshops in which to manufacture, and good, healthy workmen to turn out the product.

The Ohio law provides that no employe shall work longer than ten hours per day, or sixty hours in one week. The act in this respect is frequently violated in many small shops under some pretext or other. Knowing from personal experience, having worked at the trade all my lifetime. that the work can be satisfactorily done in ten hours, I can see no good reason why some bakeshop employes are compelled to work from two to four hours longer per day than prescribed by law. I believe, also, that the law should be so amended as to prohibit the employment of people under 18 years of age during the night. The law being only in its experimental stage, our progress must necessarily be slow, but the results achieved are good so far, and time will doubtless show that when once the public fully understands the great benefit to be derived from sanitary inspection of bakeshops, the department will have the hearty co-operation of every law abiding citizen of the State of Ohio in endeavoring to enforce the Bakeshop Act. I hope to hear suggestions from longer experienced and more competent inspectors than myself, which will tend to ultimately remedy the still existing evils.

In conclusion, I trust that in our humane work we shall continue to enjoy the good wishes and hearty support of every person interested in the public welfare, and that the same beneficial laws will soon be adopted by ever State and Territory in the Union.

CONNECTICUT'S NEW BAKESHOP LAW, AND WHAT IT IS ACCOM-PLISHING.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

At the January session of the General Assembly of Connecticut a bill was introduced, at the request of the Connecticut State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, entitled "An act concerning the manufacture of flour and meal food products, and sanitary condition of bakeshops," which read as follows:

First. This act may be cited as the "Bakery Inspection Law of 1897."
Second. In the construction of this law the word "bakeshop" shall mean any building, premises, workshop, structure room, or place wherein
